

Almighty DG 853

Chapter 853

At the Cadens...

An elderly man and a young lady were playing chess.

The elderly man, who looked to be in his 60s, wore a suit.

The young lady looked like she was in her 20s.

She wore a white dress and her head was adorned in a white tiara.

Her smooth and fair skin contributed to the elegance of her fine facial features.

It was almost as if she were an exquisitely carved statue of an immortal fairy that had been given life.

"A lot happened last night."

The elderly man spoke in an off-hand tone as he contemplated his next move.

"Mhm."

The young lady in white replied him quietly, "The Emperor, the head of the five commanders-in-chief was executed using the Blade of Justice and the one who carried out that judgement..."

The young lady glanced at the elderly man.

expression remained unchanged, she continued, "The one that carried out his judgement was James, ago. They informed me that they had captured James and asked me where the Cadens stood on this issue. They also told me that they would kill James if the Cadens don't come looked

think I

young lady went silent for a moment before opening her mouth has had nothing to do with the Cadens for a long time. As such, although James is a Caden, he's no in satisfaction and placed for a moment before once again asking, "By the way, what young lady shook

years old and hadn't received any elderly man either. This has become such a mess, it's hard to tell what's what anymore. More than that, who's the one with an answer, the elderly

head uncertainly, the young lady asked, "Then, sus out the truth, they captured James to gauge our reactions. If we save James, that could implicate us as the ones who brought about this grand fiasco. If it comes down to that, the Johnstons could rally the other two than Tobias Caden, the younger brother of Thomas. He was the current leader of the fog of war, he understood the implication of his must

of masterminding a man from a removed family branch was not enough for