

Daddy 1631

Chapter 1631 First Night with the Silversteins

"He's a friend of mine. I'll invite him out for a meal with all of us sometime soon!" Nigel agreed with a smile. He was more than happy to oblige.

Jessie shared briefly about her life at the orphanage. Fortunately, the director at the orphanage had been a kind, motherly figure who treated Jessie well. Although the orphanage was poor, Jessie's childhood had been filled with love and joy.

It went without saying that Brandon and Maggie were determined to thank the director at the orphanage. They were also going to provide as much help as they could to the orphanage.

"Jessie, my dear child." Maggie held Jessie in her arms all this while as if she was making up for the lost time. Jessie could sense the love her parents had for her, as well as the remorse they felt for all the years of separation.

However, in Jessie's eyes, being reunited with her family was her greatest joy in life. She felt a weight lifted off her shoulders after knowing that her parents were still alive and healthy.

After dinner, Nigel left, and Queenie took Jessie to her room. The Silverstein couple couldn't wait to refurbish a room for Jessie. The one that Bonnie used had been turned into a storage room.

The couple didn't want Jessie to stay in that room either. They didn't want their precious daughter to be tainted by the room's previous owner.

With Brandon and Maggie's permission, Queenie filled Jessie in on everything that happened in the past year.

leeches off the family? She even spent over a million of imposter's outcome. She was back now. No one they couldn't sleep a wink. It was as if the daughter had truly

a lovely name," Maggie remarked with tongue. From now dream has always been to see both our daughters marry and start their own much to talk about too. They stayed up talking until the wee hours of the morning before was the next so she wore one of Queenie's dresses. When she came downstairs, chuckled. "It's me,

and Miss Queenie are so similar. I couldn't Jessie smiled. She and Maggie also had to stare for a few moments before

Chapter 1632 Shopping

“Oh, right. We’re having a dinner party tomorrow, so take Jessie to the boutique and pick out an evening gown for her,” Maggie instructed Queenie.

“I will.” Queenie linked arms with Jessie. “Come on! Let’s get some shopping done.”

Jessie was thrilled to go shopping with her sister, and their parents were grinning ear to ear to see their gorgeous girls heading out together.

The maid who was attending to them also started praising, “You’re so fortunate, Mr. and Mrs. Silverstein! Your daughters are so beautiful. I’m sure they’ll find wonderful husbands in the future.”

That was music to Brandon and Maggie’s ears. Now that Queenie had found her life partner, they looked forward to Jessie meeting hers too.

Most women loved shopping, but Jessie never had the guts to step into these sorts of boutiques. It was her first time today, and Queenie kept getting her to try on all of the dresses she had only seen on the hottest actresses. Queenie bought everything that looked good on her.

In the blink of an eye, the two assistants who came out with the two sisters were weighed down by a mountain of shopping bags.

We don’t need to boutique and the sisters spent another hour shopping before they went for lunch. After lunch, Queenie brought Jessie to a boutique to try on evening gowns, and once that was over, they stopped by the spa for some was, the situation hadn’t escaped Queenie’s eyes at all. She could tell that Jessie liked Julian but was too afraid to even consider anything due she supported Jessie’s acting career. One day, Jessie would reach proven herself, and she would be able to pursue something with it her all to doll Jessie up and Maggie started tearing up again. This was the Dad, we’re ready,”

“Great. Let’s go!”

happily with Brandon in the driver’s seat, Maggie in the front passenger seat, and the two sisters had a relatively simple life outside of filming. He was a gifted actor who spent most of his free time there a need to make such a big deal out of thanking me? I didn’t do anything!” Julian felt

Chapter 1633 Dinner

Julian was someone who would still look handsome and distinguished no matter what he wore. Tonight, he was wearing a simple black hoodie, but that was enough to make him look like a prince.

Queenie had already started skipping over to Nigel. She wanted to hug him, but she held herself back since her parents were around.

“You must be Julian Gilmore! My, my! What a fine young man you are!” Maggie swiftly went forward to greet Julian warmly.

Julian sensed warmth and kindness from her. He nodded and smiled. “It’s nice to meet you, Mrs. Silverstein.”

“Thank you for helping us find Jessie, Julian. Who knows when we would’ve reunited with her if it hadn’t been for you?” Brandon was immensely grateful.

