

Read Married at First Sight Chapter 2615

Married at First Sight Chapter 2615-Trenton promised with lingering fear: "As long as my brother-in-law is here in the future, I will not let the second sister in. This is the eldest sister's home, and the second sister should come less often.

Sister, will you still accompany me to visit the prison?"

Camryn: "Um."

Trenton breathed a sigh of relief.

As long as Camryn is not angry with him, that's fine.

Half an hour later.

Camryn and Trenton went out in a car, followed by a bodyguard car.

Callum stood at the door of the villa, watching the siblings leave, before he walked to his car.

He did not follow the siblings to visit the prison.

He originally planned to accompany Trenton, but after Carrie made a fuss, he no longer wanted to see Mr. Newman and his wife.

Anyway, in the hearts of the vicious couple, he was not their son-in-law.

York Corporation.

There was a strange girl walking around in front of the York Corporation. She wanted to go in several times but stopped.

The security guards on duty had been watching her for a long time, guarding her as if she were a thief.

It wasn't until Callum returned to the company door that the girl suddenly stopped Callum's vehicle, as if she had mustered up her courage.

The security guards on duty were shocked when they saw that the girl they had been guarding against thieves for a long time actually stopped the vice president's car. They quickly came out of the security room and walked over to try to drive the girl away.

Callum pressed down the car window and looked at the girl. He didn't recognize her; she was very strange.

Why did the other party stop his car?

Fortunately, Camryn didn't follow him; otherwise, Camryn would mistakenly think that he was out attracting bees and butterflies, and he would have incurred a peach blossom debt.

"busy?"

Callum asked in a deep voice.

The girl: "Sir, I'm sorry. I want to disturb you and ask you about someone, whether he works here."

Callum: "You tell me."

Security guards: "..."

It turned out that the girl wanted to inquire about a certain person. Why didn't she inquire with them? Instead, she stopped the vice president's car. Could it be that she wanted to use this opportunity to strike up a conversation with the vice president, the second young master of the York family.

"I would like to ask if Evan York works here? I can't find him. I don't have any contact information for him. I only know his name. I asked around and found that he is working in the York Corporation. I just wanted to come and inquire about it."

Evan York?

The security guards looked at each other. Wasn't that the name of the fourth young master of the York family?

However, Evan did not work at the headquarters of the York Corporation. He was responsible for a different industry, and he also had his own company. People who worked at the York Corporation would not see Evan once a year.

The security guards had only heard of Evan's name and knew that he was the fourth young master of the York family.

Callum raised his eyebrows, looking for his younger brother.

Evan was his biological brother from the same mother.

"Girl, what's your surname? What are you doing with Evan?" Callum asked.

He wanted to know the reason why this girl was looking for her brother before deciding whether to tell him or not.

The girl said, "It doesn't matter what my name is. Sir, does Evan York work here?"

Callum: "He doesn't work here."

The girl did not want to reveal her name.

Callum didn't ask further questions.

It's not like he lied to girls.

"He doesn't work here? He also has the surname York. This is the York Corporation. Doesn't it mean that most people surnamed York work here?"

Married at First Sight Chapter 2616-The girl obviously didn't believe Callum's words.

Callum smiled and said, "It's good that this is the York Corporation, and there are many people surnamed York working here, but the York Corporation has many branches, involving all walks of life, and not all of them belong to the York Corporation. People are here, and they will work in other branches.

And not everyone surnamed York can work in the York Corporation."

Some people from the York family who were incompetent or didn't want to work under the York Corporation would wander around and work in other companies.

"That's right. I thought it was too simple. I'm sorry to bother you, sir."

The girl felt that Callum's words made sense, and it could not be said that anyone surnamed York would definitely work in the York Corporation.

Evan York may not really work here.

She didn't know where to find him.

That bad guy, didn't let her find him, wait until she found him, he would look good!

The girl left quickly.

A security guard quickly opened the company's door and let Callum drive in.

After Callum's car parked in the parking lot, he got out of the car, took out his mobile phone, and called Evan while walking to the office building. When Evan answered the phone, he asked, "Evan, what bad things did you do?"

"Brother, I'm in a meeting. If you have anything to do, I'll talk to you in ten minutes, okay?"

Evan was indeed in a meeting.

Like his elder brother, he required everyone to mute their cell phones during meetings and couldn't answer the phone during the meeting. Even if he answered the phone, he could only say a few words before hanging up quickly.

"Okay, I'll call you in ten minutes."

Callum hung up the phone.

He entered the office building.

Josh came out, and the two met at the door of the office building.

Several executives were following Josh. They were going to the Wiltspoon Hotel to discuss business.

Seeing Callum, several executives greeted him one after another. Callum nodded, looked at Josh, and asked, "Want to go to the hotel?"

“Well, you’re here. I’ll leave the ten o’clock meeting to you. I don’t know if I can make it back.”

Josh thought Callum would not return to the company today.

Callum would run out whenever anything happened and hand over the company to him, as if the York Corporation belonged to him.

Fortunately, the young masters of the York family had also begun to enter the workplace and business world.

After training for a period of time, Zachary had to arrange for a few younger brothers to work at the headquarters. That way, with a few more people sharing the workload, Josh could feel more relaxed.

“Okay, go ahead.” Callum responded.

Josh left with several senior executives.

A few minutes later, Callum returned to his office. He first sent a message to Camryn and asked her, “Are you already there?”

Camryn replied to him, “Almost there.”

Callum: “Let’s have lunch together.”

Camryn: “Alright.”

Callum sent Camryn a red-lipped emoticon and then said, “I’m busy first.”

Camryn replied with a “hmm” expression.

After sitting for another two minutes, Callum called Evan again.

“Brother, is there something urgent for me?” Evan asked with a smile on the phone.

“If you need my help with anything, brother, just ask.”

Evan thought that Callum needed his help for something. Callum and Camryn were now in a very good relationship. They would not call him even if they had nothing to do, but kept calling him one after another.

Callum said, "I met a strange girl just now at the entrance of the company. She was about 24 or 25 years old and quite pretty. She stopped my car and asked me if you worked in York Corporation. She wants to find you, but she doesn't have your contact information."