Chapter 361 In an instant, the place was once again empty. Only Thea, Trevor, and some other employees stayed behind.

'Is there no other way but to move our equipment?' Thea was unwilling to back down.

She had wanted to leave her mark in the business world.

The Century Group was supposed to only be the beginning. Yet, it seems as if everything was crashing down even before she could take off. "Granduncle." "Go ahead, Chairman."

Thea thought for a while and proceeded, "Rent a new warehouse immediately and transport all our current equipment there. We'll have a chance to bounce back from this as long as our equipment remains intact. I've still got some money on my card. We'll find a new site and build a new factory."

"Chairman, this..." Larry floundered helplessly.

"The company still has plenty of unfinished orders right now. We won't be able to fulfill our orders in time and will violate our contracts if we move right now. We'll lose a lot of money. Plus, don't we have the lease contract? We can take them to court! Surely we'll be able to win the lawsuit."

He was not afraid of any of them—whether they were the major families from the Capital, Oceanic Commerce, Infinity Commerce, or the Five Provinces Business Alliance.

All of these amounted to nothing for him.

His real target was the cardinal authorities in the Capital.

He was waiting for them to get involved.

This was the only way to change the current power dynamic of Sol. The dynamic needed to be completely broken down. This was the supreme commander's intention, and it was also his goal all along. He needed to get the most influential families involved if he wanted to find out the truth of the Cadens' demise.

Chapter 362

Thea made arrangements to rent a new warehouse and move the factory's equipment.

Then, she personally went to Longevity Pharmaceuticals headquarters.

In the past, she had a close relationship with Yuna. As a result, she never needed to make an appointment and was free to visit Yuna whenever she pleased.

Today, however, she found her path barred by security guards as soon as she arrived at Longevity Pharmaceuticals' headquarters.

"Stop right there! What business do you have here?"

"I'm here to see Yuna," said Thea.

"You're here to see Ms. Lawson? Do you have an appointment?"

Then, she hung up the phone. Thea waited patiently outside the Longevity Pharmaceuticals’

Headquarters. Soon, Yuna’s secretary appeared and led Thea inside the building. Although Yuna sent someone to pick her up, she knew that Longevity Pharmaceuticals were slowly distancing themselves from her since her support had dissipated. In the past, Thea would never be barred from entering when she came. However, now, Yuna’s attitude was completely different from the past.

“Let me explain, Ms. Lawson. I’ve signed a lot of orders with your company before but our company has encountered some problems and we aren’t able to operate normally right now. I’m here because I wish to terminate the contract with you,” Thea said as she walked over.

“Hmm?”

Yuna finally put down the documents and raised her head.

“You can go to our company’s legal department for termination of the contract,” Yuna told Thea in an indifferent tone.

Thea bit down on her lips to suppress the awkward feeling welling up inside her.

She wanted to say something but could not bring herself to say it. “Alright.” With the curt reply, she turned to leave. She proceeded to the legal department to terminate the contract.

Chapter 363 Unfortunately the manager was not around, so she had to leave. Next, she went to Celestial Group. The situation played out almost identically to what happened at Longevity Pharmaceuticals. Alex from Celestial Group was extremely unwelcoming, and his attitude was far worse than Yuna’s.

Both Celestial Group and Longevity Pharmaceuticals did not receive Thea’s arrival well. Her career has been smooth sailing all this while. Now that everything was quickly spiraling downward, Thea finally realized her own incompetence. Without the Black Dragon's support, she was nothing. Exhausted and dejected, she returned home.

James was already there to greet her.

Seeing Thea so upset, James walked over and massaged her shoulders. "Darling, you've had a hard day at work."

"Am I useless, Honey?" "Of course not! My wife is the most capable person in the world." Thea broke into a guttural sob. "Darling, what's the matter? Don't cry. You can tell me anything, and we'll figure it out together." "All along, I've always been supported by the Black Dragon in secret. The whole world knew about it except me. Now that he has resigned and has lost his influence, people are no longer afraid of him. This has been the biggest challenge I've had to face in my life..."

Thea tearily explained everything that had happened.

Everything, including the appearance of the Oceanic Commerce, and her visit to Longevity Pharmaceuticals and Celestial Group.

James guided Thea toward their room.

Thea was indeed exhausted and overwhelmed.

She lay down in her bed.

James sat beside her and accompanied her. It was not until she fell fast asleep that he got up and left the room, and headed outside.

‘Celestial Group? Longevity Pharmaceuticals? You think you can treat my wife this way just because I’m no longer part of the Five Commanders?’