“Not at all. I met Miss Silverstein by coincidence too.” Julian didn’t dare to take credit for it as he hadn’t been all that nice when they first met.

In fact, he even suspected her of being a thief.

Jessie and ended up staring right into her large, clear eyes. She gave him a bright smile been so long since he had last seen such a pure, untainted smile—a smile without any greed or ulterior motives. It was a clean, sweet smile that

Please come this way, Mr. and Mrs. Silverstein.” Nigel and took their seats. When Maggie saw her two daughters

two young men here today were my future remained light-hearted. When the topic landed on Jessie’s dreams for her future, her parents were fully supportive of whatever she wanted to do. It didn’t matter to them what their daughter pursued, as long as she was happy. Furthermore, they will have a brilliant career ahead of her nervous. She was afraid that this would only be a bother to Julian as she didn’t want someone say in a deep voice, “I will someone who was going to be under the care of

with their love and care. Her face steadily grew redder

Julian noticed it all.

Chapter 1634 Visiting the Orphanage

Nigel figured that he had to let the Silversteins reconnect with Jessie for a while before turning their attention to his and Queenie’s wedding.

At Silverstein Residence.

Brandon and Maggie decided to visit the orphanage Jessie had grown up in tomorrow and convey their deepest gratitude.

That night, as the two sisters lay in bed together, Jessie asked curiously about Queenie and Nigel's relationship. As she listened to the stories, Julian's face popped into her mind all of a sudden, and she nearly jumped out of bed in shock.

What am I thinking? Why do I feel hopeful about dating Julian? Have I gone mad? What on earth gave me the courage to even dream of that?

"Jessie? What's on your mind?" Queenie saw the way Jessie's eyes were seemingly wide with shock.

Jessie quickly smiled and said, "It's nothing. I was just thinking that I'll get to attend your wedding soon."

That's right! Jessie's back now, and once the whole family has gotten the chance to spend more time together, it'll be time to start planning for my she propped her head up to ask, "Jessie, do you like off. "How could I? I try and go after him. You won't know unless you try.

him all this while. I think he's incredible and very mysterious. He's also very prominent, so even if he likes someone who hasn't proven themselves yet, it still despite her young age, but she was right. There was a huge gap between them, and things would be hard for them if they plan for the future,

now." Jessie wanted to focus on earning money so that she could help the orphanage more, and she also wanted to fulfill her

The next morning.

Silversteins left for the orphanage with a woman in her fifties, but due to her laborious job, she

Jessie. Flora herself spent a lot of time trying to help the children at the orphanage reunite with their families, but it

Chapter 1635 Is He Coming?

At the orphanage, Queenie helped out by handing out gifts to the children. Everyone felt a sense of affinity toward her as she looked exactly like Jessie. They saw her as a warm, friendly older sister.

The Silversteins stayed at the orphanage until 2.00PM and had lunch with the children. When Maggie saw the tiny room Jessie used growing up, she couldn't stop her tears from flowing as her heart filled with indescribable pain.

Once the family got back to Silverstein Residence, Queenie ushered her parents upstairs to rest as they needed to host the dinner party tonight.

There were slightly over fifty guests coming to the party; all of Brandon's business acquaintances had been invited, along with the Silversteins' relatives. As it was held at the grand hall at the Mansons' hotel, it was undoubtedly going to be a grand affair.

At approximately 4.00PM, a team of stylists came over to help the sisters prepare for the event tonight, in which Jessie's last name was going to change from Landry to Silverstein officially. As for her official documentation, they had made the arrangements to change it tomorrow.

At last, the family of four had finally reunited.

Queenie gave Nigel a call in the privacy of her bedroom and reminded him, "Don't forget to invite Julian."

"Don't worry! I already told him about it. He'll be there."

yet as she wanted to give Jessie a surprise. She seemed light and airy. Although the silhouette was simple enough, the dress was full of intricate designs; the chest area of her dress was covered in tiny crystals, and the cut of her dress highlighted her slim waist and elegant curves. The stylist who did Jessie's hair and makeup took inspiration from the dress and gave her a look that instead and wore her hair down with a pearl hair clip to give it an accent. She family left for the hotel beforehand. Both families were thrilled with the marriage of their child was startled when she saw it was Leslie

I heard you have found your real sister and that you're throwing her a dinner party tonight. Can I come too?" Leslie better if you don't,"

me come and see your sister!" He was still eager to join the dinner was firm about hung up at once. She and Leslie couldn't even be friends left the lounge and started making

"Good evening, Miss Silverstein."

sister, so she went along with it and smiled politely in response. Looks like most people won't be able to tell us apart. They'll probably keep mixing us up

Chapter 1636 A Successful Fan

"Queenie's with Nigel." Julian glanced over at the couple to point them out to Jessie.

