

Read Married at First Sight Chapter 2483

Married at First Sight Chapter 2483-Carrie: "Open the door; I want to go in!"

Under Callum's glare, Carrie did not dare call Blind Woman in front of him anymore but still insisted on going in.

Callum said coldly, "Are you deaf? Didn't you hear what Camryn said? She can't see, and it's inconvenient to open the door for you. If you want to come in, open the door yourself. If you can't open the door, just stay outside."

"I don't have a key; how can I get in? The door is locked!" Carrie was furious.

If she had the key, she wouldn't have had to bow to Camryn; she would have opened the door and entered.

Callum supported his fiancée and said warmly, "It's hot outside, Camryn; I'll help you go back into the house."

It was as if Callum didn't hear what Carrie said.

Camryn actually let Callum help her walk back.

"Camryn, open the door; this is my home; I want to go home!"

Callum turned his head and glanced at her with cold eyes. Carrie did not dare to speak and was angry. She watched the two people walk further and further away until their figures disappeared into the main house.

Carrie was so angry that she stamped her feet. She shook the empty door of the villa and shouted the name of the previous butler, but she didn't see the butler come out. She called the names of other servants, but she didn't see any of them.

Finally seeing a servant, she immediately shouted loudly, "Hey, come here and open the door for me. I am the second young lady, and this is my home!"

Carrie called many people's names but did not see anyone. She assumed that Camryn had taken the place of all the house's servants when she came out.

The hatred for Camryn in her heart became stronger.

The servant came over, examined Carrie for a moment, and then said, "I have never met the second lady. I don't know what the second lady looks like. I am not sure whether you are the second lady. I can't open the door for you."

Carrie: "Hey, you really don't know what the second lady looks like? There is a family photo of our family in the house. Haven't you seen my photo?"

The servant replied honestly: "I am responsible for the sanitation work in the yard and rarely enter the main house. I really haven't seen the second lady's photo. If you are really the second lady, why didn't you open the door for you when the eldest lady came out just now?"

"That blind woman, Camryn, did it on purpose. My parents were harmed by her. When she becomes the boss, she no longer takes me seriously. Let me tell you, I am the master of this family. That blind woman, Camryn, is just living under someone else's roof. She is my second uncle's daughter, not my father's daughter."

Carrie disregarded the fact that Camryn's biological father had left her an inheritance in this villa, which originally belonged to her second uncle. Carrie was the one who was living in someone else's house and wanted to claim it as her own.

Seeing that this unfamiliar servant did not show her face, Carrie asked about the previous servants and butlers.

Her mother had trained those individuals to be confidants.

After her parents were in, those people should stay here to guard the home for her parents, waiting for her to come out.

Besides, her brother, Trenton, was still outside.

"They resigned a long time ago. Who knows where they are now? I'm not familiar with them, so I don't know." After the servant answered, he said, "I'm going to do something."

After that, he turned and left.