Chapter 271 Bryan walked in the moment Thea took her seat. With a bright smile, he said, "You've arrived, Ms. Thea." Saying that, he snapped his fingers. A row of waiters walked in with gifts in their hands. There were dresses, necklaces, and handbags. "Ms. Thea, I took my time looking for these." Thea frowned. Bryan had been very friendly to her every time they met. She had refused his gifts many times now.

"Mr. Grayson, how thoughtful of you." Gladys stood up and accepted the gifts. "Mom, what are you doing? We can't accept them," Thea hurriedly spoke. Gladys said with a smile, "We shouldn't let Mr. Grayson's efforts go to waste." "Indeed," Bryan said, "These aren't worth much anyway."

"I'll accept them on behalf of Thea," Gladys said with a bright smile.

She had accepted so many gifts that her arms had gotten tired.

After presenting the gifts, Bryan made his way out.

Zavier bowed deeply.

His actions puzzled the Callahans.

Meanwhile, Thea glanced at James.

He had remained silent the entire conversation.

Thea murmured in her heart, 'Could it be that the mysterious Mr. Caden went to find Xavier after knowing he sent gifts to my house?' She believed that was what happened. Otherwise, why would Xavier change his mind and even begin showing her respect in just a day? He was showing her respect because of the mysterious Mr. Caden. Thinking about the mysterious Mr. Caden, her heart skipped a beat.

Though he had a crush on her, he remained silent after knowing she was married. He even secretly dealt with Xavier and tried matchmaking her and James. James, on the other hand, was petty. He did not trust her and even trailed her.

Thinking about this, Thea felt more and more disheartened.

Chapter 272

He rolled over Thea had her back to him. She was wearing a nightgown. However, it was a slip dress. Her fair skin was fully exposed. James asked, tentatively, "Honey, do you secretly think I'm not worthy of you?"

Thea rolled over.

Their gazes met.

"Nonsense. I've never looked down on you."

James continued, "Do you believe deep down that only someone like the mysterious Mr. Caden is worthy of you?" Seeing that he had seen through her, Thea panicked a little. She hurriedly explained, "N-No such thing. Since I've married you, I'm your wife. As long as you don't betray me, I'll never divorce you."

him to find a job

He believed it was time to find one. Even if he was not going to work, he should at least hold a nominal position. That way, outsiders would stop accusing him of leeching off the Callahans, and Thea would finally be able to lift her head high.

However, what kind of position should he go for? The vice-president of Transgenerational Group?

The vice-president of Majestic Corporation?

James was at a loss.

Chapter 273

He felt that no one would believe that the son-in-law of the Callahans could be the vice president of a large corporation. Perhaps a bodyguard or a driver sounded more believable. James went to Common Clinic to discuss the matter with Henry. Meanwhile, Thea had gone to Pacific Group. After taking over the company, she focused on straightening out its operations. Today, while she was inspecting the company's accounts, she noticed there were still outstanding debts uncollected. She picked up the phone and called Larry, the vice-president. "Come to my office."

Soon, Larry arrived. "Ms. Thea, I'm here!"

Thea looked at the accounts and frowned. "Larry, why are there still thirty million worth of debt uncollected?"

Upon hearing this, Larry winced. "Ms. Thea, the company that owes us is Purity Pharmaceuticals. We've been their main supplier for the first half of the year. After receiving our supplies, however, they told us something was wrong with our products, and they refused to pay us. We went to the government seeking help but to no avail. After all, Purity Pharmaceuticals is a powerful and influential organization."

continued, "We hired a lawyer to prosecute them in court, but we lost. Ever since then, our factory operations have been attacked by unknown persons. Because of that, no corporations would purchase from us. Without the thirty million, Pacific Group had a

Immediately, she shook her head.

“Thea Callahan, you have to stop depending on others. Even if you were the one who saved his life, he’s helped you out plenty of times now. You shouldn’t bother him anymore.” Thea decided to go to Purity Pharmaceuticals personally. She would find the person in charge and demand the payment of thirty million dollars.

