Chapter 802

Distraught, it took Tara a while to recollect herself. Then, she opened the car door to take a glimpse at what was going on.

The moment the door opened, however, a man charged at her and covered her mouth. He forcibly dragged her into the black sedan.

Before the taxi driver could react, the black sedan had left. He immediately called the police.

The black sedan immediately headed toward the suburbs.

In the car...

Tiara's mouth was covered, and she was pinned down in the backseat of the car. Her strength was limited, so she could not break free no matter how hard she tried.

Nasir grabbed the plastic bag in her hand and rummaged through it. He found a document inside and he immediately opened it.

Once he saw the content, his face turned pale. "Quick, return to the base. I need to find Scar immediately."

In the Callahans' villa...

James was sitting on the bed meditating. He looked at the time. It was already 10 p.m.

Tiara had been out for two hours. A round trip to Medical Street should have only taken around an hour, but she still had not returned.

James frowned. He immediately pulled his phone out and called Tiara.

“Sorry, the number you’ve dialed is unavailable.”

The call did not go through because Tiara’s phone was switched off.

James had a bad feeling that something must have happened to her. He hurriedly got up.

After sorting the company’s files for several hours, Thea was finally done with her work. She stretched and stood up. Seeing that

James was in a hurry, she asked puzzledly, “Where are you going, honey?”

“Downstairs,” he answered and immediately headed down. Then, he grabbed the landline. phone and called the Blithe King.

Soon, the Blithe King answered the call.

“Who’s calling?”

“James, I haven’t found anything yet.”

“I’m not calling you to ask about that. I want you to use the military’s satellite positioning system to find the location of Tiara’s phone.”

The Blithe King froze. He asked, “Did something happen?”

“Alright, I’ll check immediately. I’ll get back to you later.”

After hanging up the call, the Blithe King swiftly used his special privileges to locate Tiara’s phone. He could see her movements for the whole day. However, the signal was lost two hours ago.

The Blithe King immediately investigated the location where her signal disappeared. It was then he found out that there was an abduction at the junction where her signal was last spotted. The police had already initiated an investigation.

After learning about the events that took place, he immediately called James.

“Something happened, James. A few hours ago, there was an accident near the junction just outside Medical Street, and a young girl was abducted. The driver has called the police. After some investigation, it was revealed that the girl was Tiara.”

James’ face immediately darkened. “I beg you, Blithe King. Please find her for me.”

“Don’t worry, I’ll do my best.”

The Blithe King hung up the phone.

After that, he called the police force, “The military will now take over the investigation of the abduction of the young girl near Medical Street. Please send all available information to us at once.

“Track the location of the black sedan in five minutes. I want the Blithe army to be on standby. -Be ready to move out anytime.”

The Blithe King gave his orders.

Meanwhile, James was still uneasy that Tiara’s phone was switched off. So, he called Jay as well.

“Something happened. Tiara has been abducted. Use your underground intelligence network to find out who’s behind this. If possible, find Tiara’s location.”

“Got it. I’ll begin the search at once.”

Jay immediately began searching once he ended the call.

Anxious, James sat on the sofa with a cigarette in hand. He could do nothing but wait.

Although he had a rough idea that it was the Emperor's men who abducted Tiara, he did not know where they took her to. They were all ruthless people, so James was worried that Tiara might be harmed.

“I'll tear you to pieces if anything happens to her.”

James clenched his fists, and a vein popped out on his neck. He had a murderous look on his face.
