Chapter 246 Someone Is Refusing Her

Eugene's face suddenly popped up in Olivia's mind. A chef? He really looks like one. Haha! Now that I have a boyfriend, I can even save the cost of hiring a chef!

In the hospital, Anna had already regained consciousness the day before, but she was still unable to forget the pain that she felt when she woke up. That excruciating pain would last her for a lifetime.

Amy had asked the doctor for some pain medicine, but he refused to do so.

Today, Anna had also asked for some, but she received the same excuse. "Pain medication will stop your wounds from healing."

She was already frustrated from the pain, so she shouted in anger since the hospital was obviously going against her, "Are you trying to hurt me to death? Do you really think that I won't file a complaint against the hospital?"

After taking a look at the monitor, the doctor said to her stoically, "You can do whatever you want, but nobody will give you the pain medicine, no matter whom you ask!"

With that, he immediately left the room.

Anna roared furiously, but the pain in her body and her dizzy head prevented her from moving around, so she could only watch as the doctor left. "Mom, why are they doing this?"

"I don't know. I'll go and ask them." After that, Amy quickly went out.

Meanwhile, Anna was left to endure the pain in the ward while her body was covered with layers of perspiration.

After 20 minutes, Amy finally returned, but her expression was gloomy.

“Mom, have you gotten some pain medicine for me?”

She sighed. “Anna, if you can hold on to the pain, don’t eat it. It’s not good for your body.”

Immediately, Anna furrowed her brows and shouted hysterically, “I can’t hold on for much longer. The pain is killing me. Mom, what is happening? What’s wrong with this hospital? Why aren’t they giving pain medication to the patient?”

Amy sighed again. “I gave the doctor 1000 to spill the beans earlier. He said that someone wouldn’t allow them to prescribe painkillers to you. They won’t even use anesthesia for the surgery tomorrow.”

“What? How can they complete the surgery without giving me anesthetic? Are they trying to hurt me to death? Who ordered this?”

Amy said, “I don’t know, but other than Eugene, who else has such a huge power in Summer City?”

Anna panicked. “Eugene? Isn’t it enough for them to beat me up like this? What should we do? Mom, you need to call Dad and ask him to tell them.”

“Your dad can’t wait to see you dead and you still want to see him? Because of this incident, Eugene is now directly targeting the Maxwell Company. We will soon be begging on the streets.”

Anna couldn’t believe what she had heard as rage filled her eyes. “How cruel can they be? They are trying to kill all of us!” Upon seeing Amy standing aside, she shouted at her again, “What are you doing by standing here? Quickly think of a way!”

After being shocked by her daughter's yells, Amy replied helplessly, "It's pointless to shout at me. We wouldn't be in this situation if I had thought of a way, right?"

"Go to Dad and tell him to find Olivia. How can they not provide me with anesthetic for surgery? Do you want me to die in pain?" Anna pleaded.

Amy answered in a hurry, "Alright, I'll call him right away. I'll force them to give you the pain medicine!"

After that, she went straight to the Maxwell Company with an injured body.

Henry had never expected her to show up, so he suddenly felt a sense of disgust and spoke impatiently, "Why are you here?"

Before she could open her mouth, tears were already rolling down her face. "Dear, I know it's all Anna's fault, but you can't leave her alone. She is your daughter. You can't just watch her die!"

He looked at her with a cold smile. "The company is done and it's all because of your daughter. I can't wait to kill her myself. She can save me the trouble by dying!"

She sobbed. "Dear, how could you say that at times like this? Anna is really dying and someone is refusing to give her painkillers yet her leg still needs surgery. After I bribed the doctor, he said that he won't be giving her anesthesia during the surgery. Won't the pain kill her if they don't provide her with some anesthetic? You need to think of a way to help her. Are you really going to let her endure the surgery without an anesthetic?"

Chapter 247 Anna's Parents

Henry was shocked. Even if she survives the surgery without any anesthetic, she won't last long after the surgery without any painkillers! "Who refuses to allow her to receive any anesthetic?"

Amy answered, "The doctor wouldn't dare to tell me, but I guess that it could only be Eugene since he has such a huge power!"

He took a deep breath. Is he really that cruel? "In that case, what else can I do? Are you asking me to use my company, which is on the verge of bankruptcy, to compete with him?"

She sobbed while telling him, "Go and find Olivia. I can see that Eugene is quite soft-hearted toward her. If we ask for her help, it may work."

While remaining silent, Henry lay back on his chair. What else can I say to her? I've already tried to look for her, but she has completely ignored me. She doesn't want to listen to her father anymore.

