

The Almighty Dragon General

Chapter 749

□ □ □

Chapter 749

At the Callahans' villa.

Thea threw her phone in anger,

Bang! The phone smashed into the wall and shattered on the ground.

“That b*tch!”

She furiously sat on the sofa. “What’s the matter, Thea? Why are you so mad?” Gladys walked over and asked after seeing

Thea’s destroyed phone. “I–It’s nothing.”

Thea took a deep breath, got up, and headed out.

James belongs to me. I won’t allow another woman to have him.’

She had been to Quincy’s newly bought villa before and had a feeling that James was there.

Thea stormed out of the house, got into a newly bought Porsche, and rushed to Quincy’s place. Quincy was troubled after receiving Thea’s call.

She knew that this day would come. For the sake of their friendship, Quincy had restrained herself from pursuing James and did not act until the two were divorced.

She knew that being with James would mean the end of her friendship with Thea.

Meanwhile, James was sleeping like a log.

After some time, he woke up. Seeing Quincy sitting beside him absent-mindedly, he asked, "What's on your mind?"

Quincy regained her senses and shook her head. "I-It's nothing."

James picked up his phone and saw that it was already four in the afternoon.

"Push me out for a walk. It's stuffy inside."

"Alright."

Quincy brought the wheelchair, helped James onto it, and pushed him out.

They strolled down the villa district's sidewalks,

The chilly autumn wind caressed their skin.

Soon, a brand new Porsche appeared.

The driver was none other than Thea

She had come to see Quincy. However, she did not expect to see her and James out on a stroll.

She slammed the brakes and got out of the car furiously

Thea stormed over and slapped Quincy.

"Quincy. I trusted you, but you stole my man!"

Quincy was stunned,

With tears in her eyes, she reached out her hand and covered her cheek.

“I didn’t! You divorced him! You threw him away, so why are you stopping me from having him?!” Quincy roared.

James never expected Thea to show up. He looked at Thea’s angry face and rebuked weakly, “Thea, what are you doing? What gives you the right to hit her? Apologize immediately.” Thea’s eyes were also filled with tears. She looked at James as tears rolled down her face.” James, I’ve suffered so much pain and ridicule because of you! Is this how you’re going to treat me? Do you know how much of a nightmare the last ten years have been for me? I woke up from nightmares every day, thanks to you!”

James went silent.

He knew that he was indebted to Thea.

It was his fault that she suffered for ten years.

“Answer me! Why aren’t you saying anything? Have you gone mute?!”

Faced with Thea’s questioning, James had nothing left to say.

Thea looked at James and roared as she pointed at Quincy, “I’m asking you, what’s your relationship with her?!”

“That’s none of your concern.” James looked at his ex-wife, Thea. This was the woman he was indebted to.

□ □ □