

Read When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2872

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2872 —

Hazel looked at the nearly twenty dishes on the table and was full before eating.

This was the grandest banquet Hazel had ever had.

Basically, all the delicacies she could imagine were on the table.

There were so many dishes that she had no idea what it was.

Fortunately, the head chef stood by and introduced them.

“Little sister, why don’t you eat? Doesn’t it suit your appetite?” Layla sat next to Hazel, seeing that she didn’t seem to have any appetite, so she asked in a low voice.

“There are too many dishes, I don’t know which one to eat.” Hazel said. She was now an intern host, and she didn’t dare to eat openly like before.

If she gained weight and didn’t look good on camera, that’s not good.

“Taste every dish, keep the delicious ones, and replace the bad ones.” Layla picked up the serving chopsticks and picked up dishes for Hazel.

“Yeah.”

After a while, Gwen put down her chopsticks.

Due to her occupation, her appetite had always been small.

“Hayden, there are no outsiders here, so just tell us what you are looking for. What factors are you most valued, such as appearance, figure, education, family background, age, personality... How about some key words?”

Gwen, as Hayden’s aunt, really wanted to help Hayden find a suitable girlfriend.

“If you really don’t know what you’re looking for, that’s fine. You’re still young, so there’s no need to rush to get married. First, find someone who fits your eyes and talk to them. After a little bit of settling in, you will find out through trial and error.” Ben gave a pertinent opinion.

“I don’t want to fall in love.” Hayden was being roasted on the fire.

Why were there no outsiders here?

Wasn't Hallie an outsider?

Wasn't Daisy an outsider?

Even without the two of them, Hayden would not be willing to tell so many people about his inner feelings.

He just wanted to tell his mother.

"Ah? You don't want to fall in love, you want to get married and have children?" It's not that Gwen had never seen such a situation, but she didn't expect Hayden to be such a person.

These people look for girls just to reproduce; they don't want to fall in love, get married, and start a family right away.

This kind of man was fickle and ungrateful. For Gwen, although she had no worries about eating and drinking with this kind of man, she could never get any affection from him.

"I don't want to get married and have children either." Hayden's mood was much calmer than before, facing everyone's eyes, he said word by word, "I just chatted with my mother casually in the morning, if I need my aunt's help, I will tell you separately."

Gwen said 'Oh', "Hayden, I know you have your own ideas, but when it comes to finding a partner, you can't be too nervous. You see, the gap between me and your uncle used to be very big. Whether it's the living environment or the difference in education background, they are all very different, but he likes me and I like him, so we have a good relationship after being together for so many years. The person who is really suitable for you may not be what you are now. The perfect look that I imagined in my mind."

Avery felt the same way: "Hayden, your aunt is right. You still need to get in touch with the opposite s-e-x more to find someone who really suits you."

Hayden responded and put down the dishes, looked at the time.

"Little sister, are you full? I'll take you back to rest when you're full. Aren't you going to work tonight?"

Hazel glanced at her parents, then stood up in a daze.

Hazel was not stupid, his brother made it clear that he didn't want to stay here any longer, so she found a reason to leave.

The siblings came out of the hotel and got into the car.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-

Read When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2873

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 2873 —

Hazel fastened her seat belt, looked at her brother's side face, hesitated for a moment, and opened her mouth cautiously: "Brother, Auntie and mother are kind, so don't be angry with them."

Hayden's expression on his face softened a bit: "No. I won't be angry with them."

"That's good." Hazel breathed a sigh of relief, "I-I think the girl my aunt brought is pretty, and my aunt has a really good eye."

"There is no common language." Hayden chatted with his sister alone without any psychological burden.

"Brother, you haven't even tried to chat with others!" Hazel somehow remembered Lucas.

She remembered that when she was assigned to take care of Lucas on the first day, Lucas didn't speak.

Lucas was similar to his elder brother, with a cold temper and an attitude of not allowing strangers to enter on his face.

But people were not bad.

"Brother, I knew someone before, and he didn't like to talk to strangers just like you. I didn't have any common topics with him, but we both had to communicate at that time... Slowly, the relationship between us talking too much." Hazel wanted her elder brother to stop thinking so much and try to communicate with others first.

"Little sister, do you also think I should find a girlfriend?" Hayden asked.

"If you want to look for it, look for it, and if you don't want to look for it, don't look for it. As long as you are happy!" Hazel had a playful smile on her face, "Then why did you think of telling your mother this morning?"

Hayden: "Yesterday mom said that I will understand her thoughts when I have a child. I wonder if I should have a child to understand my parents' thoughts."

"I think it should be. But you can't have a child just to understand what your parents think!" Hazel felt that her brother's brain circuit was a bit strange, "If you really have a child, you have to be responsible for the child."

Hayden: "I know."

Hayden's current social status, let alone raising a child, even raising a hundred children, was completely stress-free.

In the afternoon, Gwen accompanied Avery to pick out gifts for Layla's wedding.

The wedding candy in the gift had already been ordered, now she had to choose some other gifts.

"I went to a friend's wedding last time, and there was a bottle of aromatherapy in her gift. The fragrance was really good." Gwen said, "How about I ask that friend where I bought the aromatherapy?"

"Perfume is okay too?" Avery happened to walk to a cosmetics counter.

Gwen: "Perfume is also fine. But cheaper perfumes don't smell good, and good smells are not cheap."

"It's okay. Layla gets married, it doesn't matter how much it costs. The main thing is to make everyone happy." Avery said openly.

"Hahaha! It's not easy to make everyone happy. Give each person a gold bar to ensure everyone is happy." Gwen joked.

After hearing these words, Avery was stunned.

She talked with Elliot about the souvenirs, and she mentioned some souvenirs, but Elliot was not very satisfied. She felt that they were all too cheap to show that they attach importance to their daughter's wedding.

If he gave gold bars, Elliot wouldn't say anything, would he?

"Avery, don't you really want to order gold bars as a souvenir?" Seeing Avery in a daze, Gwen's heart pounded, "Even if you have money, you don't have to spend it like this?"

Avery: "How about I ask your brother?"

Gwen shrugged: "Ask, he promises to agree. When the time comes, Layla's wedding will definitely be hotly searched for the gold bars in the gift."

Avery took out her cell phone and dialed Elliot's number.

After Avery told Elliot her idea, Elliot said without hesitation, "Yes. Two more lines are engraved on it: the names of Layla and Eric are engraved on the top line, and happy wedding is engraved on the bottom."

Avery: "..."