

Almighty DG 849

Chapter 849

James stayed in the military region for the night.

In a room in the military region...

The table was littered with plates from dinner earlier.

James and Henry were each holding a bottle of wine in their hands.

Henry took a swig and said, "Now that the Emperor is dead, peace has finally returned to the Capital."

James shook his head to refute that statement.

"Peace? I'm afraid this is only the beginning of something terrible."

Although there were a few mishaps during the plan to assassinate the Emperor, James still managed to accomplish his mission.

However, he could see a storm brewing on the horizon.

The mysterious God-King Palace had appeared. Why did they suddenly show up and assist him? No matter how he looked at it, James could not understand.

Henry tilted his head.

"Why?"

"Forget it. Bottoms up! Tonight, we drink to our heart's content."

did not want to continue the same time, in a presidential suite of a hotel

gazed

"Why do we have to wear these masks? If we prevent others from knowing your

"What should we do

deep trouble. Not only will James be his strict reminder,

sat on a chair and mulled over Thomas' words. She was content as long as she was able to while, she had been the subject of ridicule for claims were not exactly supported her beloved, she could not help but want to divulge all of it reminded of Thomas' words, she

The night passed silently.

The next morning...

stations were reporting on the incident where the Red containment was soon lifted,

because the Capital was close attention to the tiniest of details and the something must have happened last

were still

James was still asleep.