

Read Married at First Sight Chapter 2509

Married at First Sight Chapter 2509-Zachary refused without thinking. He said, "I'd better walk and watch your sister-in-law from behind. She's tired from walking, so I can carry her back."

Callum: "Brother, you are too doting on your wife. We are about to be swept to death. Leave us a way to survive."

Serenity was a person who had done boxing and martial arts. Even if she was pregnant, her stomach didn't show it yet. She was now expecting again. If she got sick in the morning, it wouldn't change Serenity's plan to walk. Why did Zachary have to walk so far and then have to carry Serenity on his back?

Zachary said innocently, "I just do what I want to do, and I sincerely consider my wife. I don't want to get involved with anyone."

After Callum choked, he smiled and said, "Yes, yes, brother, I don't want to get involved with anyone. Brother, you're setting an example for us; we all learn from you. Brother, you really don't want to get in the car? Then I'll leave first."

Seeing that Zachary still refused to go with Callum, Callum had to drive away by himself.

After catching up with the three women in front of him, Callum slowed down and honked the car horn.

Rosella turned around to see Callum, glared at him, and said to him, "Hang the horn; you're making a lot of noise; don't scare my daughter-in-law."

"Mom." Callum smiled flatteringly. "Would you like to get in the car? Camryn brought a lot of things to you. I can't carry so much by myself. I might as well drive to the door of the house and stop."

"You drive your car. We won't get in the car. We'll walk slowly, chat, appreciate each other, and enjoy the scenery."

Wildridge Manor was full of scenery all year round.

This was not the first time Camryn came to Wildridge Manor, but she had been blind in the past. Even if Callum took her away and told her what was in the manor, she would not be able to see it.

After regaining the light, she could only see things up close, while things further away still looked blurry.

Walking slowly, she could enjoy the beautiful scenery of the entire manor.

Callum looked at Camryn, and Camryn smiled back at him.

Callum drove away with a smile, fearing that if he walked slowly, his mother would scold him for disturbing their chat.

After honking the horn several times, everyone said he was scared of Camryn.

That was the person he held dear to his heart. He couldn't bear to scare Camryn. Besides, Camryn wasn't that weak and wouldn't be scared.

"Camryn, this is your home too. When you come back, don't buy so many things for us. We don't lack anything. As long as you young people are free on weekends, come back to accompany us old people, eat, and talk. The new things outside make us happier than giving us gifts. We are old and don't like to go out and walk around. We stay in the manor every day, which is very boring. At most, we can play cards to relieve our boredom."

Listening to Rosella's words, Serenity secretly covered her mouth and laughed.

She knew that the elders in the family were living a wonderful retirement life.

Camryn said warmly, "Mom, if you don't mind, Callum and I will come back on weekends."

"How can I mind? You are still young and don't understand the loneliness of us elderly people. When we get older, we will look forward to having children and grandchildren, and I hope that our children and grandchildren can always accompany us, old guys."

Camryn: "Mom, you are all still young, not old at all."

The wives of the York family were well-maintained and looked like they were in their thirties.

After Camryn regained her sight, she met her mother-in-law-to-be and marveled at her youth. The mother-in-law and daughter-in-law stood together like two sisters.

Serenity chuckled at the side. “Camryn, you didn’t hear the key point of Aunt’s words. The key point of her words is that the house is full of children and grandchildren, and she wants to have grandchildren.”

Camryn’s face flew up. She said generously, “Callum and I can get married at any time, but having children will probably take a few years.”

“Are you encountering difficulties?” Serenity asked her with concern.

Married at First Sight Chapter 2510-Rosella also looked at Camryn.

Rosella wanted to have a grandchild. If the young people didn’t want to have a baby yet or the reality was not suitable yet, she could wait. There was no need to wait for a few more years, as long as the young people didn’t take the DINK route.

Really going the DINK route...

It was difficult for them to accept it as elders for a while, but as time went by, they were able to accept it.

The children had grown up. They had their own ideas about the life they wanted to live. As long as the children were happy and felt happy, that’s fine.

“Are you tired? Why don’t you go first and sit in the pavilion?” Rosella asked Camryn when they arrived at a pavilion.

Camryn said, “I’m not tired.”

When she arrived, she wanted to go inside and say hello to everyone, but when she arrived, she sat under the pavilion.

“Dr. Carden said that my current body is having difficulty with childbirth, and I need to take medicine for a period of time to recuperate. But I have to wait until my eyes stop taking medicine before prescribing me medicine to recuperate my body.” Camryn told the truth calmly.

It's better to let your husband's family know as early as possible so that everyone can be mentally prepared, so as not to worry the elders if she doesn't get pregnant for a long time after marriage.

Hearing this, Rosella asked with concern, "Dr. Carden, did she say it could be treated?"

Camryn had a bad life before, and she would have some physical problems that needed to be treated. Rosella could understand.

At the same time, she resented her in-laws very much. She didn't understand. Even if she didn't love her ex-husband, wasn't her daughter her biological child? She was also born in ten months of pregnancy. How could Mrs. Newman be so partial?

For Carrie, the little daughter, Mrs. Newman held her hands for fear of falling and her mouth for fear of melting.

For Camryn, the eldest daughter, even if she didn't love her, she always abused her and even wanted her life.

Camryn was blessed with great fortune and survived several deaths, but ended up blind for ten years and suffered from damaged health, which made it difficult to give birth.

She resented the partiality, callousness, and indifference of her relatives and felt sorry for Camryn's experience.

She is such a smart and beautiful daughter; if she were born into the York family, she would be a doted-on princess.

How could she bear to mistreat her?

Serenity also looked at Camryn with concern.

She herself was in love with Zachary for a year before she got pregnant. Before she got pregnant, people outside were saying behind her back that she had not been pregnant for so long and suspected that she was infertile.

Even if Zachary explained it specifically, how many people would believe it?

People outside didn't say anything. Her husband's grandmother was worried about this matter and sent a medicine list to her mother-in-law, saying that after taking those medicines, she could regulate her body and get pregnant successfully.

She knew what kind of pressure she would face if she was not pregnant for a long time after marriage, and she would also become anxious and extremely stressed.

“Dr. Carden said it could be cured. She said I was in poor health before. Fortunately, I met her and was able to recover. If it had taken longer, there would be little hope. She prescribed me medicine to treat it, and I took the medicine for a year and a half. I’ll be fine with it. If I switch to another doctor to take care of me, it will probably take two years or even longer.”

After hearing that Lilian could help Camryn take care of her health, Rosella and Serenity were relieved.

Rosella said, “As long as you can adjust well, get married first. You and your husband can live in a two-person world for a few years, and it won’t be too late to have children.”