

Let me go, Mr. Hill Novel [By Shallow South] Chapter 2955

Chapter 2955

Charity couldn't say anything.

Chester couldn't really eat her.

So, when her good friends heard that she spent the night with Chester, they could act cool about it.

"He ate you? Why?" Freya got interested when she didn't say anything and asked what was going on.

"Too much thought." Catherine said with a big smile, "If you want to eat someone, there are many ways to do it, even if there is a problem in one way."

"Oh, Cathy gets everything, which is what I expected." Freya said with a laugh, "Charity, if you change your name, Cathy will be able to teach you."

Catherine was a little embarrassed, so she blushed "Shaun has also had problems like this in the past, but he made me feel good about it. Even though he knows everything, I think Chester knows more."

After all, in terms of women's experience, no one was better than Chester.

Charity was quiet for a while, and then she said, "I don't care, just leave it alone. I'm not as hungry as you guys, and I'm already resistant to that kind of thing."

"You didn't want to go because you hated Chester at the time. Now that you don't hate him anymore, I won't think that this person disgusts you so much." Catherine said with a smile, "You have to tie the bell to untie the bell. I think that when your hatred for Chester slowly goes away, you won't be so against these things anymore."

Charity was surprised, and the psychiatrist told Catherine something similar.

In fact, when Charity watched the clips of what had happened between her and Chester, it didn't seem so bad anymore.

"It doesn't matter if he fights back or not; he's already..." Charity didn't know what to say.

Catherine: "You can't say that, because it might be possible to treat it in the future. With how far medicine has come, it's clear that Shaun couldn't do it before, but he's fine now."

"That's not the same. Shaun has a problem with his heart. I-I saw for myself that Chester stabbed him deeply and bled a lot."

Freya sighed and said, "Chester is so mean."

Shaun and Ryan came to get the bride at 10:00 in the morning.

Both wore black and white suits, and one was handsome and strong while the other was handsome and kind.

The brothers of Chester and Ryan's best man stood in the back. Everyone was wearing the same outfit: grey pants, a grey vest over a white shirt, and a bow tie on their chest.

Just that Chester was tall and handsome, and even though he had a scar on the corner of his eye, he stood out from the other best men.

Charity gave him a quick glance while she waited for Shaun and Ryan to go in and give the bride a hug.

Chester quietly walked over to her and took her hand. "Charity, you look so pretty today,."

Charity looked beautiful in that bridesmaid's dress when she woke up, and now that she's done her hair and makeup, she looks like a fairy made of dust.

She wasn't the bride today, though.

Chester felt very bad about the person he used to be. He was the last of his brothers to get married, even though he was the oldest and had the most time. This was all because of Sarah.

"You look very good today." Charity spoke well of him.

Chester coughed softly and said, "I was even more handsome on the day I got married, if you can believe it."

Charity: "..."

Chase, who was standing next to him, said, "Ouch," "Chester, you are clearly jealous that Shaun and the others are married."

"Aren't you jealous?" Chester asked him with a hard look.

“Since I don’t have a girlfriend, there’s no point in being jealous.” Chase smiled and said.

At this point, the two brides and grooms came out of the house holding the two brides. The brides were smiling happily and sweetly.
