

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2722

Chapter 2722

Eric arrived last night. After arriving, he rested overnight in the hotel.

“Go and buy a thicker coat later!” Layla looked at the coat on his body, which was brought from Aryadelle.

The temperature there was much colder than in Aryadelle, and the thickness of domestic coats was not enough to resist the cold outside in the Northland.

And when they got to the snow-capped mountains, the temperature would be even colder.

If he just went up the snow-capped mountains like this, he would definitely suffer from frostbite.

“Hmm,” Eric responded.

“There is a clothing store near the hotel. That’s where I bought my coat.” Layla said. She came here earlier than him, and was a little more familiar with this place than him.

“Okay. Have you finished all your work?” Eric asked.

Layla: “It’s all settled. But even if I don’t call you, I will stay here for a few days. The scenery here is very good.”

When Layla spoke, she looked out of the floor-to-ceiling windows glanced.

Beautiful snow scenes could be seen everywhere there.

The pure white sky and snow could temporarily eliminate all distracting thoughts in the mind, and even the mind turned white, as if by magic.

“Don’t drink alcohol with such a strong alcohol content in the future. Especially outside.” Eric recalled her drunken tone that night, and said seriously.

“I’m not drunk.” Layla argued, “If I was really drunk, would I be able to call you so accurately? If I was really drunk, maybe the call would go to my brother or my dad.”

Layla had a point.

After Eric finished his breakfast, he took a tissue to pat the corners of his mouth, and said, “I told your mother before I came here.”

Layla raised her eyebrows immediately, "What are you talking to my mother about? I'm afraid they will find out, Are you afraid they won't know?"

"We meet normally, so don't be afraid of being known by them." Eric explained.

"Since we met normally, why did you report to my mother?" Layla glared at him, "When we met before, did we need to report to my parents?"

Eric picked up his water glass and took a sip.

"Why are you guilty? You told my mother..." Layla muttered, picking up her mobile phone to see if her mother had found her.

But Avery didn't say anything other than asking Layla if she had eaten and how she was sleeping.

"My mother didn't say anything." Layla was a little surprised, "Dad didn't say anything, didn't my mom tell my dad?"

"Maybe she didn't! Your dad didn't look for me either." Eric said and put drinking glass down.

"Oh..." Layla didn't like the sneaky feeling.

She obviously didn't make a mistake, so why should she feel guilty and afraid?

"I'm full, do you still want to eat?" Layla put down the tableware and asked.

"I'm full too. Didn't you say there is a clothing store nearby? Let's go and have a look." Eric put on the mask and stood up.

"It will take about ten minutes to walk there. You are too thin to wear, let's go by car!" Layla said, asking the bodyguards to go to the hotel to call for a car.

After the car was called, the two got in the car.

There were no vehicles or pedestrians on the road because the temperature was too cold.

It was now snowing, the road was slick, and the driver was driving more slowly.

Five minutes later, the car stopped at the door of the clothing store.

After getting off the car, Layla introduced to Eric: "This brand of clothing is a very famous brand in the local area. The clothes are really good, and they are very warm."

Layla was wearing a down jacket purchased from this store.

Eric stared at her clothes, and asked, "Why don't you buy long ones? Long ones are warmer."

Layla: "I also bought these trousers from their store. Down trousers are also very warm. Actually, I think wearing long styles will make people look bloated."

Eric: "In this extremely cold temperature, keeping warm is the most important thing."

After the two entered the store, Eric chose a long men's down jacket.

"Are you afraid of the cold?" Layla stood by and laughed.

Eric: "Didn't you say you were going to the snow-capped mountains?"

Layla: "Yes! You should buy a long style! I didn't laugh at you. You are tall, so it will fit you comfortably no matter how long you wear it."

Eric would get hot quickly after putting on this down jacket.

Because there was heating in the store.

"Just this one!" Eric took off his coat.

"You should buy another pair of down pants! Otherwise your legs will be cold." Layla stood in front of the shelf and gave him a pair of men's down pants.

Eric took it and looked at the size.

"Is it the right size? you'll take whatever." Layla didn't know what size his pants were.

"It fits, just right." Eric took the trousers and went to the dressing room to put them on.

Layla went to the women's clothing section and looked at the long styles.

It's still the styles she saw when she came to buy last time.

"Miss, would you like to try this long one? This one is similar to the one your boyfriend bought. Many couples choose these two styles as couple clothes!" The Sales Person recommended a long down jacket to Layla.