Amy continued with her words, "Dear, no matter what, Olivia is still your daughter. She will never ignore you. If it really fails, you can bring me along. I'll beg her and ask for her forgiveness. I can even kowtow to her if she wants to. I just want her to cut my daughter some slack!"

Henry stared ruthlessly. "You should have known a long time ago that this would happen. You ask her to cut your daughter some slack, but before this, when have you ever let her off the hook? If you and Anna did not continuously mess with her, she wouldn't need to have been so cruel toward you. The two of you have brought this upon yourselves!"

Amy continued to sob. “We know that this is our fault. I promise that I’ll keep an eye on Anna from now on and stop her from bothering Olivia. Dear, please help me. How can you bear to see your daughter die in pain while lying on the surgery table? I would rather end her life immediately with a knife!”

Finally, he was moved after she stayed in the company for an hour to convince him.

He decided to head to Olivia’s fashion studio and beg her in person. She will never refuse me. Not only am I fighting for Anna, but I’m also fighting for my company. I must humble myself and go to her because I can’t watch my company crumble without a fight!

George had also followed Olivia to her workshop today. When he saw the married couple entering through the door, he even assumed that they were clients who came for a class. He politely greeted them, “Hello!”

Henry was confused, looking at the man in front of him. Who is he? “Is Olivia here?” he asked carefully.

George staggered for a second. “Oh. Yes, she is here. You two can wait here for a while as she is now in her office. I’ll go and call her for you.” After that, he went straight into the office.

At that moment, Olivia was having a meeting with her employees.

When she heard a knock on the door, she allowed him to enter. “What is it, George?”

“There is a married couple waiting for you outside,” he replied.

After giving her response, she turned toward her seated employees. “Fine, we’ll end the meeting here today. Everyone can now continue with their work. Good luck.”

Then, she followed him directly out of the office.

The moment she saw the two people in the reception room, she felt as though someone had dropped a huge boulder on her heart. For a moment, she couldn't catch her breath.

Her brows furrowed in an unnatural way as her face turned as cold as ice.

Immediately, Henry and Amy stood up and carefully called her with a guilty conscience, "Olivia!"

She asked them coldly, "Why are you here?"

Meanwhile, George also slightly furrowed his brows. "Olivia, who are they?"

She smiled with a few traces of mockery. "These two are Anna's parents!"

She didn't even introduce me as her father. Henry was starting to feel upset. What have I done to my daughter that has made her unwilling to even acknowledge me? "Olivia—"

Before Henry could finish his words, George's face immediately darkened. "You two are Anna's parents? What do you want?"

After being asked for his motive, Henry started to feel guilty again as he stuttered, "O-Olivia, no matter what, you can't just let Anna die. I'm begging you as your father."

Chapter 248 Not Every Mistake Can Be Forgiven

The corner of Olivia's lips curved upward and revealed a cold smile that came straight from her heart. "Father? Whose father are you? Are you the kind who leaves his daughter out to die? Are you the kind who drives his daughter outside the house? You only come to me each and every time because you have something to beg me for, so you give me a few fake words of concern! With that, do you think you are entitled to be my father?"

Henry's wrinkled face flushed as he tried to humble himself. "Olivia, I know I've wronged you before and I also know that it's all my fault. Please forgive me!"

At the same time, Amy also approached her. "He's right, Olivia. I beg you. If you don't allow the hospital to provide Anna with anesthesia and painkillers, she will die in pain! She has already received her punishment, so can you be kind to forgive her?" After that, she immediately kneeled down in front of Olivia. "If you want, I can kneel to beg you."

Their actions of forcing Olivia actually made her uncomfortable. Not every mistake can be forgiven by just kneeling.

Then, she lowered her eyes and gave Amy a cold gaze. "Being kind doesn't mean that I can be bullied around by you all. Not every mistake can be forgiven. If you pity Anna right now, what would you feel when you realized that she has beaten up a seven-year-old child? Don't you pity him?"

Finally, George spoke coldly, "Your daughter kidnapped Olivia's child, so how dare you come to beg for forgiveness? If you dare to mess around with people, then you should be brave enough to face the consequences!"

Amy held on to Olivia's leg and started crying. "Olivia, Anna knows that she has made a mistake, but she's injured, so she couldn't come here herself to apologize to you. Please show her some mercy. She has already received her punishment. Isn't that enough?"

"Let me go." Olivia shook her leg hard as she tried to escape from Amy's arms, but she couldn't.

Then, George went up to her and raised his foot to kick Amy away from her. "Didn't you hear her telling you to let go?"

