

Baby Daddy 1731

Chapter 1731 An Unfamiliar Number

“Why? That’s because my brother has no feelings for Miss Constantine.” “Will there be any losses if your brother fails to go through with the engagement?” Eva asked anxiously.

“I’m not too sure about that either. We might have to transfer the corresponding amount of company shares based on the loan from back then to the Constantine Family! The Constantines have never asked us to return the money because it was considered their daughter’s dowry.”

A bitter feeling surged through her heart. Does that mean Louie will have to pay a heavy monetary price to the Constantine Family if he marries me?

“What about Miss Constantine? Does she have feelings for Louie?” She inquired further.

For a moment, Julian didn’t know how to answer. Lucy Constantine was in love with his brother, but Louie had never even looked at her way before. In any case, she would not willingly allow the engagement to be dissolved so easily.

“Eva, don’t think too much about this. I’m sure my brother will have a solution to this situation,” he reassured.

something. Miss Constantine is probably in love with Louie! That’s why the Constantine Family would rather refuse the filming his scenes and Eva decided to head back to her car. At this moment, her phone rang. She picked up her phone and saw that it was an unfamiliar number. “Hello, who is Miss Duncan. I am Lucy Constantine, Louie’s fiancée.” An aggressive voice came from the other end of the phone call. Taking a deep breath, she Louie online. I don’t know whether they are real or fake, but I’m guessing that they are fake. In any case, denied the claims. “You’re right. The rumors possible to increase their standing. Eva, I’m sure Louie played a huge role in your achieving your you for you will be able to attend our wedding this year.” Lucy come if I have the chance to,” Eva contract in place. If he refuses to take me as his wife, then he will have to transfer 20% of his company’s shares to my family. The value of those shares when converted to money is not something you can begin to understand. Even if you are Eva Duncan,

Chapter 1732 Back to Aversa

Would the baby look like him? Or would it look like me? Would it be a boy? Or a girl? In any case, Queenie was not stressed by her pregnancy and she simply wanted to naturally welcome her first baby into the world.

In that way, the date of the wedding gradually approached with only one more week to go.

The elders of the Silverstein Family were living on cloud nine. They used to be very worried about the person whom their daughter was going to marry, but there was nothing for them to worry about now.

On the side of the filming crew, Jessie was also looking forward to going home to attend the wedding. In the blink of an eye, she had already been filming for nearly a month.

Three days later, she and Julian both applied for leave so that they could step away from the filming crew to attend the wedding. As bridesmaids and groomsmen, they had to be prepared for the wedding.

Eva finished filming her role two days later. She had shortened the filming time because she wanted to complete her scenes earlier and return to Averno as soon as possible.

Three days later, Julian arranged for his brother's private plane to come over. Then, the three of them boarded the plane and headed to Averno together.

On the plane, Jessie discovered that Eva was gloomy and unhappy. She had heard from Julian that Louie had an engagement that had yet to be dissolved.

"Eva, why don't you eat something?" Jessie sat opposite Eva.

I can't stomach anything at the moment." Eva shook her for the future?"

she shook her head. "I guess I'll rest first! I've been feeling tired recently. Let's go out for afternoon tea and dinner if we have the over to pick them up. One car was there to bring Jessie and Julian back to the Silverstein Residence while the month since she last saw her parents, so they missed her badly. They initially wanted to visit her at work, but that she has prepared a feast and Julian nodded, not bothering maintain some distance when we reach

Eva. It

"Why?" He frowned.

seemed to indicate that she had used some sort of underhanded means to win him over. Therefore, it was better angry and amused by her antics, he could only

Jessie nodded,

as Eva's car entered the highway off the airport, she received

The man's deep and hoarse next few days." She refused his request and suggested, "You should thinking about

Chapter 1733 Home

Eva opened the door and walked into her apartment. Then, she suddenly saw a men's suit on the sofa and couldn't help tensing in fear at the sight. Who came to my house? Is there somebody in my house?

She was descending into a full-blown panic attack when she suddenly recalled that the security system of this community was one of the best in the area. There was no way anybody could enter her house that easily!

Just as her heart was threatening to jump out of her chest, she suddenly saw a figure emerging from the balcony and walking toward her. "You're back."

As soon as she saw this person, she yelled, "How did you enter my house?" It was none other than her employer, Louie.

"Don't you know that the company has a copy of the key for all the houses that are allocated to you?"

She remained silent. Is that his reason for barging into my house? That's so unreasonable!

"I told you I need to rest. Hurry up and return to your company!" After saying that, Eva put her luggage down and turned to walk toward her room so that she could get some rest.

