

The Three Little Guardian Angels Chapter 2646 - 2650

Chapter 2646

Step after step, Waylon approached Evelyn with an indifferent smile. The main reason for your downfall is your poor acting skills. Do you really think real criminals will give you a chance to call for help?"

Evelyn dropped to the ground. She looked at Waylon and grabbed his hand. T'm sorry. Willy I shouldn't have done that. Please forgive me..."

Waylon pulled his hand out of her grasp and looked at her coldly. Tm banning you from the Night Banquet from now on. If I hear you make any more rumors about anything else, I'll come after you"

After that, he turned to Cameron, wrapped his arm around her shoulders, and went back into the house.

The members from the Night Banquet looked at Evelyn and shook their heads.

Apparently, they were wrong about Evelyn.

All of them ignored Evelyn, who was sitting on the ground, and left as well.

Inside the villa....

Waylon carried Cameron to the couch. He picked up her hand and examined the bruises on her knuckles that she had gotten when she fought with them just now

He stroked her hand and said, "Why did you have to fight them so hard? Does it hurt?"

She chuckled and said nonchalantly. "Not really Isn't getting bruises here and there a normal thing for people like us? Besides, I have to admit that guy's fist is hard I felt like I was hitting a rock."

Waylon lifted his head to look at her and said, "Tm feeling a little regret for saying yes now."

"Nope. Don't ever think of taking that back. A word spoken is an arrow let fly. Besides, I have to show them who's the boss. If not, they might not listen to me in the future."

He let out a helpless laugh and caressed her cheek. It's exactly because I know you agreed to it. After all, even if I said no, you wouldn't listen to me either, right?"

Cameron looked outside through the window. Evelyn was already gone. "You were going to match her up with Morrison?"

"They used to be very close in the past, so everyone thought they would be together."

Cameron chuckled, "What a poor man."

At Bassburgh...

Morrison was having his meal when he sneezed. He touched his nose and wondered who was talking bad about him behind his back.

Leah raised her head and said, "Thank you for your help last time."

Morrison put down the fork and wiped his mouth with tissue paper. "Don't flatter yourself. I helped you because you said you were going to give me money. Otherwise, I wouldn't have helped you."

Leah lowered her head in silence.

Morrison looked at her and asked, "What's with that face? You make it look like I'm bullying you"

"You're overthinking. I'm thanking you from the bottom of my heart," Leah said as she forced a smile on her face "Anyway, I think we won't be seeing each other anymore after this meal. Don't worry I won't ask you for help anymore"

Morrison was slightly stunned "Alright then," he replied. He picked up a glass of water, and then he suddenly realized something "You.... Are you all right?"

"Huh?" Leah was dumbfounded.

"Don't you think it's a bit stupid to kill yourself for a man who doesn't even love you? You're an adult, so you should be able to understand that. Besides, there are so many men in this world. You don't have to cling to one."

He couldn't stand it when a woman belittled herself for a man.

"You have a good family background and a pretty face. Don't you think it's a little bit of a waste for you to cling to a man? Listen to me. Don't do anything stupid. If you kill yourself, everything will be over. He won't be sad or shed a single tear for your death. He might even celebrate it. Do you really want that to happen?"

Leah was rendered speechless.

'Does he think I'm going to kill myself!?"

Chapter 2647

Just when Leah was about to say something, Morrison raised his hand to stop her and continued. "Alright, you don't have to say anything You only live once, so you need to cherish your own life.

"I can introduce some good men to you if you want. All of them have good family backgrounds and good looks. I'm sure you'll find one that you like. Of course, if you don't like men from Stoslo, I can find someone for you from Bassburgh."

Leah smiled awkwardly. "Umm... Thank you for your advice."

"Don't mention it. We're friends, after all. Give me two days. I'll compile the profile of all good men in Bassburgh for you to choose from."

Two days later, Morrison presented Leah with the profile of some unmarried rich young men in Bassburgh. The corner of Leah's lips twitched as she looked at Morrison, who sat on the couch opposite her. "Where did you get these from?"

"Dating agency," Morrison replied matter-of-factly. "According to them, all of these young men come from wealthy families, and they studied overseas, so I picked these ten that match your family background the most. Pretty neat, right?"