James scowled angrily. He took out his phone and called Henry. “Come get me at Thea’s place. I need to go to Celestial Group and Longevity Pharmaceuticals.”

Chapter 364 After James called Henry, he squatted by the road outside the neighborhood and waited. Half an hour later, Henry showed up in a car. He rolled down the car window and waved to James beside the road.

“James, get in the car,” Henry called out.

James walked over, got into the passenger seat, and found Whitney sitting in the back seat.

He did not comment about her presence. “I read the news, James. Do the Great Four have a death wish? How dare they kick up a fuss at Thea’s company? Do you want me to make a call to the Southern Plains and get some men to come over?”, said Henry.

“Forget it. That’s not necessary.” James waved his hands dismissively.

“Although you’ve resigned, the men of the Southern Plains will always support you. Everyone will come to your aid if you just give the word. As it stands, the situation right now is volatile, and it’ll be hard for us to fight this battle alone,” Henry weighed out the pros and cons of the situation.

He was an outsider in this matter.

Thus, he was able to look at the situation from an objective point of view.

“Even though you bought the Transgenerational New City and established Transgenerational Group, the company doesn’t have much money in its account. We’ll need a lot of capital to continue developing the company. I still have about ten billion on my card, but it definitely isn’t close to enough.

The Black Dragons' name was James Caden. The Callahans' son-in-law was also James Caden. He gave the security guard a smile and said, "Do you even have to ask? It's obvious without looking that it's the useless James who's here."

"You piece of trash! You want to see the Chairman? Even the former Black Dragon will need an appointment to meet with her."

The security guards mocked James.

They would not have the other James pass through either. What did this nobody think they'd do? James looked them over and replied casually, "Is that so? It's best you call and ask Yuna. Otherwise, you won't be able to bear the consequences." "Woah, are you threatening me?" "What are you going to do to me if I don't let you in today?"

The security guards continued to laugh and mock the two men. James put on a serious expression, and the next moment, he roared, "Attack!" Henry immediately acted as soon as the word had left James' mouth. Several security guards were instantly brought down and lay on the ground, groaning in pain. One of the security guards took out his walkie-talkie and tried calling for help

"Argh!!!"

As soon as he attempted this, his chest was stomped on by James.

James and Henry stepped over the downed security guards and entered the Longevity Pharmaceutical Building. As soon as they entered, they found themselves being charged by dozens of security guards, "Don't hold back. Just don't kill them." James gave the order and charged toward them

"Attack! Get them both!"

Dozens of security guards charged fiercely forward with their electric batons. The closest one to them suddenly raised his electric baton and swung it at James' head. James raised his hand, caught the electric baton, and swung down on the security guard's wrist.

"Argh!!!"

The security guard screamed in pain. James followed up with a kick over his chest, and the security guard was instantly knocked back, landing heavily on the ground and groaning in pain. James and Henry had been through hundreds of battles and walked through countless near fatal situations. These dozens of security guards were not anything compared to their past opponents.

In just a minute, all the security guards that had come at them lay on the floor either unconscious or wracked with pain.

Top floor, Yuna's office.

An attractive secretary ran into the room, out of breath and flustered.

Her face paled from the fear.

It was not until James left that she was able to compose herself.

Seeing the strands of her hair that had fallen to the ground, Yuna let out a terrified gasp. "What terrifying skill. The rumors were true. The Black Dragon's strength is unparalleled and could take a person's life with just a silver needle."

Yuna's chest heaved laboriously.

The Black Dragon was overwhelmingly strong and terrifying. She would have been dead now if James had wanted to kill her. A man walked in after James left. "M-Morgan!" Yuna reacted and shouted for him. Morgan walked over and noticed the strands of long black hair on the floor. He squatted down, picked them up, and held them in his hands to observe. When he realised what had happened, he bore a horrified expression. "What terrifying arm strength. It was quick, accurate, and powerful. This small silver needle is much scarier than a gun." "What should I do now, Morgan?" Yuna wiped the sweat dripping from her forehead. "Do what he said. Although he isn't the Black Dragon any longer, he still has incredible strength. We can't get on his bad side. You'll be responsible for our business in Cansington, so don't act recklessly. Be careful with your trade dealings. Seek our family's opinion if you find you cannot make a decision on your own," instructed Morgan.

"Alright."

Yuna nodded.

Chapter 366 After resolving the matter at Longevity Pharmaceuticals, James and Henry made their way toward Celestial Group. Soon, they arrived at their destination. Henry parked the car.

Then, the two got out of the car together and walked side-by-side toward the Celestial Group Headquarters.

Unlike Longevity Pharmaceuticals, the two were not blocked by security this time. After entering the building, they walked toward the elevator and headed to the top floor.

