

Chapter 1468 She Is Angry

Janet bit her lip. Fear, sadness, timidity, and other emotions that she had tried so hard to suppress were instantly turned into grievances as she heard Brandon's pleas.

Her eyes turned red, and she quickly wiped away her tears before they fell.

After a long while, she finally calmed down. She turned around and looked at Brandon, who was at a loss. She pretended to be calm and said, "I won't bother you anymore. Do you know who my parents are? Can you help me contact them?"

Brandon felt remorseful when he saw the redness in Janet's eyes. He reached out and apologized, "I'm sorry. I didn't mean that..."

However, before he could touch her, Janet interrupted him, "Mr. Larson, could you please contact my parents as soon as possible? It would be best if you could do so now," she said as she forced a smile.

Brandon tightened his grip on his phone and replied hoarsely, "Rest assured, it's very safe here. If you ever need anything, I can get someone to buy it."

He couldn't let Johanna and Beal take Janet away. Otherwise, knowing their tempers, it would be hard for him to see her again.

Moreover, he had searched for Janet for a long time and had finally found her. He wanted to stay with her longer to get her to recognize him again.

However, Janet was adamant about leaving. "Please contact my parents," she said firmly.

Brandon stared at her for a while, and he knew there was no room for negotiation. He had no choice but to contact her parents.

"What? You found Janet? How is she? Is she hurt?" Johanna asked, overjoyed.

Looking at the expectant look on Janet's face, Brandon replied, "She's fine. Please come over. I will tell you the details when you're here."

Johanna and Beal exchanged surprised glances. "I'll be there soon," Johanna said decisively.

After Brandon hung up the phone, Janet realized he looked a little depressed. "What did my parents say?" she asked expectantly.

Brandon felt gloomy at the thought that Janet would be leaving soon. He lowered his eyes and muttered, "They will pick you up soon."

Janet was thrilled by the news and said excitedly, "Thank you!"

Although Brandon was upset about her leaving, he was happy to see her excited. "Aren't you in a hurry to recover your memory? I'll get my medical team on your case," he offered.

Janet nodded, her eyes shining brightly.

Brandon couldn't help smiling when she agreed. He immediately called Frank and got him to bring his medical team over.

"The medical team is very skilled. Your memories will be recovered in no time," he assured her.

Janet nodded vigorously when suddenly, she remembered that Brandon hadn't had breakfast yet. "By the way, are you hungry? I'll cook you some noodles, okay?" she said.

"I can eat the breakfast Garrett sent," Brandon said as he rejected her offer. He didn't want Janet to overwork herself.

However, Janet frowned and said, "The food is already cold. It's no longer good for consumption. As a patient, you have to take good care of yourself. Please eat more nutritious meals."

Without giving Brandon any room for negotiation, she took the cold breakfast away and went to the kitchen to prepare a delicious and nutritious meal of noodles.

As Brandon ate the noodles Janet made, the familiar taste warmed his heart, but it also made him a little sad.

He was delighted to eat her cooking again. Unfortunately, she couldn't remember who he was.
