

Back at the hotel where he was staying, Ou Bojun washed up and opened a special software on his phone on time.

After opening the software, he first entered and exited the password, and then did facial recognition and voice recognition. After all passed, his account was automatically pulled into the online meeting room by the system.

At this time, on the screen of the mobile phone, there are a total of five screens the size of a matchbox, of which one is in the middle, and the remaining four are distributed in the four corners of the phone screen.

However, three of the five screen frames are completely black, showing that they have not been connected yet, and only two people have connected, namely Oberjun who appears in the upper right corner of the real-time screen, and an old man with white beard in the upper left corner.

Seeing the white-bearded old man, Ou Bojun bowed his hands respectfully, and said with a smile, "Uncle Mason, where is your old man?" " Eastcliff." Uncle Mason said two words lightly.

Ou Bojun hurriedly asked, "Then did your old man find any clues to Lin Wan'er (Alani)?" "

No." Willie shook his head, still cherishing words like gold.

Ou Bojun stretched his waist, yawned and said, "Oh... this girl is really cunning!"

As he was speaking, the lower left corner showed that someone was connected, and the face of a middle-aged man appeared on the screen.

Ou Bojun stretched out his hand and said hello, "Uncle Sean, isn't life in New York very pleasant?"

The man called Uncle Sean smiled and said, "I'm waiting to come out this time to solve problems for the British Lord. For me, It's the same everywhere." At this time, the screen in the lower right corner also lit up, and Nakul Boyun Ruge appeared in the screen.

Seeing that she seemed to be sitting alone on a business jet, Ou Bojun asked, "Where are you going, Uncle Nakul?"

Yun Ruge said calmly, "I'll go to the Far East, where the land is sparsely populated, which suits Lin Waner's needs." The conditions required for concealment."

Ou Bojun asked in surprise, "Going to the Far East?! Why didn't you say hello in advance?"

Yun Ruge said casually, "You and I chose different directions, so it doesn't make sense for me to say hello to you."

Ou Bojun Still wanting to say something, the screen in the middle suddenly lit up, and the expressions of the four people were all terrified, and then they all stopped talking immediately.

The picture in the middle changed from pitch black to white light, and no other objects or even outlines could be seen.

Immediately afterwards, I heard a voice processed by a voice changer asking coldly, "How are you all checking?!"