Amy continued to cry loudly. "Olivia, I beg you. Do you want me to give you a kowtow? Please forgive her!"

Henry also went up to Olivia and spoke in pain, "Olivia, the Maxwell Company is over and she has already received her punishment. This is quite a serious consequence. If we don't give her any anesthetic for the surgery, she will die in pain."

George looked at him. "Are you saying that you are Olivia's father?"

Henry nodded his head in response.

After that, George sneered, "7 years ago, you drove Olivia out of the country while she was still pregnant and you allowed her to wander in a foreign country alone. I don't understand how biased you can be to treat your daughter this way. Do you know that Olivia almost died back then? At that time, no one was there to beg for her, but now, your daughter still has the medical aid of the hospital, so why are the two of you looking like your world is about to end?"

He didn't hold back on his words.

In the meantime, Henry froze. Olivia almost died back then?

For the past few years, he felt as though his mind was blurred by some demon. He always felt that Olivia was the rebellious child while Anna was the obedient one. However, he now realized that his little bias had pushed Olivia far away from him.

George continued to speak faintly, “She is only restricted from using painkillers and anesthetics, right? Actually, this is beneficial since it will allow her wounds to heal, so she only needs to bear with the pain. Now that we’re seeing how distressed you two look, don’t you think that Olivia is also distressed after her son was violently abused by someone? In fact, you should thank her for being so merciful to you all. If it was me, you might not even be able to see your daughter ever again!”

For some reason, Henry took a deep breath. “Um... How is the kid?”

“You’re only asking this now?” George smiled slightly. “Do you think this is the right attitude when you’re begging someone? Normally speaking, you should at least go to her house to check on the injured kid. Won’t this make her feel somewhat comforted? However, the two of you decided to come straight to her and moan about how pitiful your daughter is. Is she, though? Didn’t she deserve it? If she doesn’t have the ability to mess with others, then she shouldn’t come to beg for forgiveness. Do you think that just because you are the president, you can do whatever you want?”

Chapter 249 Where Is the Proof?

Henry's face changed from pale to green after he was scorned at. "W-We wanted to visit the child, b-but we didn't know Olivia's address!"

George purposely laughed hysterically. "Huh! Aren't you her father? Don't you even know where your daughter lives?"

Again, Henry was left in an awkward situation, but before he could reply, Amy went up and said, "Ever since she returned to the country, she has never returned home." In other words, she was implying that Olivia did not fulfill her responsibility as a daughter!

George said faintly again, "She was driven away by you all in the past, so how could she return home? Why should she? After all, she has nothing to beg you for."

Amy was starting to lose her temperament, so she pounced toward Olivia again and held onto her leg. "Olivia, you can't just let her die. It's all our fault. Can you please let Anna go for the sake of your family? I'm begging you!"

After that, she stepped backward and immediately bowed toward Olivia as she knocked her head repeatedly on the floor. At the same time, Olivia was also taken aback by Amy's drastic action. Just as she was caught off guard, a group of reporters barged in and constantly shone their flashlights at them. For a moment, everyone except Amy was shocked and froze on the spot.

George immediately stepped back while protecting Olivia. As his face darkened, he shouted at the reporters, "What are you doing? Who allowed all of you in?"

Instantly, Henry also tried to block her from them. "What are you all doing?"

The reporters quickly held their microphones toward them. “Are you all here because of Anna Maxwell’s injuries?”

“Miss Maxwell, what is your relationship with Anna Maxwell?”

“Miss Maxwell, are you the one who caused her injuries?”

“Miss Maxwell, there are rumors that you forbade the hospital from giving her painkillers. Is that true? Please tell us the whole situation.”

Olivia stood still as her eyes, which were filled with disappointment, glared at Henry like a sharp knife. I can’t believe they brought many reporters to force me to compromise!

Henry felt his heart was aching and asked instinctively, “There’s nothing to see here. Who asked you all to come?”

As Amy stood up, her forehead was covered with blood, which made her look terrifying. Then, she grabbed hold of a reporter and pointed at Olivia. “She is the one who has prevented my daughter from receiving any anesthetic for surgery and even refuses to give her any painkillers. My daughter has suffered a bone fracture, so won’t the pain kill her if the doctors don’t feed her with some painkillers? On top of that, Olivia has also targeted the Maxwell Company. Now, it is on the brink of bankruptcy. All of you are righteous people, so please help us!”

Henry went up and pulled her aside in anger. “What nonsense are you talking about?”

