The Divorced Billionaire Heiress chapter 2407—God Was Blind

Cindy's gaze became a little colder. She clenched her fists, and her emotions were hidden.

She obviously hated Selena, but she still had to act nonchalantly on the surface.

Cindy hated this feeling.

Chance raised his eyes to look at Selena, then at Eric and Cindy. He waved goodbye obediently and walked outside with his small school bag on his back.

Selena did not want to stay any longer. Thus, she left without saying goodbye.

Eric's phone rang at that moment. He frowned and walked aside to answer the phone.

Cindy, who was left alone, felt embarrassed and could not calm down after a long time.

After a while, Eric hung up the phone and was about to leave when he saw that Cindy was still looking at him.

His eyes sank slightly. He walked over and said, "Ms. Yeager, I have something to do, so I'll get going."

Cindy smiled, calmed her emotions, and said gently, "What a coincidence. I have something to do near your office. Will you give me a ride?"

Eric frowned slightly. His face darkened.

He did not think much, looked at the time, and nodded without any emotion.

"Sure."

He would do the same for any other business partner.

This mall had two entrances, one in the front and one at the back.

Chance went downstairs in the elevator and saw Selena waiting for a car at the side entrance.

He made sure that Eric was not around before he walked over with confidence.

When Eric and Cindy were about to get in the car, Eric saw Chance beside Selena. He was holding a Rubik's Cube and smiled at her with his head up.

Eric did not know what they were talking about.

A rare smile appeared on Chance's childish face.

Eric was a little upset.

Chance was always like a mouse in front of him, but he was so affectionate to an outsider.

Eric felt that all the hard work he spent on this child was in vain.

A stranger could coax Chance with a few sweet words. How useless!

Eric snorted coldly and walked over slowly.

Chance and Selena were so into the conversation that they did not notice Eric at all.

Selena spoke in a nonchalant voice.

'Why are you so afraid of your father? But I can understand. Anyone will be in a bad mood if they see him. He always looks like everyone owes him money. Even if you're afraid of him, why are you afraid of Cindy Yeager?'

Chance paused and sighed.

"Because she might become my stepmother, so I can't offend Ms. Yeager. If Daddy marries her, they'll be a family in the future."

Selena paused and clicked her tongue.

"How pitiful..."

Chance's voice was gentle and low.

"Ms. Yeager really likes my dad. She always asks me questions about Daddy, some of which I can't even answer! She's really aggressive. Even the maids don't dare to offend her. Auntie, I like you better because you're different from the rest. You don't like my dad."

Thus, Chance did not feel any pressure or guilt when he was with Selena.

Selena could not help but sneer.

'Who in their right mind will like him? That's just torture! God is blind if Eric's marriage can be smooth sailing. You're such a poor little boy. It's okay. When you grow up, no one can tell you what to do anymore!'

Chance nodded in agreement.

Eric looked at the two people with deep eyes from behind.

He stopped and listened to their conversation.

His face was extremely dark and glum.

Heh...

They were talking bad about him behind his back again!

It just so happened that he caught them again!

However, he did not expect to hear this.

Eric did not walk forward any further and coughed.

It caught the attention of the two people.

When Chance saw him, Chance became nervous and tense.

“Daddy, you’re here...”

Eric glanced at him indifferently and hummed.

“Get in the car.”

He raised his chin and pointed in the direction of the car.

Chance nodded immediately and said goodbye to Selena.

Selena also stretched out her hand and waved to Chance.

In the next second, Eric continued, ‘You too.’

The corners of Selena’s mouth twitched. She was surprised and paused.

“No need. I’ll just go back by myself. My bar is not on the way to your office.”

Selena looked like she really wanted to get rid of Eric, which made Eric feel very uncomfortable.

“Hurry up! Do you want everyone to wait for you?”

Eric frowned. After he finished speaking, he lifted his feet and got into the car.

The weird thing was that he sat in the passenger seat.

Selena paused and thought, 'Did he know that I didn't want to sit with him? He's so self-aware?'

She pursed her lips and followed him.

When she opened the car door, she saw someone she really did not want to see.

It was like seeing a pile of sh*t after eating. It was extremely revolting.

Chance was already sitting obediently in the back seat.

The car was spacious, and there was more than enough space for three people to sit in the back.

This was the advantage of high-end luxury cars.

Cindy did not expect Selena to come, so she looked disappointed as well.

She learned her lesson this time and did not initiate a conversation. Instead, she turned her head away and looked out of the car window.

Cindy treated Selena like a stranger.

Selena stood outside and took a deep breath.

Eric got impatient and knocked on the car door.

"Hurry up and get in the car!"

Selena frowned so deeply that she could squish a fly.

She took a deep breath before she bent down and got into the car. Then, she closed the door.

The car gradually drove onto the main road.

Soon, they arrived at Ferguson Corporation.

Eric and Cindy got out of the car together.

Chance heaved a sigh of relief after they got out of the car.

It looked like he was tense for a long time.

In the car, Chance did not even dare to speak. He breathed carefully too.

Selena did the same.

Thus, the two looked at each other and could not help but laugh afterward.

They had a tacit understanding.

The two leaned against the car seat, and the driver took Selena to the bar first before he took Chance back.

When Selena went back, she felt completely different.

She felt like she was reborn.

Selena opened the door and went in.

There were no customers.

The waiters and the manager were there.

However, they were not the only ones. Derek's mother, Flora, and the pregnant influencer were also there.

If it was just Flora, they could have kicked her out.

However, that influencer was pregnant, so they dared not do anything to her. They were afraid that she would blackmail them if anything happened to her.

Sitting on the side were Selena's uncle and aunt.

They really came prepared.

They sat at the biggest booth.

The pregnant woman grunted and sat there with her bulging stomach, acting like a queen.

Flora sat next to her with resentful and hostile eyes.

When she heard that Selena came back, Flora looked over with harsh eyes and stood up angrily.

"You actually came back! You b*tch! My son is in a vegetative state, but you're still fine. How do you have the nerve to come back? You should serve my son to atone for your sins!"