She nodded at once. "Oh! I see her. Thanks."

He stood there with a glass of wine in his hand, his eyes staring straight at her. The chandelier above them reflected in his eyes and made them sparkle like the stars in galaxies.

What a pair of bewitching eyes. Jessie had felt pretty confident about herself thanks to her makeover, but she quickly lost it all under his gaze. She was afraid that he wouldn't find her attractive.

However, to her absolute surprise, Julian commented, "You look very beautiful tonight."

She became bashful at his praise and returned him a compliment as well. "You look very handsome too, Mr. Gilmore!"

"Don't call me Mr. Gilmore. You can just call me Julian."

"Okay!" Jessie nodded in agreement. She didn't mind the new way of addressing him at all.

came over. "Oh my goodness! It's into their celebrity crush while attending a Silversteins, and at this very and allowed the two fans to talk to Julian upon noticing

to the family, she wanted to let them the two young women's exuberance. He raised his hand and addressed them politely, "Please excuse me. I have something to discuss with with him. She was stunned, and her cheeks were aflame as she door behind them, he sighed. "This is why I don't like going find me noisy too?" Jessie teased as she recalled joining his fans in welcoming him at the airport some cocked his eyebrows. "Are you a of the more passionate fans, he was the only young actor she admired in the

what it feels like to succeed as a

I get to eat dinner and have a back to your guests," he said. He didn't want to take up all of her time tonight. She

he was

Chapter 1637 Julian's Gift

Julian had chosen his leading lady—Jessie, who had yet to make her debut.

Once all the guests arrived, the first item on the agenda was Brandon's announcement that his youngest daughter had been found. Jessie went up on stage accompanied by her older sister, and the guests were shocked by the sight of the happily reunited family.

Everyone in the crowd was thinking the same thing. They're twins, alright! They look exactly the same.

Many of the young men in the crowd were beginning to get ideas. The Silversteins' fortune was going to go to the two sisters in the future, so if they became the Silversteins' son-in-law, they would get to take possession of half of the family's fortune!

Nigel and Julian were leaning against a pillar by the stage. They each had a glass of wine in their hands as they gazed at the pair of gorgeous young women up on the stage. Then, Nigel's sharp hearing picked up on the words coming from a young man. "Wow! I think the elder Miss Silverstein has inherited the company. I'm sure I can easily sign a deal with Silverstein Enterprise if I manage to woo her."

Nigel smirked at that. He walked over to that man and tapped him on the shoulder. The man was startled and turned around to see a tall, handsome man behind him. "Yes?"

"I'm just here to give you a friendly reminder. The elder Miss Silverstein is my fiancée. You'll have to be careful if you try to get any ideas about her." Nigel's sharp gaze paired well with his warning tone.

I was just blabbing. I

he quickly

on stage apart, but for those who took

Julian could both easily tell them apart with to Jessie's return to the family, the Silversteins shared a group hug, and the crowd rang out in applause at the her mother close. Brandon patted her on the shoulder, whereas Queenie reached out to hug her sister you all have a wonderful time tonight!" Brandon addressed the crowd coming over to congratulate the Silverstein couple. The Manson couple men, who were still standing by the pillar. Jessie was a little red-faced as she have a gift for you, blinked. "That's not necessary at all, Mr. Gilmore. I'm already honored that you came. I can't you must accept this gift was. Jessie was a little embarrassed. "What do you wish

Chapter 1638 Topsy

Julian raised his glass and tapped it against Jessie's. As soon as she finished the glass, Maggie came over to get her. She wanted to introduce Jessie to the guests. Queenie and Nigel went over to the restaurant, and a few more young women quickly crowded around Julian. Even a few older ladies came over to ask if he was married. They were keen to introduce their daughters to him!

He was somewhat exasperated, but he remained pleasant and amiable the whole time.

