

As the United States is the largest mercenary organization in the world, Blackwater's biggest customer is the US government, and it likes to follow the US military to make money around the world.

When the escort sent the oil convoy to Iraq, it was already late at night, and the U.S. troops escorted together went directly to the barracks to rest, while the people from the Blackwater Company lived in marching tents outside the U.S. military base.

They have a small base here, about a hundred people in size, and they also have a lot of weapons and equipment and supplies and ammunition. Although they are not camped in the US military base, they are almost separated from the US military base by a wall, so they are not too much in terms of security. cautious.

At this time, the person in charge of the camp is coordinating the work. The armed personnel who have just completed the escort can be allowed to rest, and he needs to arrange another team to return to Syria with the oil convoy after unloading the oil, and escort them tomorrow. Returning with a convoy full of oil.

No one expected that Abbas had already sneaked into the camp with Chen and another six-star general.

After they sneaked into the camp, they immediately selected three sentries on duty. Since no one dared to attack the US military base directly, their sentries were also very perfunctory, without the caution and vigilance that the sentries should have.

Soon, the three of them were knocked unconscious by Abbas and others, and were quietly taken away from the camp.

So far, Charlie's plan to overthrow the nest has been fully launched!

Although the Middle East has been undercurrents, but at this time in Aurous Hill, everything is calm as usual.

After the wedding of Zayne and Kairi, the guests from the Banks family who came to attend the wedding also left one after another.

Mr. Banks reluctantly flew back to Madagascar, and Fitz was also planning to return to the southwest to continue his pilgrimage.

As for Zayne, since he had already decided to settle down in Aurous Hill, after getting married, he still temporarily lived in the Elms family's villa. At the same time, because he regained his freedom, he also started looking for a suitable house in Aurous Hill with Kairi.

Lin Wan'er (Alani) has never been out of her other courtyard in the Zijin Villa where she hides from the world. Apart from eating, tasting tea and reading, she spends almost all her time painting.

She asked sister Xian to buy a wooden table specially used for painting, and placed it in the living room on the first floor. At this time, on the wooden table, a pair of ink paintings with a height of one foot and eight feet had already taken shape.

In the painting, there are mountains and mountains, and in the middle of the mountains, there is an alpine lake on the mountainside. This lake is surrounded by thousands of mountains, which looks peaceful and peaceful.

Lin Wan'er (Alani) held the paintbrush in her hand, and painted meticulously on the painting, and her paintbrush was outlining a big tree with luxuriant branches and leaves on the hillside next to the alpine lake.