Without even thinking about it, Layla refused: "He's not my boyfriend. I just look at it, I don't buy it."

"Okay!" The Sales Person hung the clothes back to their original positions.

After a while, Eric came out of the dressing room wearing down pants.

"How are you feeling?" Layla asked.

Eric: "It's really warm."

Layla: "Then buy this! Put on the coat again, and we can go."

The Sales Person asked: "Where are you going to play?"

Layla: "We go to the snowy mountains."

The Sales Person: "Oh, do you need gloves? It's very cold over there. I think you need a pair of gloves. There are also hats and scarves...we have them in our store. Do you want to see them?"

Eric had already walked towards the place where hats, scarves and gloves were sold.

When the two came out of the store, the snow was heavier than before.

"Is it snowing here all the time?" When Eric came over last night, it was also snowing.

Layla shook her head: "No. It's just that it snows a lot."

Eric opened the car door and said to Layla, "Let's go!"

Layla got in.

After Eric also came in, Layla asked: "Do you know what I'm going to tell you?"

Eric: "Didn't we talk about it on the snowy mountains?"

If Layla couldn't help but say it now, Then will they continue to go to the snow mountain?

"Are you so patient?" Layla teased.

"You always tell me what you want to say. It's impossible to call me here, you just show me the scenery!" Eric had already adjusted his mood before coming over.

Layla also adjusted her mood, "Well. Before you came here, have you seen pictures of snow-capped mountains? They are very spectacular. Even if it is not for other things, it is worthwhile to come and see."

"Are these the ones you shared on Moments?" Eric didn't come to travel, so he didn't check the travel map here on the Internet.

Layla: "Of course not. I haven't been to a snow mountain yet! The ones I post on Moments are just snow scenes taken casually by the roadside."

"Have you brought your camera?" Eric asked.

Layla shook her head: "Just use your mobile phone to take pictures."

"When do you plan to return to Aryadelle?" Eric continued to ask.

Layla brushed her hair behind her ears: "In two days! I have booked a travel itinerary for tomorrow and the day after tomorrow with my assistant. You can also play here for a few more days, if you have nothing particularly important in Aryadelle. After all, you may not come here again in the future."

Chapter 2724

In fact, Layla's remarks had already revealed some information.

That was, even if Eric continued to travel in the Northland, Layla would not accompany him.

Eric understood the meaning of her words, but the expression on his face was still calm: "I'll see if there are any other interesting attractions here after I see the snow mountain."

"My assistant has a strategy guide. I'll ask her to send it to you later." Layla said generously.

"Okay. Why didn't your assistant accompany you?" Eric asked.

Layla: "She also went to play in the snow mountain today. I asked her to come with us, but she said she was afraid of disturbing our chat, so she acted alone."

After an hour's drive, the car stopped at the foot of the snow mountain.

This was a famous tourist attraction in the Northland.

There were a lot of tourists.

“The snow here is much smaller.” After getting off the car, Eric said, “Put on your hat and scarf. The snow here is small, but the temperature is cold.”

Only a pair of clear eyes could be seen outside after Layla put on her hat and scarf.

Even at the age of 25, Layla’s eyes were still genuine and pure, which was extremely rare.

“Gloves.” Seeing that she was not wearing gloves, Eric immediately reminded her.

Layla pulled the gloves out of her bag and put them on.

“Zip up the jacket.” Eric continued to remind.

Layla exhaled: “Why do you sound like you are taking care of a child! I’m not cold.”

Although Layla said it was not cold, she still pulled the zipper to the highest point.

Now her whole body was tightly wrapped except for her eyes, and she couldn’t feel the cold at all.

“Where’s the ticket?” Eric asked as he walked beside her.

“Ordered on the mobile phone. Just show the order on the mobile phone later.” Layla took out the mobile phone, “I can’t use the mobile phone even if I wear gloves.”

Eric: “You still want to play with the mobile phone in such a cold day? Your hands will get frostbite.”

“How can I show others the order if I don’t unlock it?” Layla retorted to him.

The two walked to the ticket gate at the gate and lined up.

“There’s a store over there.” Eric saw a store, “Why don’t you buy something to eat!”

Layla: “Didn’t you say that it’s too cold, and your hands will get frostbite if you take it out? You took off your scarf to eat, and your face is so pale. Don’t you also have frostbite?”

Eric knew that she was deliberately teasing him, but he was afraid that he would encounter traffic jams on the snowy mountains later, so he decided to buy something to eat.

Layla watched his back going to the store, her nose suddenly sore.