Chapter 274 After realizing that the company had thirty million dollars of debt still uncollected, Thea immediately found the relevant documents and scrutinized them. First, she looked through the order agreement between Pacific Group and Purity Pharmaceuticals.

It was stated in the agreement that payment would be made with each delivery of goods and would only stop when 50% of the total payment had been made.

The remaining 50% payment would only be made after the rest of the goods were delivered and had undergone inspection. Pacific Group had been making the orders of Purity Pharmaceuticals for the first half of the year.

However, after all the goods had been delivered, Purity Pharmaceuticals refused to pay the remaining 50%, claiming something was wrong with the quality of the products. As such, Pacific Group initiated proceedings against Purity Pharmaceuticals.

However, Purity Pharmaceuticals was a large corporation and had an established legal team. In court, they presented relevant evidence on the substandard quality of the medicine supplied

Pacific Group lost the case and slid into a crisis.

After reading the relevant documents, Thea frowned.

The moment she left, someone walked in.

It was a thirty-year-old man in a black suit with sleek hair. Four muscular bodyguards in suits and ties wearing sunglasses followed close behind. "Mr. Kaffenberger..." The receptionist immediately came forward and said respectfully, "Thea Callahan was just here looking for you. She said she came on behalf of Pacific Group. I drove her away as I was sure she came for the incident behind the court case."

"Oh? Thea Callahan from Pacific Group?"

Walter stopped in his tracks.

The receptionist pointed at Thea, who was still at the gates. "She's not out of the gates yet."

"Alright, got it." Walter lightly waved and walked toward Thea. "Are you Thea Callahan?" Hearing that, Thea turned and noticed a somewhat handsome thirty-year-old man approaching her. She nodded, "Yes, I'm Thea, and you are?" Walter held his hand out. "Hello, Ms. Thea. I'm Walter Kaffenberger, the executive director of Purity Pharmaceuticals."

Chapter 275 "Ah, you're Mr. Kaffenberger?" Delighted, Thea immediately shook his hand. However, Walter clasped her hand and did not loosen his grip. Thea hurriedly retracted her hand, Walter scrutinized her.

She was indeed a glamorous and elegant woman.

As expected of the number one beauty in all of Cansington.

He heard she had connections with plenty of bigwigs. However, he was undaunted.

"Ms. Thea, I heard you're here on behalf of Pacific Group." He scanned from her head to her toe with a satisfied look.

"Yes, I'm now the chairman of Pacific Group. As there were some disputes between Pacific Group and your company, I believe we should have a talk to straighten things out." "I see. Let's go to my office, then."

Walter made a welcoming gesture.

Or maybe hundreds of millions? Anything for you." "Mr. Kaffenberger, is there really no way around this?" "What? Do you not understand my words?" Walter's face darkened, and he said coldly, "I told you to stop bringing this up." "In that case, we'll meet in court."

Walter laughed.

Walter scrutinized Thea.

The more he looked at her, the more attractive she seemed.

Her figure and her features were just... Mhm... Perfection! "Walter, I'll pretend this conversation never happened."

Saying that, she turned toward the bodyguard blocking her way and bellowed, "Out of my way!"

"Let her leave."

Walter grinned mischievously. He knew she would be back before long, crawling into his bed and servicing him.

Chapter 276 Thea left Purity Pharmaceuticals

"Perfect. A gem!"

Walter was still immersed in Thea's beauty and could not return to his senses.

There was desire written all over his face.

He had long heard of Thea but had never seen her in person. He finally witnessed her beauty for himself today. He took out his phone and dialed a number. "Come see me right now."

Soon, a long-haired man dressed in a yellow t-shirt and with a slovenly appearance showed up with a bright smile. "Mr. Walter, is something the matter?"

"Get some men to go to cause some trouble at the Pacific Manufacturing Factory. Don't go overboard with it. Just do enough so that they're unable to operate normally," Walter instructed.

"Sure thing! That won't be a problem!"

"Thea, I warned you. You'll be coming back to beg me very soon," Walter muttered with a playful smile.

