Chapter 3529

"With Harvey, we'll be able to stir up trouble behind the scenes."

"We'll use the opportunity to deal with both Joseph and Ken in one go."

"This plan can only be beneficial to us."

Elanor told Jeff her thoughts. This was her plan to succeed after getting information about the situation.

After all, she could only rise if Jeff does the same.

Her wealth and glory was attached to Jeff.

"You're right."

Jeff nodded.

"That said, am I just going to humiliate myself in front of him?"

"Am I compromising for a mere outsider?"

"If word spreads about this, I'll be utterly humiliated!"

For Jeff, his pride was more important than anything else.

He had never bowed down to anyone his entire life. Yet, he was about to do that to an outsider?

This was unforgivable!

"I know what you're thinking, Young Master," Elanor said.

"This is a bit embarrassing for you, yes. Your image will be affected if anyone else knows about this."

n

"But if we look at the bigger picture, working together with Harvey will quicken your rise."

"After all, Longmen and the Bauer family's situation is clear now."

"Nothing is more important than rising to power."

"Even if you don't want to compromise for Harvey—even if you don't want any bad history with you..."

"It wouldn't be too late if you decide to kill Harvey after you rose to your position!"

"After becoming the master of the Bauer family and Longmen, you will have ultimate authority in Flutwell!"

"Countless people will serve you! When that happens, it won't be hard for you to kill Harvey!"

"After all, there's too much trouble happening in Flutwell right now. It's best if get Harvey by your side."

you

Elanor patiently guided Jeff, hoping he'd stop going against such a tough opponent for the time being.

Only then would Jeff have a better chance of winning the fight for Longmen.

If Jeff gets his position, the Fifth Mistress may just turn into the mistress of the Bauer family!

She may not have an abundance of wealth, but her authority would be unmeasurable!

She would surely become a person fitting for Country H's top social circle.

Elanor felt exhilarated when she thought about this. That was why she was giving it her all to help Jeff.

"That kid's quite the talent!"

"He made a lot of people suffer in Flutwell recently, too."

"The entire city's in utter chaos because of him!"

"I can tell he's a capable man..."

Jeff revealed a curious look.

"But I still want to see him in person."

"Let me see if he has the right to work with me."

n

"That way, I can make sure if he's friend or foe."

Naturally, it was in Jeff's nature to doubt everything. He had been fighting for the throne for the longest time, after all.

Other than what he saw, he wouldn't believe a single word any other person said.

Elanor included.

Elanor chuckled bitterly, not daring to say another word. She didn't want to dissuade Jeff by accident.

She could tell what Jeff was thinking as well; he was interested in Harvey, but he didn't want to bow down to an outsider.

For a man who called himself the top talent of Flutwell's younger generation...

Harvey would never be allowed to overpower Jeff, no matter how strong he was.

Chapter 3530

"Alright, enough of this talk. Let's have some breakfast."

Jeff smiled.

"Another thing. While you were coming here, I already sent someone to grab Mandy."

"Harvey's pretty impressive, right?"

"If he finds out where we took his wife and saves her..."

"Then I'll acknowledge his strength!"

"If he doesn't manage to get his wife tomorrow this time..."

"I'll sell her to the Dark Island!"

"The chiefs there love tender-looking women like her the most!"

Jeff revealed his dominance.

"I'd like to see how Harvey will react!"

Elanor's eyes twitched.

"You'll get Harvey furious if you do!"

"There'll be no going back if things go south!"

"Didn't you say he was impressive?"

Jeff chuckled coldly.

"You wanted him to stand by me and be my ally, right?"

"Well, now I'm giving him a chance to show off!"

"I'd like to see how he'll fight back!"

"If he can't scare me, then what right does he have to go against Joseph?"

"What right does he have to be my weapon?"

"He wouldn't be worthy!"

"Even if we're testing him, we shouldn't do something like this in the first place! What if..."

Elanor wanted to convince Jeff to stop.

Slap!

However, Jeff suddenly swung the back of his palm across her face. She could only sink to the floor, paralyzed.

"What? You're saying that I'll lose to him?"

"Fine! We'll see who gets the final laugh soon enough!"

Jeff crossed his arms and walked away with an expression as cold as ice.

At the Martial Hall.

Peace and quiet regained inside the place after all that trouble.

Dillon found a few of his brothers to help, but in the end, they couldn't do anything significant except clean up the place.

Harvey didn't mind, though. He ordered some furniture online and planned to tidy up the backyard soon.

When Xynthia would be released, he wanted her and her sister to stay here as well.

As for Lilian...

As Harvey pondered the situation, the door of the Martial Hall was suddenly kicked open.

He thought someone was here to cause more trouble again, but he saw Rachel walking inside anxiously.

"This is bad, Sir York!"

Harvey frowned.

"What's wrong?!"

Rachel's expression kept changing. She gritted her teeth.

"I just got word that the disciples who were in charge of protecting Mandy were all seen tied up and thrown outside while they were unconscious!"

Harvey's expression changed instantly.

"Where's Mandy?" he asked.

"No clue..." Rachel replied.

Harvey let out a sigh. Since nobody found her yet, that meant there was a chance she was still alive.

"Her bodyguards were all crippled. Only the Maybach was left there. We have no idea where Mandy's at right now..."

