Married at First Sight Chapter 2557-Unable to get through to Mrs. Janzen, Carrie called her eldest aunt, Brenda.

After Brenda answered her call, Carrie said to her, "Auntie, I got my things back. Now that I have money, you can rent an apartment for me and stay here temporarily. When I first filed a lawsuit, I got a share of the family property. I got a lot of money and bought a big villa."

After hearing that Carrie got her things back, Brenda asked her repeatedly, "You can go in? Why don't you live at home if you can go in? Isn't it good to live in a big villa? You have to rent a house and spend extra money."

Carrie was silent and then said, "Auntie, let's talk about it after we meet. It's not as easy as you think. Let's do this for now. I'm going to drive to refuel now. There's not much gas left. After refueling, I'll go to your place."

"Tell my second aunt Amy and cousins that I'll treat them to dinner at noon. I've been very grateful to my cousins for the past two days. They helped me. I have a bad temper and willfulness, but I am not an ungrateful person. I will remember all the good things you did for me.

Now I am a little depressed. When I take back my family's property, I won't treat you badly, and I will definitely help you regain your reputation and let you live the life of a rich person before."

Carrie wanted to spread the pie, and she also felt that she could really file a lawsuit to get her property back. She was worth at least several hundred million, and she had a lot of money. If she gave it to her two aunts, the family would be defenseless, and she could help the two elder cousins.

She didn't understand business. If she wanted to go back to Newman's company, she would have to ask acquaintances to help her take care of the company's affairs.

Carrie thought that her two eldest aunt's cousins had always been very kind to her, even if it was just to please her. They had also worked at Newman's for several years and had more or less experience.

When the time came, she would let her cousins help her manage the company, and she would just count the money and spend it. It would be easy and cool.

She would not be like Camryn, who took care of business herself when she couldn't see. Now that she could see, she didn't know how tired Camryn would be.

Carrie didn't know how much money her family really had. She had heard her mother say before that the Newman family also had a net worth of over $100 million.

She thought it was more than 100 million.

Otherwise, their family's life would not be so luxurious. It's just that their parents like to keep a low profile and don't show off their wealth. Therefore, in Wiltspoon, everyone thought that the Newman family was a wealthy family, not a real wealthy family.

In fact, their family had long been a wealthy one.

For that rich family fortune, Carrie had to win the lawsuit, and she also needed her two aunts to help her.

There were a lot of past events that she didn't even know about. Her two aunts were older and would definitely know.

"Okay, we'll talk about it later. Auntie, you would do your work first. If you finished your work earlier, you could get off work earlier."

After hearing what Carrie said, Brenda knew that there was an accident that Carrie couldn't solve. She needed to find someone to help her. They discussed it, but since Carrie had money, they were still very happy.

At least they could get some benefits from Carrie.

Carrie was young and energetic, and she didn't know how high the sky was. She thought that after going in for reform, she would become much more restrained when she came out. However, after a few days, her original shape was revealed. It's true that a country's nature is easy to change but hard to change. But such a niece was easy to handle. She was too young, had not experienced the torment of society, and was not sensible.

As long as they could control this niece, win the lawsuit, and get back the Newman family's property, everything in the Newman family would not fall into their hands.

Brenda thought about talking to her husband and children for a while and tried to please Carrie as before. When they coaxed the Newman family's property from Carrie, it would not be too late to turn back.

As for Brenda's eldest brother and sister-in-law, who were still in prison, Brenda thought that it would take at least ten years for her eldest brother to come out. By the time he came out, things would have changed.

Married at First Sight Chapter 2558-Brenda was afraid her sister-in-law wouldn't be able to come out alive.

Deep down, Brenda actually disliked her elder sister-in-law. She felt that Mrs. Newman was a beauty. Mrs. Newman first married her younger brother and killed him, then married her eldest brother. and the eldest brother had now also been taken to prison.

Although the eldest brother couldn't escape his involvement in his younger brother's death, the source of the trouble was still Mrs. Newman.

The eldest brother teamed up to kill his younger brother in order to be honest with Mrs. Newman.

It would be great if he could take revenge on Camryn.

