

Read Married at First Sight Chapter 2629

Married at First Sight Chapter 2629-“How many important things do you have to deal with? Do you trust me? Do you want me to help you deal with it?”

Kevin asked.

Hayden said, “No need. Has Matriarch Farrell returned to Jensburg?”

Kevin said, “On the way back from Jensburg Airport by taxi, it will probably take another forty minutes to get there.”

Kevin raised his hand and looked at the time and said, “You can work for another half an hour, and then we will go to the hotel. The timeline will be just right.”

By the time they arrived at the hotel, it was dinner time, and Matriarch Farrell would just think that they happened to see the good show and would not suspect that Kevin was planning it.

“Would you like to go see a good show?” Kevin asked Hayden again.

Hayden glared at him and said, “You told me, can I not go and watch it? Of course I have to watch such a wonderful show.”

At the end, she glared at Kevin again and complained, “I’m not a lively person to begin with, but you will lead me astray.”

She actually agreed to go with him to join in the fun and watch the show.

Kevin chuckled. “You are just too serious. Life is only a few decades. You should be relaxed and happy and watch good shows when they come. Like Josh, he is always at the forefront. His mentality is great; a person like him can live to be a hundred years old.”

“When the sky falls, I will use it as a quilt to cover you, but you are too burdened with your thoughts. Hayden, not only for my sake but for your own sake, I think you should openly admit that you are a woman. I think after you make it clear, you will feel as if your entire body has relaxed.”

Hayden said to him, “I’m just going to say a few words to you. You’ve talked to me about the big principles of life. Sit aside and don’t disturb my work.”

Kevin smiled. "Okay, I'll sit aside, and you can work first."

As he said that, he turned to look at the door of the office and asked her, "Hayden, will someone come in without knocking? Or just knock on the door and come in without waiting for your response, like I did just now."

"Except for you and Hugh, there won't be a third person like this."

Hayden had already returned to work and was too lazy to pay attention to this chatterbox.

Kevin sat down on the sofa. With nothing to do, he secretly took pictures of Hayden, who was working hard with her mobile phone. He felt that Hayden was really handsome. No wonder so many girls admired her and were crazy about her.

If he were a girl, he would miss Hayden for the rest of his life and never look down on other men again.

The more he thought Hayden was outstanding, the more Kevin understood how much those ladies from famous families in Jensburg hated him.

When he first got close to Hayden, Hayden's admirers were still waiting for Hayden at the door of Queen Enterprise every day, hoping to see Hayden and have a few words with Hayden.

Hayden treated all suitors with indifference.

They all thought they had hope, even though none of them really did. Since Hayden didn't favor any of them, they were all in the same situation.

The appearance of Kevin broke their equality.

They all lost to this man, Kevin.

The fact that their love rival was a man was a huge blow to them, and they would even compete with Kevin at first.

Kevin once had a verbal battle with his love rivals.

When Hayden became more and more tolerant towards Kevin, sometimes even gentle, those women who admired Hayden gave up completely.

It turned out that it wasn't that they were bad, but that Hayden was weird, because Hayden liked men, so it didn't matter how good they were; they couldn't win her heart.

Married at First Sight Chapter 2630-They resented Kevin because they felt that Kevin's appearance revealed Hayden's true identity as a homos*xual, causing them all to leave heartbroken.

"Kevin, if you secretly take pictures of me again, I will throw your phone away."

Suddenly, Hayden's warning came.

Kevin put down the cell phone that was pointed at her to take pictures and said with a smile, "Hayden, you don't work seriously. You know that I took secret photos, or you are paying attention to me and peeking at me."

Hayden didn't even raise her head and said coldly, "Are you as handsome as me? I peeked and saw that you are uglier than me, right?"

Kevin: "..."

He was considered a handsome guy among men, but compared with Hayden, who disguised herself as a man, he was not as handsome as Hayden.

Kevin said, "If you change into women's clothes, grow your hair long, and look noble and cool, then you will be called a charming woman. You will be so beautiful that I can't take my eyes away."

Hayden stopped answering.

Kevin saw that she was silent again.

After sitting for two minutes, Kevin got up, walked over, sat down at her desk, and asked her, "Do you want to eat? Or drink coffee?"

Hayden said, "Now that I drink coffee, it affects my sleep at night."

She usually drank a cup of coffee when she arrived at the company in the morning. She usually didn't drink it in the afternoon. She took a break at noon so that she could have the energy to deal with the afternoon work.

Hayden added, "There are no snacks in my office."

She was a girl and was a snack foodie when she was a child. When she grew up and entered the business world, she found that the successful men around her rarely ate snacks. In order to be more like a man, she forced herself to give up the habit of snacking.

Kevin: "Didn't I give it to you?"

Hayden: "Let Hugh take it and eat it."

Kevin: "Hugh is a grown man, but he loves snacks so much? I don't know how to leave some for you."

Hayden didn't say anything. Her younger brother, Hugh, took away the snacks, most likely to give them to company employees or maybe to give them to his confidante to please them.

Hugh was very kind to all his confidants. He seemed to like them, but in fact, he really treated them as friends and confidants without any wrongdoing.

There was nothing Hayden could do against Hugh.

It depended on fate; it should be that fate had not arrived yet. When fate came, heaven would give Hugh a girlfriend.

Kevin said, "I'll bring you some fresh fruit next time. You don't like eating it, but you have guests coming, so you can entertain them."

While Kevin was waiting for her here, he could eat snacks to pass the time.

Hayden said calmly, "Everyone knows that there is no delicious food in my office. When they come to discuss business with me, they always go to the VIP room, where there are all kinds of delicious food for distinguished guests. If you're bored, go there and bring back something to eat to kill time."

"What delicious food have I never eaten? I just want to sit here with you and look at you. The more I look at you, the more I like you. Hayden, can you let me k!ss you?"

Hayden raised her head, glared at him, and uttered one word: "Get out!"

Kevin: "I don't want to roll. I don't even know how to write the word roll, and I don't know how to roll. How about you demonstrate it to me once and see if I can learn how to roll?"

Hayden threw the signature pen at him.

Kevin easily caught the pen she threw and handed it back to her with a smile, saying, "If you like to throw things at me, I will ask someone to pick up a bag of stones, wash them, use them in a small box, install it, and place it on the right side of your desk."