

Mistaken Marriage, Unexpected Love

Chapter 27

Chapter 27 Pregnant With Twins

When Debora mentioned Camila's name, Willie didn't show her that he knew Camila. He simply repeated Debora's words to Isaac in verbatim. Hearing this, Isaac's expression softened somewhat.

He wasn't expecting Debora would intercede for Camila. "TI help her," Isaac agreed readily.

But it wasn't because of Debora that he agreed so easily. It was because he didn't want Camila to go out again, parading as a barmaid, because she didn't have a job. He also didn't want her talking with other men about nasty things on the Internet!

He still couldn't believe she had said such things to a stranger online! "Okay," Willie answered. After hanging up the phone, he conveyed Isaac's words to Debora.

Despite the fact that Isaac had agreed to help her, Debora wasn't happy. After all, Isaac still refused to see her. The following day, Camila went to work at the dance studio, as usual. But today, Elva rushed up to her and gave her a big hug. "Mr. Johnston decided to invest. Oh, my goodness! Thank you so much for your help. Did he do anything to you when he took you away?"

Camila shook her head. "No."

Just then, her phone rang. It was Debora calling.

Frowning, Camila hesitated for a moment before finally answering the phone. Debora's voice sounded from the other end of the line, saying, "I'm sorry for what happened yesterday, Camila. I was too impulsive. Please don't be mad at me. To make it up to you, I've asked Isaac for help.

Thanks to him, your internship in the Military Central Hospital will start today. It starts at nine, okay?" @

Camila frowned. It was out of character for Debora to help her.

But Camila didn't want to let this opportunity slip from her fingers, so she said, "Okay."

After getting off the phone with Debora, she resigned from the job as a dance teacher. Elva was very easy-going and even paid her upfront.

"Here's your salary," she said with a good-natured smile

It was twenty thousand. @

Camila hadn't worked here for very long, and she knew that her salary wasn't that big. She took the money she deserved and left the rest with Elva.

Looking at the money Camila handed back to her, Elva knew that Camila was a good person. "If you need any help, just come to me. I'll do whatever I can."

"Thank you, Elva," Camila said sincerely.

As soon as she settled things at the dance studio, Camila went straight to the Military Central Hospital. It was about nine o'clock when she arrived.

Debora took her straight to the director of their department.

The director was a middle-aged male doctor. He asked Camila to follow Debora around. After all, Debora had been here for a few days and knew the ropes, more or less. Camila nodded obediently.

Of course, Debora had tampered with the process. She was still an intern and by no means qualified to teach other interns, but she had used her relationship with Isaac to make it happen. When Camila was picking out a uniform, Debora went straight to the point. "When did you marry Isaac?"

Camila smiled knowingly. She knew that Debora wasn't that kind. Sure enough, she soon showed her true colors. "I'm sorry, I can't tell you that," she said calmly.

Forcing a smile, Debora said deliberately, "It doesn't matter. Isaac told me that you two aren't married because you like each other..."

The expression on Camila's face remained calm. But her mind was in turmoil.

She looked at Debora, seething at the thought that she and Isaac got along well.

Seeing that Camila had fallen silent, Debora knew that she had hit the nail on the head.

It turned out that Camila and Isaac's relationship wasn't normal. If a wife knew that her husband was cheating, wouldn't she get angry and question him?

But it seemed that Camila didn't give a damn about what her husband was up to.

As soon as Camila got her uniform, she suddenly felt sick.

"I'm going to the bathroom."

Without waiting for a response, she left Debora and scurried off. Something felt terribly wrong.

Her period should've come a long time ago.

Despite being in denial, she still went to the pharmacy to buy a pregnancy test.

It was positive

Camila looked at the test result, wide-eyed and shocked to the bone. She had taken contraceptives. How could she be pregnant?! Although, she did forget to take a second pill after Isaac caught her...

But even a single contraceptive pill should've been 80% effective. Besides, she and that man only had sex once! Camila sat on the toilet, lost in thought.

She didn't know what to do.

Unable to accept the fact that she was pregnant, she calmed herself down and went to the Obstetrics department to get an ultrasound.

Perhaps the pregnancy test was wrong.

But the ultrasound proved that she was nearly two months' pregnant. "Congratulations! You're having twins!" «

Camila was completely stunned. Not only was she pregnant, but she was pregnant with twins.

"Doctor, are you sure?" she asked in a hoarse voice.

"Yes, I'm sure. You're pregnant with twins. See for yourself—there are two gestational sacs." The doctor moved the monitor so that Camila could get a proper look.

Sure enough, there were two clear blobs on the screen, She didn't know what to feel

"But you seem pretty exhausted. That's not good for the babies. You should get more rest," the doctor said with concern.

Camila nodded. "Okay, doc."

She stood up and walked out of the examination room with a copy of the test results.

As soon as Camila left, Debora snuck into the examination room. She soon found out from the doctor that Camila was pregnant with twins.

Debora was so angry that she gritted her teeth and wanted to kill Camila on the spot!

How could she have a chance with Isaac if he found out that Camila was carrying his children?

No way in hell was Debora going to let that bitch get in the way of her plans!

Debora soon returned to Camila and pretended as if nothing had happened. With a smile, she said, "It's your first day on the job. Tonight, you and I will cover the night shift together."

Without protest, Camila simply nodded.

There was a surgery scheduled in the afternoon. The attending doctor was their supervisor, and the two of them had to oversee the necessary preparations for the surgery. In addition, they both had to observe the surgery to learn. This was common practice in the medical field, especially if they wanted to become an attending doctor here.

Camila prepared everything and watched the surgical process carefully. Debora, on the other hand, was in no mood to work.

She kept glancing at Camila's belly.

Camila was so focused on her work that she completely forgot about her pregnancy.

After the surgery, Camila was exhausted, but they still had to cover the night shift.

Debora handed her a glass of water, which she drank without qualms. Moments later, she became incredibly drowsy. @

Soon, she completely passed out...

"Mila? Mila..."

Camila vaguely heard someone calling her. She slowly peeled her eyes open and found that her whole body was in pain, which made her wince. "Where am I?" she asked weakly.

Indeed, her surroundings looked unfamiliar.

"In my car," Forrest answered.

With one hand on her belly, Camila struggled to sit up and look around. "What am I doing here?"

Wasn't she supposed to be on duty?

"I found you unconscious in the basement parking. I left something in the hospital, so I came back to get it, but then I saw you. What're you doing here?" At first, Forrest thought he mistook someone else as her, but when he approached, he found that it was really Camila.

"I'm an intern here," Camila explained.

"Isaac forgave you?" Forrest's eyebrows shot up in surprise.

Struggling to recall what had happened, Camila remembered that Debora had handed her a glass of water, and then..

Camila soon realized why she had passed out in the parking lot.

As a doctor, she knew all about drugs.

Unfortunately, Camila didn't notice that her water was spiked,

What did Debora do to Camila after she passed out?

Feeling a stomachache, Camila hurriedly lifted the hem of her clothes to check her belly.

Sure enough, there was a hole the size of a needle on her stomach.

Her eyes widened in shock.

Debora knew that she was pregnant? It seemed that she gave Camila an amniocentesis while she was out cold...

"Camila! What the hell are you doing?!"

As soon as Isaac received the distress call from Forrest, he rushed to the hospital at once. But the moment he arrived, he caught Camila lifting her clothes in front of another man.

What in the world was this woman thinking? How shameless she was!