As soon as they got out of the elevator, several guards were gathered outside, chatting happily.

The security guards immediately approached them.

One of them pulled out an electric baton from his waist and pointed it at James and Henry who had exited the elevator.

“What are you doing here? This is the chairman’s exclusive floor! Leave right now!” the security guard growled at them.

In a few steps, Henry dashed over and snatched the electric baton out of the security guard’s hand. He then brought it down hard over the man’s head.

“You...” The guard staggered.

However, before he could finish his sentence, he was overwhelmed by dizziness, and his body fell to the ground.

Despite no longer holding the position, this man still had the nerve to cause him trouble.

Soon, the office door swung open again, and seven to eight burly men walked in.

These people were two meters tall and around 140 kilograms of pure muscle. Their arms were even thicker than James' waist and bulged with explosive strength.

The men stood in the office and faced down at Henry and James.

Alex crossed his arms and jeered, "I heard you have unparalleled strength. I'd like to see how you get out of my office today."

James gave a quick glance at Henry. Henry immediately understood what this meant.

Suddenly, he got up. However, as soon as he got up, the men drew their guns and pointed them at James and Henry. Confronted with the many gun barrels, Henry stood stock still and reconsidered his actions.

"Haha!!!"

Alex giggled proudly. "So what if you have great strength? Kneel down obediently or else..." "Or else what?" James smirked.

Chapter 367 James' fearless expression made Alex uncomfortable. "Or else, you die..." he replied indifferently.

As soon as the word "die" left his mouth, James immediately made his move.

He raised his hand, and a few silver needles shot out.

Before the few burly men could react, they lost strength in their bodies and fell to the ground, unable to even get up.

"Wh-What?"

Alex's face twitched in shock.

He had heard rumors that the Black Dragon was a man of incredible strength.

These rumors were meant to be gross exaggerations, not actually true! Everyone who faced the Black Dragon ended up dead.

He never expected James to possess such might.

"It seems these people have grown to not fear you, James," Henry remarked after some time. "It's understandable since I've resigned now. I offended a lot of people when I had my position. Not only in Cansington, but even in the Capital. Heck, I've practically offended everyone I could. In the past, they choked down their hatred for me since I was the Black Dragon, Commander of the Black Dragon Army with countless soldiers under me. Now that I'm nobody, all these people are coming to get me." James smiled as he laid the situation out plainly.

"Since Yuna and Alex aren't afraid of you anymore, I'm sure it'll be the same on Jake's side. We're going to have a hard time in Cansington from here on," Henry groaned.

“Yeah.”

James sighed.

In the past, he had offended many high-ranking officials in the Capital. After coming to Cansington, all the people he had offended were from wealthy families—the Great Four, Infinity Commerce, Five Provinces Business Alliance, and even those from the underworld. Now that he had resigned, everyone saw it as an opportunity for them to settle the score they had with him.

“Henry, I need you to rush back to the Southern Plains immediately. However, don’t make an appearance. Secretly meet up with Lieutenant Levi and get him to transfer a thousand elite soldiers to Cansington. Remember to act in secret and don’t attract any attention. Also, try to get some money. A storm is brewing, and I’ll have to prepare for when it hits. Otherwise, I’ll be long gone before I have a chance to seize my real target,” James said grimly.

Chapter 368 It only took two hours for James to go out and return home.

Thea still had not woken up from her nap.

James entered the house and smoked a cigarette in the living room.

He checked the time and noticed that Thea had slept for quite a while. He got off his seat and went into the room.

Thea was lying on the bed wearing a thin dress. Perhaps because of the heat, the neckline of her dress was wide open, and her bra had slipped off, revealing a clear view of her cleavage.

James almost had a nosebleed. He gently shook Thea awake.

“Darling, time to get up and study.”

Thea opened her eyes in confusion, and the first thing she saw was her husband’s familiar face. In her groggy state, she got out of bed and straightened her messy clothes. She blushed after realizing her bra had nearly slipped off.

James chuckled.

“W-What’s so funny?” Thea raised her head and rolled her eyes at James.

“You’ve got a really great figure, Darling. I could barely hold myself back from taking you into my arms,” James sincerely admitted.

Thea’s pretty face turned even redder.

A plan to support Thea to the top.

First, the genius doctor title had to be won to make a name for the company. Then, the company could be reopened. It would no longer be a manufacturing company but one that researched and produced its own medicine. This would force other companies to compete with each other in a bid to get their supply from Century Group. Since Thea went to the company, James had nothing to do. So, he went back to sleep in the room.

