

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 963

Everyone's eyes were fixed on Thea.

Jonathan was a talented doctor, so no one expected Thea, who lacked medical skills, to accept his deadly challenge.

On top of that, her life would be at stake in this duel.

"You?"

Jonathan looked at Thea doubtfully.

Soon, a smile crept on his face.

"Okay, bring me a pen and paper. We'll have this in black and white."

A subordinate quickly approached him, and handed him a pen and a piece of paper.

Thea and Jonathan found a seat among the numerous chairs and tables outside the hospital and sat down.

She took the pen and paper handed over by Jonathan.

Raising her hand, she quickly scribbled an agreement to put her life on the line in this competition and sealed the agreement with her thumbprint.

She casually threw the pen aside and looked at Jonathan grinning like a Cheshire cat right before her.

"Your turn."

Thea gestured to him.

any hesitation, Jonathan also to business, Thea looked him in the eye and

"What are the rules?"

rules as before during the medical conference. We'll have to concoct a poison. This time, there will be no assistant to

"Alright."

not back

if she had no understanding of medicine nor knew how to concoct poison, she firmly

up and instructed the attendants,

large-scale hospital

Hospital quickly prepared thousands of Century hospital was wide and thus a perfect venue

area outside had set up with several

looked at Jonathan and gestured than me. You can have the first

put off by Thea's

her? He shook his head thinking that she would take many decades to master the medical skills needed for this contest. He smirked and began to concoct

Meanwhile, Thea remained motionless.

"What is Thea doing?"

she starting

unsure of

and grasped her arm

here.Hurry up and just admit defeat.It's better