Leah picked up those profiles and looked through them one by one. Some of them came from Bassburgh, while others came from Asperia, Rowerl City, and Coralia.

The problem was that she knew most of them, and she was kind of astounded when she also saw James Tell's profile.

"What do you think? They're pretty good, right? Some of them are lawyers, while others are celebrities or doctoral students. They match your background perfectly."

He picked up his cup of coffee and took a sip. He felt that he was such a good friend. He had never been so serious when it came to finding himself a date.

Leah put down the profiles and said, "I know them all."

He was stumped and nearly spurted his coffee. He put down the cup and said, "Isn't that good?"

Leah picked up Isaiah's profile and said, "My father set up a blind date for me with this guy, and he didn't like me."

After that, she picked up another profile and continued. "This guy is James Tell. He's a popular celebrity. and I doubt he'd want to find a girlfriend now since he's making advances in his career. Besides, it's going to be very tiring to be a celebrity's girlfriend, and most importantly, he's not my type."

She picked up the remaining profiles and commented on them one after another. "This lawyer might look like a fine man, but he's a playboy. Two of my former classmates were his girlfriends. As far as I know, he just recently got a new girlfriend.

"As for this fellow, he's a traditional man. He wants his wife to be a full-time housewife, so I'm not going. to sacrifice my career for him.

"And these two. One of them is a celibate, while the other has a bad reputation."

“Hold on for a second I asked you to pick one. I didn’t ask you to reject them all,” said Morrison.

Leah crossed her arms in front of her chest and said, “Why can’t I reject them? If you were going to choose one of them to be your future partner, who would you choose?”

Putting his hand on his chin, Morrison glanced through the profiles and said, if they were all women, I’d choose him.”

He pointed at a man who was still serving in the military. His name was Isaac Portman.

Leah picked up his profile. Amongst the ten people, he did not have any scandals, and Leah did not know much about him.

Morrison took the profile from her hand and said, “If you don’t feel sure about it, I can help you to check him.”

Leah just smiled at him without saying anything.

Several days later, at Yaramoor...

The crew had decided to start the shooting in the middle of the year, and the investors had been decided as well.

At present, what they needed to do was to look for the perfect candidates for the roles. After that, they could start the shooting.

Chapter 2648

It was just that no one expected Donny would let Freyja decide who would play the protagonist roles Freyja felt slightly stressed as she did not want to let Donny down by picking the wrong candidates

She was not very good at selecting characters, so she figured that she needed Daisy’s help

Freyja came to Blue Valley Manor and let Daisy have a look at the script. “Daisy, you’ve got to help me this time. I’m scared I’ll ruin Mr. Winslow’s movie if I make the wrong decision. I need to get it done as soon as possible so it won’t affect the shooting time.”

Daisy looked at her and chuckled. “There’s still an audition session, right? Besides, you still have about six months left. I’m sure it’ll be enough.”

“Yes, it’s enough, but not everyone is free at all times. I’m just worried the actor won’t be able to commit to the project if some unexpected event happens. Besides, I need to go back to my country for the audition in a month. I need to pick two candidates from so many actors. This is the first time I'm so stressed out, and I'm very nervous," Freyja said helplessly.

"There is a first time for everything, so I can understand. How about this? I'll ask Charlie to give you some help when you get back. He's a celebrity manager, so he has a very spot-on insight. He was the one who chose many of my scripts, so I trust him," Daisy comforted.

Freyja hugged her with a smile and said, "Thank you so much, Daisy. You're the best."

Daisy smiled, "We're friends, and you're my sister-in-law, so of course, I'll help you. Don't worry. Leave it to me. I'll help you to inform Charlie about it."

When Nollace came downstairs, he saw Daisy doing something in front of her computer. He approached her and saw the script on the table.

He picked up the script and asked, "Isn't this Freyja's script?"

Daisy stole a glance at him and chuckled while her fingers typed away on the keyboard. "Yeah. She asked me for help with the role. I'm talking to Charlie now."

Nollace sat beside her and asked, "Why don't you ask me? I'm a shareholder of Tenet."

Daisy was stunned. After a few seconds, she smacked her head and chuckled. "Oh yeah, I've forgotten about that!"

