

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 957

"There's been a change of plans, Thea. I'm not going to Medical Street anymore."

James suddenly turned to Thea.

"Huh?"

Thea was blindsided by his sudden announcement and asked, "Why not?"

James vaguely replied, "I've got some other things to do. Pull the car over."

The car stopped immediately.

James opened the door and quickly got out of the car.

Thea followed him out, saying, "Then I won't go there either. I'll come with you."

She knew that James had called Maxine and had come up with a plan to handle the Centennial's head-on attacks. She felt her heart pang bitterly. She was James' wife, but James did not even bother discussing what to do with her.

Instead, he called another woman for help. It made her chest squirm painfully.

"You need to head to Medical Street and assess the situation. You won't be of help to me in my affairs."

"Alright..."

Thea yielded.

was painfully aware that despite everything, she was still incapable of helping him in a lot of aspects and was thoughts to spur her on, she patted her cheeks to psych herself up and hailed

"Messiah Corporation, please."

telling the taxi where to go, James closed his eyes and began coming up with a

already given him a clear direction and even suggested he need a sizeable fortune to win over or merge with the lack of funds made it

a lot more smoothly if he had

into his company, the only

biggest problem

he knew it, James had arrived at office located on the building's top

Scarlett was caught

of the Centennial Corporation's moves in Cansington, pharmaceutical

held a meeting

she quickly disbanded the door after James had been waiting

and asked, "James, is the reason you