Chapter 1711 Louie's Request

Louie stood up. "All right. After this meal, we'll talk about the termination of your contract." Soon, the food was served, but Eva clearly did not have any appetite and picked at her food, only eating the vegetables.

He looked at her somewhat thin body and frowned. "You don't need to go on a diet."

However, Eva wasn't going on a diet; she had simply lost her appetite because she was so furious with him. "Let me cancel my contract. We can still be friends, and I'll work with your company if needed in the future."

It had been a long time since Louie saw her chatting with him so calmly, and there was a smile at the corners of his mouth as he held his wine glass. "As long as you're willing to renew your contract, you can take 90 percent of the profits while the company only takes 10 percent. What do you think?"

Eva was taken aback for a moment. His proposition was unprecedented, and it did sway her a little.

"What I need now isn't money. It's freedom."

"I won't interfere with your life. You're free."

Chapter 1712 Because I Like You

"It must be Jessie! Why can she stay with him, but I can't?" Lisa scoffed, feeling a sense of injustice.

"Well..." Bethany was at a loss for words.

Just then, Vincent arrived. He happened to turn a corner and hear Lisa making a scene, so he answered, "Jessie is Julian's girlfriend, so of course, she has to stay with him."

Lisa's eyes instantly filled with jealousy. What? Jessie is Julian's girlfriend? How cunning! Besides, Vincent is the one to say this, so it must be true. In that case, Jessie will be a part of the Gilmore Family in the future! Now that she has Julian, all of her future resources will be at her disposal!

"It seems Miss Silverstein is quite the charmer if she managed to win Julian's heart so quickly!" Lisa commented snidely.

Vincent had intended to visit Julian, but since he was asleep, he could only leave. "Bethany, I'll visit again tomorrow."

Seeing that he was about to leave, Lisa immediately seized the opportunity and said, "Director Cooper, I'll go with you."

At one in the morning, Jessie was asleep when she felt someone putting a blanket over her. When she opened her eyes, she saw Julian crouching by the edge of her bed, looking at her tenderly.

The group silently exited the hospital and entered the nanny van to return to the hotel.

As Jessie didn't have a room card in her bag, she sent a message to Lexie. However, Lexie was probably fast asleep, so she never replied to Jessie's message.

Julian looked at Jessie's worried expression before saying, "Then, sleep in my guest room for the night." "No. I'll only disturb your rest." She was determined not to disturb his rest and firmly rejected the suggestion.

At that, the man held his forehead and sighed softly. "I'm alright with being disturbed by you. Just go to sleep in my room!" "Still—"

"No buts. Just sleep in my room tonight," Julian commented in an authoritative voice and did not give her a chance to refuse.

Hence, Jessie could only nod obediently. "Okay." At the hotel, Bethany and Harper sent them to the entrance and promptly left.

Jessie followed Julian into the room. It was midnight, and the hotel room lights were dim and ambiguous. As she was nervous, she sat on the sofa and looked around.

Chapter 1714 Practice Kissing

Jessie couldn't help but swallow while looking at Julian's sensual lips, and she suddenly felt a rush of courage to kiss him.

On the other hand, Julian was holding back, not because he didn't dare to kiss her but because he had a cold and didn't want to pass it on to her, despite the fever not being contagious.

He couldn't bear to touch her when he was sick. Meanwhile, Jessie was waiting for him but found that he had turned his head to continue watching television again. That put a damper on her expectant heart. However, she got bold and stood up from his arms to sit on him.

It was Julian's turn to be stunned. Jessie cupped his handsome face and her beautiful eyes stared hungrily at his thin lips. Julian saw right through her as he blinked his black eyes. "Jessie..."

"I want to kiss you." She was blunt as she requested, "Can you treat it as a kissing scene practice?"

Julian swallowed at that, but he refused. "No, I have a cold right now. I'll practice with you when I get better, okay?"

However, Jessie didn't care if he was sick or not. She was willing to go to the hospital and get an IV drip together the next day.

So, without saying a word, she cupped his face while puffing up her red lips to cover his thin ones.

She did not know how to kiss, so she could only press her thin lips against the man to feel his warmth and breath. Then, she even shyly nuzzled against him.

Jessie smiled and shook her head. "You're overthinking things!" "No way! Jessie, how can you miss such an opportunity when no one else can have it? Why didn't you make good use of it?"

Who said I didn't make good use of it? However, Jessie did not want anyone else to know. "You should have slept with him! Why are you being reserved? You're wasting such a good opportunity!" Lexie showed a sorry look for Jessie, to which the latter laughed.

"That's enough. Don't tell anyone about this!" When she returned to the room, her happiness was something she couldn't share with anyone, not even with her sister, as she was too embarrassed to say so.

After a day of rest, Jessie was back to intense filming. Director Cooper's directing was great, so Jessie could fully understand his meaning and do it to his satisfaction.

Eva was also filming her scenes, and her scenes were not that many. Initially, when she joined the crew, she only wanted to look for a movie to shoot. Presently, she was about to be released from her contract, and she was determined to finish the filming peacefully. Once her contract entered, all she wanted was to live freely.