Nollace wrapped her in his arms and kissed her forehead. "It seems like all of the nutrients that should've gone to your head have been sapped away by our babies so much that your brain can't function at its optimal capacity anymore."

"So? Why do I need you if I need my brain?" Daisy replied without any hesitation, and Nollace was amused.

Meanwhile, Charlie replied to her, and Daisy immediately told Freyja about the good news.

Nollace simmered with laughter when he saw how happy Daisy was. "Do you want to hear another good piece of news?"

She turned her head to look at him. "What is it?"

"The series you shot with James will go on air this Wednesday"

After the shooting was over, Shannon planned to release the series after the new year.

Daisy blinked and asked, "How come I didn't get the message?"

Nollace stroked her cheek and replied. "That's because I helped you to read all of your messages. You're pregnant right now, so I can't let you worry about too many things."

She leaned on Nollace and chuckled. "So, are you going to be my manager now?"

Nollace lowered his head to look at her and pressed his lips on her forehead. "That'll be my pleasure."

At the same time, a certain video platform in Bassburgh released the trailer of "The Fog" on their platform. The crew member only did the promotion on their Facebook page. They did not hire anyone for PR and kept a low profile.

After the trailer was released, the netizens shared it more than 190,000 times, and there were more than 100,000 comments.

Meanwhile, James was heavily discussed on the Internet for a hilarious reason.

Chapter 2649

The netizens had seen James on the cast list, but they did not realize that he was, in fact, "Simon"

James's fans all became excited when they saw his name.

#Oh gosh! He finally has gotten the right drama for himself!#

#Thanks to Daisy, James has finally found the right place for himself, hahaha. #

#After watching the trailer, I realize that his acting skills have improved a lot. In the past, he used to take on the role of a rich young man, and he looked like himself no matter what kind of role he played. I hope that he won't let us down after this series has been released. #

#As expected of a series with double male leads. I don't know about you guys, but I kind of ship him and Helios.#

Meanwhile, at Tenet...

When Charlie saw the trailer and the netizens' comments, he harrumphed and said, "Hmph! He has done well this time. I'll give him a 90."

His assistant was stunned. "Only 90? Don't you think he deserves a higher score?"

Charlie crossed his arms in front of his chest and said, "Considering his previous acting skills, I'd only give him a score of 75 if it were in the past. I'm already very kind enough to give him a score of 90. He might get arrogant if I give him a higher score."

His assistant laughed. As he was preparing a cup of coffee for Charlie, he said, "But I have to admit that James has changed a lot after taking part in this series. He has become more mature. Besides, the character he played this time was pretty challenging. I think he may try other roles after a few more years."

Charlie took over the cup of coffee his assistant handed him and took a sip. "Well, he still has a long way to go."

“By the way, Donny from Dorywood is preparing a suspense series. He plans to find candidates from our entertainment industry and shoot the series in our country. Many A-list actors and actresses have submitted their profiles to compete for a role in the series after the news came out.”

“Why are you telling me this?” Charlie said, “Do you think celebrities from our company will stand a chance? Even a celebrity with a huge fan base won’t stand a chance, let alone celebrities from our company.”

Donny was a director of international fame. He never used any celebrities with a huge fan base or other popular celebrities. All TV series actors and actresses who could work on the big screen had acting skills. People wouldn’t be able to see the shadow of the last character they played in the current character that they were playing.

The reason Helios could be successful was that he had changed his image.

To make himself look tougher, he grew a beard and tanned himself. He indeed looked tougher, but he also did not pay much attention to his own appearance right now.

His assistant sighed. “Maybe our company’s celebrities will stand a chance? Although the chance might be slim, who knows if Lady Luck will smile at us this time?”

At the same time, Daisy sent Charlie an email.

Charlie put the cup of coffee down and opened up the document attached to the email. Suddenly, he sprang up from his chair.

His assistant asked, “What’s wrong?”

Charlie raised his head to look at him and said, “Lady Luck has smiled at us.”

In a coffee shop...

Morrison handed Leah’s profile to the man sitting in front of him. “I’m sorry for taking up a few minutes of your time, Mr. Portman. This is the girl I... We selected for you at our matchmaking agency.”

Morrison had no other choice but to pretend to be a staff from the matchmaking agency.