Meanwhile, in an underground casino in Cansington. David was dressed in a simple short-sleeved shirt paired with a Rolex watch and gold necklace. He wrapped his arms around a voluptuous woman and made huge bets. "F*ck, what terrible luck," David whined.

In the blink of an eye, he had lost millions of dollars.

He stood up and was about to leave. "Don't go, David." The voluptuous woman pulled on David and caressed her body on him. "Play a few more games, David. You can't be unlucky forever. You might strike gold in the next couple of rounds," the woman purred persuasively.

"Forget it. I'm done."

David still had some sense left in him.

He wanted to leave.

He would lose everything if he continued. "Haha! I won thirty million in one round!"

Chapter 369 A burst of loud laughter boomed through the hall.

A man laughed excitedly, "I won! I got back all the money I lost with profits! Looks like I'll be having fun with some young models at the clubhouse later!"

He laughed as he left the casino.

David was tempted as he watched the man leave.

'Surely this unlucky streak won't go on forever. I should try a few more rounds.' David reasoned with himself.

"Let's go to a VIP private room. You'll be around more big shots like yourself. Let's play some bigger and more exciting games. I know you're not running out of money, right?"

"We can go inside the private rooms, and I'll..." the woman pinched David's body lasciviously. David shuddered at the touch. "Alright, let's go."

The woman led David into a private room. There were seven or eight people in the private room. They were currently playing the most popular game, bullfighting. Seeing David enter the private room, everyone smiled in unison.

The woman dragged David to them and said with a smile, "Hey there, Handsome. Got room for one more?"

One man stood up and eyed David disdainfully.

"We're playing bigger bets, and you can only join with at least ten million chips."

"David, go change ten million dollars worth of chips."

He was cheated!

The private room door was kicked open again, and the chubby man he borrowed the money from rushed in with a dozen people, all holding weapons.

The chubby man slashed the table.

Frightened, David's whole body trembled.

"David Callahan, you've borrowed a total of eight hundred million. You'll only have to pay an interest of two hundred million. The interest will increase by two hundred million per day if you don't pay it by today. So, what'll it be? Are you going to pay it now or...? "What, eight hundred million?!"

"How is that possible? How could I have borrowed so much?!" David was aghast.

The middle-aged chubby man threw out a bunch of promissory notes and stated dryly, "Everything is recorded clearly on these documents. I've already gotten your background details the moment I let you borrow from me. I'll give you a chance to go back now. Hurry and put together the cash. Remember, it'll be two hundred million per day if you don't pay up now."

David felt his strength leave his body and flumped down limply on the chair. "I'm over. I'm over! Not only did I lose the five hundred million but I even borrowed eight hundred million on top of that..."

David was beyond inconsolable.

How was he going to pay it back? David was in despair, and his body felt numb. Everything around him was going dark and the thought to just end it all and leave this behind flashed through his mind more than once. "David, you should go back to ask for money. That guy is Maximus. He's known for being extremely ruthless. If you don't get him his money, not only you but all the Callahans will be finished," the sexy woman said in an encouraging tone. The woman worked for the underground casino, and her name was Lulu. She was responsible for entertaining the high rollers that visited the casino. Hearing this, David shivered. He stood up and wanted to leave. However, he could not muster up the strength in his body to take a step forward. He had no idea how he got home. At home, he lay down in bed and did not want to move or eat dinner. He opened the window several times and tried to jump out. He found that his courage failed him every time he tried to put it into action.

After dinner.

Thea's room.

Thea was talking to James about the company.

She told him the company's equipment had been moved and that she would find a new place to build a factory after the medical conference. She still had some money that would be enough for them to rebuild the company. "Alright."

James did not say anything. The Oceanics Commerce's target was him, but Thea had to bear the consequences of being associated with him.

He turned around and said with a smile, "It's nothing. I got a call from the company. They need me to go on a business trip today. I'm afraid I'll have to go abroad for a while, Darling." "Okay."

Thea accepted his explanation easily. "All the best. Do you have enough money? I'll transfer some money to you. You'll need money for food, lodging, and transportation abroad." "I'm not there on vacation. I'll be there for business, and the company will reimburse me," James smiled calmly.

"You better not mess around abroad and come back with some weird disease," Thea warned him. "Of course, I won't!" James retorted awkwardly.

He got up, walked toward the closet, and opened it up. James searched for a long time but could not find the thing he had kept in the closet. He turned around and asked, "Darling, have you seen my wire made of silver needles in the closet?"

Thea had already gotten up from bed.

She was puzzled for a moment but suddenly remembered something. She pointed to the balcony and said, "The wire seemed really strong, so I thought I'd use it to hang out laundry. It's out on the balcony."
