

"Okay." Feng Zidong nodded, and said with a smile, "Today's wedding doesn't have too many guests, and all the relatives of both men and women came, so we didn't deliberately sensationalize. Well, the style I expected here is solemn and warm, but if your speech is more sensational, I can also make some adjustments to pave the way for you." Without Charlie's beating, whether it is him or his father, they must still be living in that arrogant body, self-righteous and complacent.

Lord Banks, the old man of the Banks family in the audience, saw that the eldest son and grandson were all out of Stockholm Syndrome by Charlie, and he couldn't help cursing inwardly, "What a waste! He could have been the head of the house, but now he's directly the head of the house and her father, you are still here to thank Charlie? He put you under house arrest at Elms's house, but you should thank him instead? I was sent to Madagascar by him to feed the giraffes, shouldn't I also be grateful to him?" After scolding Zayne, he looked at Fitz again, grinding his teeth