Isaac took over the profile and glanced through it. Meanwhile, Morrison handed Leah’s photo to him. “She’s an interpreter, and honestly, I think she’s the right fit for you. If you want to meet her, I can set up a meeting for you two now.”

Isaac looked at Morrison and took over the photo.

Morrison sipped on his coffee while observing Isaac’s expression. “She’s quite a beauty, right?”

Yeah.” Isaac smiled and put the photo down. “But I’m not interested in a woman who’s older than me.”

Morrison was stumped. "Why?"

"I just don't like it. I'm more into girls who are younger than me. I like them to depend on me. Honestly, I don't want my future partner to be a career-minded woman."

Chapter 2650

Morrison did not expect Isaac to reject Leah. He was stunned for a moment before he said, "But people always say that a wife three years older than the husband ensures a richer life. She might look a bit mature in the photo, but she looks just like a young girl in real life...

I'm sorry. I can't accept my partner being older than me, so no matter how excellent she is, I won't accept her"

After Isaac had finished speaking, he rose to his feet and left.

"Mr. Portman..."

Morrison clicked his tongue after Isaac left. He leaned on the back of the chair and mumbled, "He can't accept her because she's older than him? So, he can accept it if she's 18? What a ridiculous reason!" Leah stood up from behind and sat in front of him. She said with a smile on her face, "So, you failed?" Morrison crossed his arms in front of his chest and said, "This isn't for me. This is for you. I'm helping you to get a boyfriend. I don't understand why you still can laugh at this point."

"Alright, alright, relax. It's normal for him to reject me since I'm older than him. Besides, I really am not ready to start a relationship yet. Anyway, thank you for your help." Leah chuckled. She just couldn't bring herself to reject him since he was so serious about helping her to get a boyfriend.

Morrison squinted and said, "Now you're telling me that you're not ready for a relationship yet after I've done so many things for you?"

"I didn't say I wanted to."

"Are you kidding me?"

Morrison was furious. He had been working for nothing!?

Leah laughed. "You were the one who thought I was going to kill myself because of a man, and you said to help me look for a boyfriend. Since you're so serious about it, I thought you'd be hurt if I rejected you." Morrison was rendered speechless.

He picked up the cup and finished his coffee in one gulp. After that, he put the cup down and continued. "If that's not what you meant, then why did you say those things to me the other day?"

She was stunned for a moment and smiled helplessly. "What I was talking about the other day is that I'm going to continue to be an interpreter. That's why I said we won't be seeing each other anymore."

Once again, Morrison was tongue-tied.

Whipping up a smile, Leah said, "It's been a pleasure meeting you, and I hope we'll have the chance to meet again in the future. I'll leave now."

She took her purse and left.

When she came to the car park, she saw Zephir. She was stunned for a moment, but she soon snapped herself back to reality and offered him a smile. "What are you doing here?"

Zephir approached her and said, "Leah, I'm sorry for what happened last time. 1"

"You don't have to apologize to me," Leah said, maintaining the smile on her face. "I've already moved on. Zephir, I'm serious when I say that I want you to be happy."

Just when she was about to get into her car, Zephir grabbed her arm. "Can't we just go back to the way things were, Leah? Just like the old days."

Leah turned her head to look at him. Just as she was about to say something, Morrison suddenly walked over and grabbed Zephir's arm. "Hey, sir, you have a girlfriend, so you should stop pestering her."

Leah was a bit surprised to see Morrison there.

Zephir freed himself from Morrison's grip and said, "This is something between her and me."

Morrison sneered. "Between you and her? You already have a girlfriend, and you still want her to keep on liking you? What's wrong with you? If you run after two hares, you will catch neither. I can't believe that people nowadays are so casual when it comes to relationships."

Zephir's face sank. "Then what about you? Aren't you her boyfriend? Why are you helping her to set up a blind date with other men?"

Morrison was stunned, and before he could say anything, Zephir grabbed him by his collar and pressed on. "Aren't you treating her like your toy as well?"

"What are you doing, Zephir? Let go of him!" Leah hastily pushed Zephir away and stood in front of Morrison. "I asked him to help me. This is something between him and me. It isn't your business."

"Leah!"

"We won't be able to go back to how we used to be anymore!" Leah shouted and pushed Morrison into her car. She went to the driving seat and closed the door.