She refused to betray James. Thea sat in the office in a daze.

In the afternoon, Larry revisited her office and reported that the group of troublemakers had severely disrupted the factory's normal operation. Thea was helpless with the situation and could only temporarily shut down the factory, giving the employees a day off work

James visited Henry to discuss a nominal job title. Henry had no helpful suggestion about such things.

James thought about it and decided to assign himself a role in the Transgenerational Group to satisfy Thea. However, he was not in a hurry either. He went back after staying at Henry's place for the whole morning. In the afternoon, he stayed at home.

In the evening, Thea finally returned home.

She looked depressed.

James set up the meal and asked, "Honey, we can have dinner now. You seem a little down. Did something happen?" "N-nothing happened."

Thea waved her hands and dismissed the question. It was not that she did not want to share her troubles, but it was useless to tell James about these things as it would only add to his problems.

Chapter 277 Gladys sensed that there was something off about Thea. "Thea, what's the matter? Why're you frowning?" she asked out of concern. "I'm alright, Mom." "Alright? It's written all over your face."

"S-Something happened at the company. Purity Pharmaceuticals owes the Pacific Group thirty million dollars for some goods. I went to Purity Pharmaceuticals today and..." Thea explained helplessly.

Thea retold the whole story to them.

"Tsk. I never expected Purity Pharmaceuticals to have such a powerful background with both people from the underworld and law. Not only did I not get back the money, but I even got us in trouble."

"Go get help from Mr. Caden. He's very influential, so it should be easy for him to solve the problem for you," Gladys said out of the blue.

"I-I'll consider it."

Thea ate in a rush and went back to rest in the room. She was exhausted and did not feel like thinking about these problems for the time being.

Meanwhile, James secretly took note of the situation.

After eating, he cleaned up the mess, collected the dirty dishes, and washed them. It took him more than half an hour to finish tidying up the kitchen. Then, he walked out with a garbage bag. "Mom, I'm going to take out the trash.

Henry shook his head helplessly and drove to pick up James. James waited on the roadside for about half an hour before Henry showed up. He opened the passenger door and frowned when he saw Whitney sitting inside. Henry explained, "She insisted on coming. I had no choice, James."

Whitney squeezed her fist and gestured a few martial art moves. Then, she said, "I've learned martial arts before, and I won't embarrass you, James!" "That's enough. Go sit in the back." He grabbed Whitney and pulled her out of the seat. James got into the passenger seat.

Whitney hurriedly opened the back door and got back into the back seat. "What happened, James?"

“Purity Pharmaceuticals are fools to mess with Thea. Head to Purity Pharmaceuticals. I want to see who this Walter is to dare to provoke my wife,” James said with a displeased expression.

Chapter 278 Henry did not manage to get an answer and simply drove to Purity Pharmaceuticals’ headquarters.

When they arrived, Purity Pharmaceuticals’ employees had already left work, and the entire building was pitch black

“James, it’s almost ten, and there isn’t anyone left. Why don’t we come back tomorrow?”

“What tomorrow? Head to Purity Pharmaceuticals’ factory.”

“Alright.”

Henry turned around and went to Purity Pharmaceuticals’ factory.

Walter was in a clubhouse and entangled with a young model.

His phone rang.

Seeing that it was the factory manager, he answered the phone and impatiently scolded him,” Steven, do you have a death wish? Why’re you calling me at night?” “M-Mr. Walter, we have a problem! A huge problem! There are three hundred excavators and more than one thousand people outside the factory right now. It’s a terrifying scene, and it seems they want to raze Purity Pharmaceuticals' factory to the ground." "To the people inside, listen carefully! Immediately disperse and get out. Otherwise, don't blame us if anyone innocent gets hurt..."