She didn't want to get weighed down by the pressures of the press and the company. Eva knew she had a rich and leisurely life waiting for her. However, to gain her freedom, she had to give up one thing—herself.

Eva reached the door of her room and swiped her door card to go in. She decided to take a shower first. That was when her phone rang. She glanced at the number, and her heart tensed slightly. "Hello." "Back at the hotel?"

“Yes.” “Come to my room.” “Louie, it’s still afternoon. I want to take a rest,” Eva said unhappily. She didn’t want herself to be a cheap commodity that Louie could summon at will.

After that night, she would be away from the company and his people. “We have to discuss the termination of the contract, which involves your subsequent share of the post-collection.” The man spoke in a low voice.

Eva choked for a moment. Did I overreact? And so, she answered, “I’ll come right after I shower.”

Chapter 1717 Terminate Contract

Eva vividly remembered Louie pinning her down in the lounge at a company dinner as he kissed and hugged her. She was drunk at that time.

That was the time she regretted the most. If not for that time, she wouldn’t have wavered in her love for her boyfriend. Then, she wouldn’t have lost her heart and felt guilty for Tucker while she couldn’t control her passion for Louie.

In the blink of an eye, they had known each other for three years until Tucker passed away. She had then left him for two years. In the blink of an eye, Louie was now thirty-two while she was twenty-six.

Time flew by very quickly, just like a handful of sand. Eva was unknowingly immersed in the memories for a while. When Louie held up a cup of tea to drink, she only returned to her senses to watch him finish his tea. Then, he frowned as his lips pursed tightly as if he had encountered some problem.

Eva couldn't help but stare at his thin lips. She pursed her red lips as she thought of that one time in the dining lounge.

She recalled his crazy look.

As Eva was bored, she picked up a contract next to her. She flipped it and found that it was her termination contract, so she couldn't help but read it.

"Do you know how often I've gotten drunk just because of you?" Eva felt the arms around her waist tighten and the man's lips were kissing her hair. Her heart couldn't help but soften at that. When she heard his husky and deep confession, she almost cried.

She knew he had come by while she was shooting a commercial abroad. However, he didn't know that after he left, she dropped the commercial and chased after him, only to look at his departing car. She was full of loss but had no one to tell.

However, she was afraid to show her feelings. It was because she was the one who said she didn't want to see Louie for two years. He did it, but she didn't.

There was another thing she had been worried about. In showbiz, almost everyone looked alike. A newcomer debuted under the title of little Eva, who was signed to Louie's company. She wondered if he had ever taken special care of her.

"Do you like me?" Eva asked as she smiled bitterly.

“What do you think? Would I have waited five years for you if I didn’t like you?” Louie muttered frustratedly, his lips pressing against her ear.

“With all the female artists under you, there’s many for you to choose from. Why me?” Eva turned her face away, her ear tingling at his hot breath.

“Because it’s you. Only you are worth waiting for.”

Chapter 1719 Dinner

Eva had been reading the messages on her phone for quite some time when the man took a seat opposite her. After checking the time on his watch, he asked the hotel staff to serve them dinner.

At that moment, his phone rang out of the blue. He picked up the phone from the table, but he only cast a glance at it before putting it back.

Eva’s attention was drawn to the phone, and she saw a woman’s name on the screen. Raising her brows, she asked, “Why didn’t you answer it?”

“It’s nothing important.” “It must be a woman,” she commented bitterly, prompting him to smile. “Are you jealous?” His words reminded Eva of her feelings. Thus, she immediately turned her face away. “I’m not.”

A frown formed between Louie’s brows as he pondered. There was a thing that Julian didn’t even know about. Back when Louie was ten years old, his parents had arranged an alliance marriage between him and a girl from another family to raise funds. Even after his parents passed away, the other family still insisted on realizing the marriage.

The caller was none other than his so-called fiancée. The hotel restaurant had specifically provided them the dinner, and the chef had paid special care when cooking them. Besides, the dining table in the room was decorated with lighted candles and roses in a vase, which gave off a romantic vibe.

Eva hid in the bedroom the whole time until the server set up the table and served the food. After that, she finally walked out of the room because she didn't want to reveal the relationship between her and Louie to the public.

Chapter 1720 Her First Time

Based on Louie's observation, Eva had moved on from the impact her ex-boyfriend left on her. Thus, it was about time for her to start a new relationship.

He was confident that he met all of her standards for a partner, which confused him why she decided to leave him. "You're an excellent man, but I'm not good enough for you," she mocked herself.

"Don't mess with me. What makes you think you are not good enough? We're the perfect match." Louie harrumphed.

A smile stretched across Eva's face then. "President Gilmore. You aren't the only one to decide whether we are a perfect match or not." "Fine. We'll see about it tonight," he answered petulantly.

She blushed at the explicit words. Even the tip of her ears was showing a hint of red at the realization. Did he just talk dirty to me? Where did the usually serious Louie go?