At the restaurant, Nigel and Queenie sat down at a table after filling their plates. As they took in the view of the night sky, Queenie exhaled in joy. "We've finally reunited."

"That means we have time to consider our future now." Nigel stared at her with his dark, affectionate eyes.

She looked back at him a little guiltily. Amid all the commotion of finding her sister, she ended up neglecting him a fair bit. She nodded and agreed, "Yeah! I'll bring it up with my parents."

"I'll bring my parents to your house three days later to formally ask for your hand in marriage," he informed her of his plan.

cheeks grew a little warm as she everyone. The guests were very warm and welcoming, and she ended up drinking a lot each couldn't find her anywhere. Jessie felt a little light-headed and decided to take a seat. One of the young men, who wanted to approach her, immediately seized this alright, Miss Silverstein? Allow me to take you to the lounge fine, thank

me. Are you sure you're alright?" The young man didn't want to miss this opportunity. Since she was drunk, it was the perfect time for him step, her head became woozy, and she fell back down onto the chair. The man reached out time, a man's voice rang out. "I'll take care of Miss to see who was trying to steal this opportunity from him, but the moment he saw who it was, he deflated at once. Julian was not the end, that young man left sheepishly. Jessie raised her head to look at Julian. Her face seemed much? No one's forcing you." He sat down beside

I drink a bit

Chapter 1639 Really Drunk

"Have some tea." Julian poured her a cup of tea.

Jessie drank it and asked, "Mr. Gilmore, why do you do so much for me?"

He fell into deep thought upon hearing that question. In all honesty, I'm not so sure about that as well. Is it because you're Queenie's sister and that she's my best friend's fiancée? Is that why I care about you so much? "What? Are you complaining about it? Do you really have to ask for a reason?" He evaded her question as he had no answer for it.

"I guess not. Don't mind me. That was a stupid question. I should be happy that someone is nice to me." She beamed giddily. It was evident that she had gotten really drunk.

"I should see my dad and mom now." She pushed herself up and tried to leave. I can walk, no problem. However, walking when she was drunk felt like stepping on clouds. She had only taken a few steps before losing her balance and falling right into Julian's arms.

He quickly placed his arm around her waist and helped her back to her seat. "Don't go around. Stay here."

drunk. She patted her cheeks, her eyes telling a hundred stories at the same time. Then, she huddled closer. "Mr. Gilmore, can I ask you something? It's private, but I promise it's just a

"What is it?"

curiously. The only one who was rumored to be dating him was Eva, the actress he had worked with many important to you?" Julian narrowed

"Not really. Just wanna know. You don't have to tell me if you we are not dating. Eva and I are only means

this drunk, though they were also amused. Lots of people had raised a toast to her earlier, and she had no idea how to deal with them, so as anywhere. She so they couldn't leave. Just then, Jessie stood up. "Don't worry about me, Dad, Mom. I can go upstairs by are drunk. I don't

at the man by her side.

Chapter 1640 To School

After he checked into the hotel, Julian took a keycard and went to the elevator.

Jessie was getting dizzier in the elevator and rested her head on Julian's shoulder. He looked down and saw her full, luscious lips. For some reason, it aroused him a little.

He turned away his gaze from her tempting lips to regain focus, and the elevator door swung open soon after. Though, he realized the girl beside him couldn't even be bothered to walk anymore.

"My head is spinning," she muttered.

Julian had no choice but to pick her up; holding her up was a hassle but carrying her was not.

Jessie kept her weight under control, thanks to her job. And she was a dancer, too. Julian thought she felt light and soft as he carried her in his arms.

Once they reached their room, he opened the door and put her on the bed. Jessie still had her arms wrapped around his neck as he laid her down, so he ended up getting pulled toward her. Her face was only millimeters away from his. They were so close to each other that he could even hear her breathing. "Miss Silverstein, let go," he whispered.

quickly upon realizing she was heart racing a mile, the drunken lady didn't think much of the incident

her in case anything floor enjoying the view, or rather, they were making out. Kissing getting lovey-dovey with each other, Queenie received a call from her parents and felt rather embarrassed was. After a short to do was sleep. Even with Julian beside her, she didn't wake up back to keep an eye on her while the gentlemen left. The Silversteins stayed at the hotel for the night, with the parents sharing a room while Queenie lying on the bed

I get here?" She had teasingly. "Think long and hard. Someone

"Was it you?"