She felt like being forced to reboot, thinking that Eric would forever disappear from her life from now on.

Suddenly she felt a little out of breath. Immediately she lowered the zipper around her neck, and felt her palms sweat again, so she took off a glove.

Although the temperature was low, she didn't feel particularly afraid of the cold.

She took out her phone, clicked on the address book, found Eric's number, and planned to delete it.

"Miss, please go forward." The tourist behind Layla reminded Layla that there was a lot of space in front of her.

Layla immediately put away her phone and took a few steps forward.

There were still about ten meters ahead to the ticket gate.

Layla looked towards the store, looking for Eric.

The speed of entering the scenic spot was a little faster than she expected, she was afraid that it would be her turn to enter later, and Eric hadn't come yet.

Eric also kept an eye on Layla's situation. Seeing that Layla had moved forward, he immediately took out his wallet and paid the bill.

Layla saw that Eric was carrying a black bag, and she didn't know what he had bought in it.

Eric strode towards Layla.

Layla put the gloves on immediately.

"What did you buy?" Layla asked.

Eric showed her the bag, "Some bread, biscuits and drinks."

Chapter 2725

Layla was obviously not interested in these snacks he bought: "I don't like eating these."

"You had breakfast It's a bit small." Eric replied, "There are no high-end snacks here. You can satisfy your hunger later."

“I didn’t say I want to eat high-end snacks.” Layla scolded him, “I don’t like snacks.”

“You like to eat fruit. But there is no fruit for sale here.” Although Eric was quite familiar with her preferences, he was unsure if they had changed since then.

“You don’t need to buy fruit. It’s too heavy to carry. We won’t spend the night here.” Layla looked at the team in front of her and said casually, “It’s very fast to take the cable car. It’s cold up there, and those who can stay there for half an hour are warriors.”

“Have you bought the cable car ticket for the return trip?” Eric looked at the running cable car not far away and asked.

Layla: “When buying a ticket, the default is a round-trip ticket.”

Soon, they arrived.

Layla took off the gloves, turned on the phone, and showed the order to the staff.

The staff immediately gave her four lift tickets — Two up, two down.

After getting the tickets, Layla handed two of them to Eric.

The two entered the scenic spot and went to the place where the cable car was taken.

There was also a queue for the cable car.

“Look over there.” Layla saw people hiking up the snow-capped mountains at the foot of the mountain on the other side.

“It needs someone with experience to guide you.” Eric said, “I have made a related movie before. Before shooting, I trained with local guides for a long time.”

Layla was very surprised: “Then you still do it now. Is it?”

Eric shook his head: “Professional equipment, professional guides, and experienced climbers are all required... Climbing and filming are not the same thing.”

“Oh..... I’m not interested in outdoor adventures. But maybe I will be interested in the future. My uncle Mike said that every stage of a person’s thinking will change.” Layla said, “He said that he used to hate small animals, but now he likes small animals very much. He even bought an egg incubator to incubate eggs at home.”

Eric was taken aback.

“Have you ever seen yourself incubate an egg?” Layla laughed, “You can search online, there are not only egg sellers, but also egg incubator sellers.”

Eric: "Have they hatched and raised them in the yard by yourself?"

Layla: It should be! But he hasn't succeeded yet. He hatched a chick before, and the chick died within a few days. Now he hatches duck eggs and goose eggs."

Eric couldn't help laughing: "This is curiosity!"

Layla: "It should be a bit!"

The two arrived at the place where they took the cable car.

It took about twenty minutes before it was their turn to go up.

The cable car could only accommodate up to eight people, and there were not many cable cars here, so it took so long to queue up during the peak tourist season.

After entering the cable car, Eric stood in front of Layla and protected her inside.

The sense of security he gave Layla was the accumulation of each such relationship.

Layla turned her head to the side, looking at the scenery outside the cable car.

The mountain was covered with pure white snowflakes, reflecting a faint silver light under the natural light. At a glance, it was sacred and lonely.

The joys and sorrows of human beings had thus become insignificant.

They had no idea how long it would take the cable car to arrive at the destination.

This was the largest flat land on this snow mountain.

It was like being cut by a knife, in sharp contrast with the steep mountain not far away.

Eric patted Layla on the shoulder: "It's here."

Layla came back to her senses: "So soon?"

"Yes." Eric took her arm and walked out of the cable car, "Many people are taking pictures. Why don't I take some pictures for you first!"

He was afraid that after they finished talking, she wouldn't be in the mood to take pictures again.