However, at this very moment, Louie's slender but firm arms circled her waist from behind. "I missed you. I missed you so much."

numbing current soon surged from the soles of her feet to the top of her head. His very aura was attracting her, so much so that all the cells in go of me!" Eva struggled hard to

You refused to come to my house, so I had no choice but to come to yours instead," Louie her today. Otherwise, he deep affection in his eyes as soon as she made face slightly, he

heart tremble in response, and she couldn't down and carried her, then he walked toward her bedroom. Her rebellious intention

...

At the Silverstein Residence.

Silverstein Family happily welcomed their second daughter home. They had missed her terribly after not seeing her for an entire month. At

for taking care

It's what I should

Nigel's best friend, so you can already be held her daughter's hand and pulled her daughter to the sofa. Then, she sat down and observed her daughter. "You've lost weight! You've lost weight again! You should take the time to

Chapter 1734 The Most Beautiful Smile

"Alright. Please stay safe." At 3.00PM, Jessie prepared many gifts and brought them to the orphanage. It so happened that a reporter was skulking around the entrance of her house, especially after he had followed her from the airport. News regarding her was very valuable recently, so he did not leave.

He later followed her car when Jessie left the house. He was surprised that her destination turned out to be an orphanage. Not to mention, he could easily take many pictures of the yard from his car. He watched as she gave out presents, held hands with the children at the orphanage, and chatted with them happily.

She even hugged and coaxed a crying child. The reporter couldn't help feeling a little heavy-hearted after taking so many pictures. He originally wanted to sell pictures of her negative activities, but she turned out to be such a kind lady instead. She did not bother to maintain her image as an idol and seemed completely indifferent about getting her clothes dirty. In fact, her smile around the children was bright and happy.

In the end, the reporter sold the pictures he took to some media outlets at a low price and left.

That evening, the media published these pictures with the caption, 'The Most Beautiful Smile'.

The Jessie in the pictures was the real her, not a pretentious version of herself. Her smile, when she was with the children, was very infectious. As a result, the fans who were starting to follow her learned about her honest and kind nature.

her made others aware of her sincerity. The number of her fans phone call from Lexie telling her that she had been followed during her trip to the orphanage in the afternoon. On the contrary, she was unhappy about being publicized in this manner because these were things that she should have done had been reposted countless times. Fortunately, her fans loved two sisters finally met each other at the restaurant. Queenie held hands with Jessie.

for dinner. It didn't take long for Julian to men were a sight to behold. They caused all the serving staff passing by to experience an increased heart rate, and even the female guests couldn't help sneaking holding hands and chatting away happily behind the men. The also recognized Julian and Jessie as idols but did unapproachable noble. That was why had been waiting for the arrival of their daughters at the restaurant. When they saw those four walking in together, they had the feeling that Julian would eventually become part of the side of the parents while the two men sat on the other side of these

Chapter 1735 The Ugly Duckling's Transformation

Unfortunately, many reporters were lurking in the shopping center. One of them was initially following another celebrity, but his sharp eye had spotted Jessie and Queenie among the crowd. He was immediately stunned. Jessie is part of a twin?

That was an extremely rare piece of news. Moreover, if he was not mistaken, the two men following behind them were the president of the Manson Group and Julian Gilmore. The old man accompanying them was also very familiar as he could often be seen gracing the front page of the business magazines. Thus, the reporter hurriedly took pictures of this unexpected group of people browsing the shops.

It wasn't until they left the shopping center that the reporter searched for information on the old man's background information. Sure enough, he was right to think that the old man looked very familiar. The old man turned out to be Brandon Silverstein, a renowned giant in the food and beverage industry. It would seem that Jessie was his daughter and the second daughter of the Silverstein Family.

Unexpectedly, the information uploaded on the Internet claiming that she had entered the entertainment industry without any backing was completely wrong. Not only did she have a strong family background, but her sister was also married to the future head of the Manson Group. No wonder Julian was willing to go shopping with her. It could be seen that the Silverstein Family's daughters held incredible charm.

They shopped until 9.00PM. Nigel then brought Queenie home while the two elders of the Silverstein Family brought their youngest daughter home. Likewise, Julian returned to his apartment.

a drowsy Jessie received a phone call from Lexie, her. The title was 'The mysterious background of the newly-debuted on her hand with a sinking sense of helplessness. She was coming to realize that she no longer had a private industry is shocked. We all thought that you were Cinderella, but the ugly duckling." Jessie laughed and replied through family again. If he had not recognized her at a glance, she did not know how much longer it would have taken for her to find her family! If she had missed the today, she was consumed by the urge to visit him while he could only gain scraps of information through media releases. In contrast, she now had the opportunity to visit the scene in person. How could she let such an opportunity slip through her fingers? Although she was still a little sleepy, there was a strong driving force that pushed her she couldn't help feeling very refreshed when she wore a simple t-shirt and hoodie after she