She vigorously forced his hand away. “Dear, that is my daughter, so I won’t stand aside and watch her die, let alone watch as our company goes bankrupt. Why are you still speaking for Olivia at this point? She doesn’t even treat you as her father.”

Meanwhile, Olivia’s smile became even colder as she immediately picked up her phone and made a call. “Is this the police station? I want to make a report. Someone has caused trouble by bringing a group of reporters over. It has seriously affected my business, so can you please come here for a moment? The address is Olivia Maxwell's fashion studio."

Upon seeing her lodging a police reporter, a reporter asked, "We are only here for a normal interview. Is there anything that you can't say, Miss Maxwell?"

Then, Olivia approached the reporter while glaring at him with a pair of sharp eyes that could penetrate his heart. "I'm not a celebrity. If you were not instructed by someone, would you even come to my shop for no reason? How could you call this a normal interview? What do you mean that I refused to give painkillers to Anna Maxwell? Where did you hear that from? Do you have any proof that I instructed the hospital not to give her painkillers? What's wrong with you? Do you think that you can say whatever you want just because you are dressed as a reporter? You better have proof that I was the one who whacked Anna Maxwell; otherwise, I will sue you for slander!"

Chapter 250 We Know Each Other

Olivia's words were so sharp that her words immediately silenced those reporters.

Then, Amy rushed over. "Who else would it be if it's not you? Anna said that you were the one who beat her up."

Olivia gazed at her. “Why would I hit her?”

“You—” Amy suddenly paused.

After that, Olivia glanced at her and Henry. “Who do you think you are? How dare you come to my place and bother me! Get out of here now!”

He felt embarrassed by her comments, so he pulled Amy. “Let’s just go!”

“Why are we leaving? Do you want to see your daughter die?” After that, she pretended to be innocent again by kneeling in front of Olivia. “Olivia, please let my daughter, Anna, go. If you hate her that much, you can try to beat me. Can’t I repay you by serving you in our next life? Peasants like us don’t have any power at all, so can you please show some mercy to us?”

Then, George pulled Amy’s shirt collar before shoving her aside. “What kind of drama are you reenacting here? Didn’t you hear her say that it wasn’t her? What are you crying now for?”

She fell on the floor with a thud.

Quickly, a reporter asked, “Why are you hitting her? Why can’t you use your words to settle this?”

George pointed at the person, roaring, “How can I use proper words if the entrance is being blocked by people who are asking nonsensical questions?”

Just as the studio was in a state of chaos, a police car approached from afar.

For a moment, everyone remained silent as Olivia no longer bothered to talk nonsense to them.

On the other hand, Amy and the reporters never expected the police to arrive at such a speed!

Then, two policemen dressed in uniform entered the studio and questioned them with authority, “Who made the report?”

Olivia raised her hand to imply that it was her. “Comrade, it was me!” After that, she went up to them. “They came and caused a commotion in my studio, which has seriously affected my business.”

The policemen turned their attention toward the reporters and Amy. “What happened?”

A crying Amy explained, “We didn’t come here to cause a commotion. She was the one who beat my daughter up and prevented the hospital from giving her painkillers. I don’t have any other choice but to do this!”

“She prevented the hospital from giving out painkillers? Does she even have that much power?” The policemen looked at Olivia with a confused look.

Olivia quickly defended herself. “I didn’t do that. They are slandering me!”

“If it wasn’t you, it was Eugene. Otherwise, who else would torture my daughter in this way?!”

However, Olivia still remained calm as she turned toward the two policemen. “Look at her. Did you hear what she just said? She keeps on shouting in my studio about one thing and yelling about another. I feel that there is something wrong with her brain!”

Amy roared angrily, “You are the one who has brain problems. No one would do this to my daughter except for you!”

Meanwhile, the policemen furrowed their brows slightly. Did she just mention Eugene Nolan?

However, right at the next second, the policemen's suspicions were confirmed—a stoic man walked in through the entrance with his slender body and black suit, which radiated a strong aura.

He was able to draw everyone's attention just by standing in his spot.

However, Olivia was almost scared to death. Why is Eugene here?

She glared at him with eyes full of hate, telling him, B*stard, what did you promise me?

Yet, he did not maintain her gaze for long—he only gave her a quick glance, as if he was here for business.

When the two policemen saw him, they greeted him politely, “President Nolan?”

Eugene answered, “What is it?”

“We received a report from Miss Maxwell, saying that someone was causing trouble here, so we came to take a look. President Nolan, may I ask why you came...”

He quickly glanced at her again before speaking faintly, “Miss Maxwell once treated my grandpa when he was ill, so we know each other.”
