

Chapter 1003 We Had A Fight

Janet couldn't shake the events of the previous night from her mind. She had a feeling that Estella and Sean had fallen for each other, so when she saw Estella at the door of W Marks Studio the following day, she assumed that Estella was there to share the good news.

"What a surprise, Janet!" Estella greeted Janet with a smile and handed her a bag. "I brought you some treats."

Accepting the bag, Janet asked with a smile, "Is everything okay? Did things go well with Sean and are you here to thank me for my help?"

"I'm in high spirits right now. Can we not talk about that buffoon?" Estella sighed. "We just had a big fight."

Janet was a little thrown off.

Last night was the perfect opportunity for them to take things to the next level! Why did Sean and Estella have a fight last night out of all times?

"What a surprise, Janet!" Estella greeted Janet with a smile and handed her a bag. "I brought you some treats."

Accepting the bag, Janet asked with a smile, "Is everything okay? Did things go well with Sean and are you here to thank me for my help?"

"I'm in high spirits right now. Can we not talk about that buffoon?" Estella sighed. "We just had a big fight."

Janet was a little thrown off.

Last night was the perfect opportunity for them to take things to the next level! Why did Sean and Estella have a fight last night out of all times?

Noticing Estella's dejected expression, Janet didn't know how to console her. She could only pat Estella on the shoulder and say, "You'll work it out."

She tried to change the subject, "You're not just here to give me desserts, are you? Is there a problem with the dress I designed for you again?"

Estella smiled mysteriously, "I'm actually here to introduce some clients to you!"

She called out to the people outside the studio,

"Everyone, come in!"

Five or six women entered the studio.

"So this is the W Marks Studio? Its decor is off the hook."

"Estella, why didn't you bring us here earlier?"

From the teasing tone of their voices, it was clear that these women were close friends with Estella.

"I didn't have the time before, did I? You're all in different cities and only came together for the award ceremony. It just happened to be convenient for me to bring you here this time."

Estella introduced Janet to everyone with a smile, "This is Janet, whom I've mentioned to you before. She's the designer of my dress this time. If you need her designs in the future, you can come to her at any time. Why don't you exchange contact information with each other? You can also place orders online."

Estella nudged Janet and winked at her. "I'll wait for you over there. Please help me receive these friends."

Janet chuckled. She was happy to receive Estella's friends as Estella actually introduced potential business opportunities to her.

It wasn't until Estella's friends left that Janet had a chance to talk to her.

"Why do you suddenly have so many friends?" Janet had heard on the Internet that Estella had a short fuse and therefore few friends.

Taking a sip of coffee, Estella raised her eyebrows and said in annoyance, "Don't beat around the bush! Just say that I'm unpopular."

She sighed slightly. "They are also writers. We had a good chat online. We came together for this award ceremony. They thought my dress was beautiful, so I decided to bring them here to see the creator today."

With a sly smile, Janet asked, "In that case, now that you've completed your task, why are you still here?"

"Janet!" Staring at her with wide eyes, Estella finally gave in and said awkwardly, "You don't know how annoying Sean, that jerk, can be!"

Estella couldn't help but tell Janet about how Sean confessed his love to her last night and how he denied it the next morning when he was sober.

Janet knew that Estella would bring up Sean eventually.

She gently smiled and comforted Estella, "Sean has never been struck by Cupid's arrow. Sometimes you need to cut him some slack. But you said he poured his heart out to you. I think he really meant it, but he's just too chicken to admit it."

"I can't just twiddle my thumbs and wait like this. My youth is like gold - I can't let it slip away. If Sean doesn't appreciate it, I'll give him the boot!" Estella said, gritting her teeth. 5

Janet thought of a plan. "Why don't you two have a heart-to-heart on the day of the award ceremony? You are brave enough to wear your heart on your sleeve, and you should also show this advantage in love."

Holding her face, Estella was lost in thought. Patting her on the shoulder, Janet winked at her and said, "I'll be your wingman!"

Estella grabbed Janet's hand excitedly, "Really?"

Janet nodded, "Don't worry. I've got your back."

Time flew by. It soon came to the day when the award ceremony was held. In the morning, Janet

Chapter 1003 We Had A Fight

 +90 Points at most went to the Larson Group to deliver Sean a suite.

While she was waiting for the elevator, she saw Vivian walking toward her.