Walter could hear the shouting through the speakers at the factory. Walter immediately cursed out, "Are they crazy? I want to see who dares to cause trouble in our factory today!" He hung up the phone and made another phone call immediately. "Dawson, there's a problem at the factory. Get three thousand people to support us at the factory instantly!" He hung up and made another phone call. "Mr. Zaborowski, something has happened. Send a thousand specialized police unit officers to the Purity Pharmaceuticals' factory immediately!" After making two consecutive phone calls, Walter dressed up and left the clubhouse. He ran multiple red lights on the way and speeded to the factory. James and Henry arrived exceptionally late. However, they did not make an appearance and simply watched from the car. The 300 excavators and thousands of people shocked those present. The factory manager was worried about accidents, so he immediately dismissed all the overtime workers.

Soon, everyone working fled the factory. "Bring it down..." Standing on an excavator in front, a man dressed in black clothing and a black hat gave the order.

Chapter 279 With the order, the 300 excavators started moving simultaneously.

300 hundred engines began to roar in an instant.

Buzz...

The sound was deafening like an earthquake, and even the grounds trembled slightly. Suddenly, a car quickly approached, and a middle-aged chubby man got out of the vehicle. He stood before the excavator and shouted, "How dare you?!!"

The man was Peter Dawson, more commonly known as Dawson. He was one of the most prominent gangsters in the criminal world of Cansington. Following Dawson's appearance, 3,000 men dressed in black and holding iron rods appeared. They instantly surrounded the 300 excavators and 1,000 people. Seeing that Dawson arrived with some men, Henry asked, "What should we do now, James?" James waved his hand and said, "Don't worry. We'll wait for Walter to arrive first. That man has a death wish for being interested in my wife and causing her trouble at the factory."

Dawson glanced at the man dressed in black standing on the first excavator and said coldly, "Eric, what is the meaning of this? Don't you know that I've got shares in Purity Pharmaceuticals? A voice sounded Hearing the voice, Dawson looked up.

Seeing James approaching, Dawson's legs instantly went weak, and his body fell to the ground. James came close to them and glanced at Walter, completely ignoring Dawson. "Are you the one troubling my wife?" James asked indifferently. "Who are you, brat?" Walter's face darkened. He did not recognize James. James said word by word, "James. Thea is my wife." "Haha...

"Here I was thinking who it might be. It turns out it's the son-in-law of the Callahans. You're right. I'm the one causing trouble for Thea..." Slap!

Dawson stepped forward, raised his hand, and slapped Walter's head. He had used a lot of strength. Walter was beaten and could not react to what happened for a while. Dawson lifted his foot, kicked Walter to the ground, and repeatedly beat him with his fists and legs.

Chapter 280 Walter was shocked.

He was confused as to why Dawson would suddenly hit him.

He begged for mercy while being kicked and punched, saying, "Dawson, I'm sorry! I'm sorry! I made a mistake! Stop hitting me! I'm begging you, please stop hitting me!" After beating Walter for a while, Dawson fell to his knees and pleaded, "James, please treat me as a fool who made a mistake and forgive me this time."

Walter was stunned to see Dawson kneeling on the ground. The person standing in front of them was the son-in-law of the Callahans, also Thea's husband-James. Why was Dawson kneeling to him? Walter stood up, still puzzled by the situation. However, his knee was injured, and he fell back to the ground as soon as he stood up.

James glanced at Dawson, who was kneeling on the ground, and said indifferently, "Are you going to stop me from razing down this place?" "N-No..."

Dawson did not dare to get angry and immediately said, "I – James, you don't need to take any action. We'll do it ourselves!"

Afterward, he shouted, "What're you all doing? Hurry up and bring down the factory!" The 3,000 men did not dare to disobey.

These men were the ones that went to the Cadens' cemetery last time.

The scene of 100,000 soldiers being dispatched was still fresh in their minds. They immediately asked the people in the excavators to get off and took over their job. Although driving excavators was a technical job, these men had normal jobs during the day, and many were proficient in controlling excavators. The 300 excavators' engines were started in an instant.

Thea snorted, turned around, and left.

James followed after her into the room and closed the door.

Thea had already fallen asleep by the time he finished washing up. However, there was some space left on the bed for him.

James’ heart felt warm, and he climbed into the bed.

The night passed silently.

Thea got up early in the morning and headed to the Pacific Group.
