

My Baby's Daddy Chapter 1751

"What is it?" Julian narrowed his eyes. "Aww, just take a guess." "Fine. Candies?" he said. Jessie's nose scrunched up. "How did you get that right on the first try?" She thumped his chest lightly.

He burst into laughter. That was just a random guess. He never expected to hit the mark, but he did. He pulled her into his embrace and kissed her cheek. "Alright, I'm sorry. Shouldn't have guessed it."

He's so sweet. She loved that he was apologizing for something this trivial—it meant he cared about her feelings. He pushed her head closer to his chest, and she leaned into his embrace, enjoying the scent of flowers brought in by the gentle breeze.

"So, this is what bliss feels like." Jessie sighed. We can see the Milky Way from here, and there's the moon up there. It feels like I'm in a painting. Bliss, at least to Julian, was to have whatever he loved. He caressed her hair softly. "Yeah. And I'm feeling blessed to have you beside me, too."

someone on the boat out on the ocean started the fireworks. A delighted Jessie hugged him tightly.

show with her. It went on for half an hour, and most of the fireworks would create different shapes and patterns after they went off. Eventually, they got tired from standing up for too long, so the fireworks happily. She would start to gurgle from time to time. Anastasia, on the other hand, leaned on her son.

enjoying the fireworks. Queenie rested her head on Nigel's shoulder. We're married now. He's the one I'm was getting late, and the older guests needed their the port, and a yacht was waiting on the sea. She froze for a few moments. Oh, right. He did say we were going out Eventually, they came to a stop in the middle of the ocean. The couple had some wine and enjoyed the view of the sea. Just the sight of it carried all their worries away, approval.

kissed her ear, and it triggered something in her. She turned around and held his face before leaning in and kissing him. It was a deep, passionate, and beautiful kiss. Even the air had turned hot and heavy from the intensity of their kiss. However, they pressed