"Judging from the scene, Mandy must've been captured by someone powerful!"

"Maybe... Maybe..."

Rachel was having trouble speaking at this point.

Chapter 3531

"Maybe, what?" Harvey asked, frowning.

"Maybe it was someone from Longmen with a powerful status."

"Judging from the scene, the disciples didn't even unsheathe their swords yet."

"If it weren't someone like that suppressing them, this wouldn't even happen."

Harvey let out a sigh of relief.

"Who would have this much power to frighten people from the Law Enforcement?"

"There are a few."

"The master of Longmen's personal bodyguards."

"The three young masters of the Bauer family."

"The people from the Elder Group."

Rachel had a horrible expression.

"It's not that the Law Enforcement can't deal with them! A lot of the disciples are from Flutwell!"

"They wouldn't dare go against them!"

Harvey's gaze turned cold.

"We had a conflict with the Elder Group before, but we've never met since then."

"The same goes with the Seventh Young Master."

n

"Joseph suffered a big loss because of me. He has no time to deal with his problems right now. Why would he come for me?"

"The only person left is the one that was threatened by me since he didn't give the money back—Jeff!"

Harvey's gaze turned as cold as ice.

There was no solid proof, but he was sure of it.

He didn't expect Jeff to kidnap Mandy after he couldn't get the money back.

Thinking about it filled him with a desire to kill.

Suddenly, Rachel's phone vibrated violently.

She hurriedly picked it up.

"Sir York, I just got word that Jeff's personal bodyguards were on the move this morning."

"They showed up at the scene before going back to the Bauer family's courtyard."

She looked awful as she came up with an educated guess.

"I think Mandy's probably with them..."

"Where is Jeff right now?" Harvey asked gloomily.

Rachel hesitated.

"Don't panic, Sir York. We have other ways to handle this."

"Where is he?"

"Answer me!"

"This is an order!"

Rachel's expression changed frantically. She replied helplessly, "He'll show up at the banquet of Flutwell's charity organization tonight."

"There's half an hour before it starts."

Harvey nodded. Then, he took the car keys and walked out of the door.

"Sir York!"

Rachel immediately understood what Harvey was going to do the moment she saw him leave.

That said, Jeff was still the head of the three young masters.

n

Harvey would be at a disadvantage if he decided to go against the all-powerful Jeff at the charity event.

Rachel's expression kept changing. Finally, she dialed a number.

"Get everyone in the Law Enforcement to show up at tonight's charity event!"

"The charity event?"

The expression of the trusted subordinate on the other side of the phone changed.

"But Vice Head Hardy, that's the Bauer family's property! Young Master Bauer is attending the event as well!"

"Many officials will be there as well!"

"If we do this, we'll go against Flutwell's upper social circle!"

"It doesn't matter!" Rachel exclaimed coldly.

"I'm not the one doing this!"

"It's the head of Law Enforcement!"

Chapter 3532

In the evening, A Toyota Prado charged right at the Charity Garden where the event would be held.

There was no proof, but judging from the clues and aspects of various conditions, Harvey was sure that Jeff had Mandy hostage.

If this was any other time, he would've calculated the risks and gathered evidence before taking action.

However, he couldn't wait any longer since his wife was involved.

According to his intel, Jeff was a stubborn man who would do as he pleased.

Compared to the self-proclaimed strategist, Joseph, who was quite methodical in his actions...

Not only was Jeff harder to deal with, but his way of doing things was even more insane.

Harvey had no confidence in guaranteeing Mandy would come out of the situation unscathed.

He drove the car at lightning speed, charging past red lights and going through shortcuts just to get to the Charity Garden as soon as he could.

At the same time, he gave George a call so the latter would hack into the place and send the schematics of it to his phone.

Rachel occasionally called, but Harvey didn't pick up.

He didn't want Rachel to convince him to do otherwise, and he didn't want her to get involved in the mess as well.

The car left the bustling city center and drove along a road that went right into the Charity Garden.

Vroom!

Harvey's eyes twitched.

He could see five G-Wagons chasing after him through the rearview mirror.

Clearly, they had been waiting for Harvey for a while.

Masked men with firearms could be seen inside the cars.

Before Harvey could react, the G-Wagons were already charging straight at him.

"Jeff's men?"

"These b*stards are actually going against me?!"

Harvey's expression turned cold; he steered the wheel and stepped on the pedal, evading the cars while also creating more distance between them.

The cars behind had no intention to give up any time soon, though.

They were chasing after Harvey with gusto, as if they wanted him dead right there.

"We have orders from Young Master Bauer! The Skipjack Gang has only one mission today, and that's to kill this man!"

A bald man was sitting in the backseat of the middlemost G-Wagon.

Flutwell's upper social circle would immediately recognize the person as the leader of the Skipjack Gang—Vincent West.

Vincent had always been clinging to Jeff. His strength in Flutwell was impeccable because of the man behind him.

After getting Jeff's orders, he would naturally use all his might to carry them out.

As for who the target was and why he was ordered to kill him, they had nothing to do with him.

"As soon as the mission's done, every single one of you will get a hundred and fifty thousand dollars and a babe to play with!"

Vincent's fighters burned with passion after hearing his words.

Upon hearing his orders, they fiercely took off the safeties of their firearms.