Thinking that Camryn was now the prospective second young lady of the York family, with the York family as their backer, they were afraid that they would not have the chance or the courage to take revenge on Camryn.

Brenda mentally called her eldest niece a b!tch hundreds of times to relieve her anger.

Camryn could guess where Carrie would go after leaving the Newman family, and she didn't care.

Let the two elder aunts suck all of Carrie's blood.

In the past, when the two eldest aunts had money at home, they always wanted to take advantage of their parents' family and get benefits.

Now both families have become working people. They were used to living a wealthy life, and they always dreamed of returning to the world of rich people. Carrie asked them for help; wouldn't it just suck their blood?

When the time came, Carrie took the meager property that was assigned to her and was sucked clean by the two families. It was their dog-eat-dog time, and she just watched the show from the sidelines.

Camryn and Trenton had said that she would not give them anything that belonged to her, and she would return anything that did not belong to her to him.

Seeing that the big house where her mother lived before was magnificently decorated, but she, the real owner of the villa, was forced to live in the same room with the nanny, Camryn ordered the butler: "Clean this room; this room needs to be redecorated."

This large room was the master room.

Camryn first asked people to move the safe back to the room where she was currently living. She did not touch her mother's precious jewelry and kept it for Trenton to keep.

Before vacating her mother's room, Camryn also sent a message to Trenton, telling him that she wanted to clean out his parents' room.

It took Trenton a while to reply to her.

"Sister, please let my parents' belongings be moved into my room. No matter how sorry they are to you, they are still my parents."

Camryn replied, "That's okay, then move it into yours. " Go to the room; I want to redecorate the master room."

Trenton sent a voice message: "Sister, you can do whatever you want; it is your home; you can do whatever you want; I have no objection. Sister, did something happen this morning?"

The eldest sister was now in charge of the Newman family after the parents and second sister entered, and the makeup of the family had also changed. Callum, the brother-in-law who could both look out for and defend his sister, brought in a large number of new members to the family.

His eldest sister was not a petty person. After she had taken revenge, she would no longer care about small things. She had not cleaned her parents' room for such a long time. Early this morning, she suddenly had to clean out her parents' room and redecorate it. Trenton guessed that something must have happened.

Married at First Sight Chapter 2559-Someone stepped on his eldest sister's tail, irritating her.

His eldest sister's resentment, which she had suppressed for years, broke out again before she had to clear out the contents of his parents' room.

Another point was that his eldest sister did not know the password to his parents' password door, not even him.

His mother said that he was partial to his eldest sister and kept many things from her.

Camryn did not hide it from Trenton and told him everything about Carrie's early release from prison and her coming in early in the morning.

After hearing this, Trenton sighed. It turned out that it was Carrie who was the troublemaker.

Then the Newman family was afraid that they would start making trouble again.

He said to Camryn, "Sister, you can just move the things from my parents' room to my room. And also move the things in the second sister's room and clean out the second sister's room. Since the house belongs to you, if you don't want the second sister to live there, you won't let her live there."

Trenton could not plead for the second sister, Carrie. He knew better than anyone how Carrie tortured his eldest sister, Camryn, in the past.

Carrie had been undergoing transformation for such a long time, but it seemed that she had not really transformed well. She behaved well and came out early. It was just for the sake of coming out early; she was just pretending.

"Also, when the second sister wants to file a lawsuit to divide the family property, tell me not to let her share too much. She can't keep it. No matter how much property is in her hands, she will lose it all. There is no money to spend. She only knows how to get angry and spend money randomly.”

Trenton felt that if the Newman family was left to Camryn, he could study with peace of mind. If the Newman family fell into the hands of Carrie, he could not wait to run home overnight to stop her.

He knew both sisters well.

Carrie was undoubtedly a prodigal, and her parents also indulged and spoiled her.

“No, you can’t give it to my second sister. I’ll take a leave, go back, and then go visit the prison, meet my parents, and ask them to inherit their property in their name. I will guarantee my second sister’s basic life.”

Trenton thought of inheriting his parents’ property, and then he would ensure the second sister’s basic life, a basic life, so that she would not go hungry and have a place to live, and he would not give the second sister a chance to waste her family.

