

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 912

Grandpa had always treated him affectionately when he was young.

Thomas taught him to read the ancient language and helped him build a solid medical foundation. His grandfather's teachings were the reason he was capable of comprehending medical books in a short period.

"James, how can I make you believe me? Your grandfather was the person that started the conflict within the Cadens back then. Do you know how many of our family members he killed? So many of our relatives died at his hands. He's a cunning man that would do anything to achieve his goal, even if it meant killing his own family. Even if you're his grandson, he won't show you mercy if you get in his way."

Maxine tried to warn him.

She did not want James to be blinded by the truth and lose his judgment because it concerned his grandfather.

"I'm sure my grandfather isn't someone like that. He must've had a reason."

James shook his head. He doubted everything Maxine said because he believed that he knew his grandfather very well.

James had lived with his grandfather for 18 years and was aware of his grandfather's virtue.

He trusted that Thomas would never kill innocent people.

Maxine sighed helplessly.

unwilling to listen to her said, "It's up to you. Do as turned around and took out his phone and called soon, and Thea's

"James, what's up?"

are you?" James asked with

at sensed that James' tone was unusual and quickly put down the documents at Messiah Corporation. What's for me. I'll come to

up the

and headed

to stop Centennial Corporation, and Quincy was the

a expression, James walked

"Stop right there! Hey, you! I'm and said, "I'm

be aware of her yet since