He was the only son of his parents. Although they didn’t love him as much as they did his second sister, his parents had frequently stated that he was a boy and would support the family in the future, and his son would inherit the family property.

When Carrie got married, she would be given a large dowry.

Of course, the parents did not say these words in front of Carrie for fear that she would cause trouble if she found out.

Carrie always felt that her parents loved her the most and that everything in the Newman family should be hers.

She always said that Trenton was a boy and that he had to stand upright and train him well so that he could be self-reliant and start his own business.

After Camryn was silent, he said, “Trenton, if you get your parents’ property, your second sister will make you dizzy every day, so you have to be mentally prepared. You also know what kind of person she is.

She can do anything, and she won't show mercy to you just because you are her half-brother."

Trenton smiled and said, "My parents, if you trust me, leave it to me, and I will transfer it to you and put it in your hands. It is useless for her to make trouble with me. If she makes trouble with you, she is asking for trouble."

Married at First Sight Chapter 2560-“In short, our Newman family’s property cannot let my second sister lose. And our two eldest aunts will definitely coax my second sister and suck all her blood. She will give everything to others without coaxing or being coaxed.”

Trenton did this just to protect the Newman family’s property.

His parents were still alive, so the only thing he could do was let his parents transfer all the property in his name, and then he transferred it to Camryn. He could trust Camryn as a person, and it was not Camryn’s thing, and Camryn would not be greedy for him.

There was no need for Camryn to be greedy for him now. His brother-in-law’s family had so much money, and the eldest sister, Camryn, was the second young lady of the York family, and she still looked down on the little wealth he could get.

“Sister, how much legal property do my parents still have?” Trenton thought of the businesses his parents had run before. Some of them were illegal and had been sealed up. The illegal income had also been confiscated. He could inherit it. It was the legal income of the parents.

Camryn replied, “Their illegal business and all the proceeds have been seized and confiscated. Newman’s company did not break the law. Fortunately, your father listened to the advice and did not let Newman’s company touch the illegal business.

My dad holds the majority of the shares in Newman’s Enterprise. My grandparents gave the majority to my dad. My dad also owns shares, so he owns most of the shares. The rest is your dad’s and several other small shareholders.

Based on the current Newman’s share price plus several properties under his name, if calculated together, it is estimated to be just over 100 million.”

Mr. Newman was severely sentenced. He teamed up with his wife to kill his biological brother. It was also an economic crime, so he was sentenced severely.

Trenton asked again: "How much was the total wealth of the Newman family before the accident?"

Camryn: "More than a billion."

Trenton knew it in his heart, and he said, "Sister, just do as I say; I am now asking for leave, flying back, going to find my parents, and asking them to transfer the property in their name to my name."

He couldn't directly tell them to pass it on to Camryn because his parents are afraid that Camryn hates them now.

Pass it on to him; his parents were totally willing.

After all, his parents had said that no matter how much money he made, it would be reserved for him in the future.

As long as his parents' property is transferred to his name, it's up to him how he wants to arrange it.

In order to protect the Newman family's property, prevent Carrie from being ruined, and prevent his two eldest aunts from plotting against him, Trenton decided to do this.

Camryn pursed her lips and said, "You are an adult, so you can make your decision. When you are free, go to the company to intern and hone your skills. Our Newman family will be here for you. There is a factory in the city where you go to university, and the business is not very good. If you dare to accept the challenge, I will leave it to you to take care of it. You can take care of the factory while going to university, and you can bring that factory back to life. It proves that you have the ability to protect your family's property."

Trenton boldly accepted Camryn's challenge.

But he didn't like her referring to the siblings as two families.

He said, "Sister, we are a family. We are all members of the Newman family. We all belong to the same grandparents. Our Newman family's property was earned by our great-grandfather and grandfather. It has been managed by three generations of our grandparents. To achieve such a scale today, we must protect everything in our Newman family together.”

The grandparents divided the family property, and the majority was given to the second uncle. Trenton didn't want to ask why; he thought there must be the old Mr. Newman's intention.

Although the Newman family had the current financial background, his own father was also indispensable, but without the original foundation, his father would not be able to develop the Newman family to the scale it is today..
