Sleeping On The Floor

Finally, Janet couldn't bear the awkward silence. She covered her face and said, "Brandon got hurt because of me. I have to stay here tonight and take care of him."

Once again, the room fell into an eerie silence. Unable to hide her blush, Janet covered her face, trying to hide herself. She felt very embarrassed but had no intention of leaving.

If she were to leave, Brandon would be alone tonight with no one to help him. His injury would only inconvenience him, and he might even develop a fever. She had to stay and take care of him!

Johanna's face softened at Janet's words.

She was relieved that Janet wanted to stay on her free will.

Besides...

Looking at Brandon's pale face, Johanna believed he wouldn't be able to do anything else in his current state. "Sweetie, if anything

Finally, Janet couldn't bear the awkward silence. She covered her face and said, "Brandon got hurt because of me. I have to stay here tonight and take care of him."

Once again, the room fell into an eerie silence. Unable to hide her blush, Janet covered her face, trying to hide herself. She felt very embarrassed but had no intention of leaving.

If she were to leave, Brandon would be alone tonight with no one to help him. His injury would only inconvenience him, and he might even develop a fever. She had to stay and take care of him!

Johanna's face softened at Janet's words.

She was relieved that Janet wanted to stay on her free will.

Besides...

Looking at Brandon's pale face, Johanna believed he wouldn't be able to do anything else in his current state. "Sweetie, if anything arises, you can always call your father or me. No matter what happens, we will be the first to support you." ①

She then cast Brandon a warning glance.

However, Brandon just smiled silently and looked at Janet with gentle eyes.

Janet's face flushed. She nodded and said, "Mom, don't worry. No one can bully me. You should go back now."

Unable to stop worrying, Johanna nagged a little longer before leaving the room.

Garrett smiled as he looked at the two people on the bed. When he was about to make fun of Janet's shyness, Brandon cast him a warning look.

Garrett shrugged and said, "Well, have a good rest. I won't disturb you couple."

When Janet heard the word "couple", she lowered her head and blushed fiercely.

Garrett smiled and shook his head before turning around to leave.

As soon as he closed the door, he saw Laney walking over.

Laney glanced at the door and whispered, "Have they gone to bed?"

Garrett nodded and pulled Laney away. "Brandon's wound was reopened. He had more than ten stitches. Even I felt the pain when I saw the stitching. Janet is staying in his room to take care of him. Let's leave them alone," he said.

Laney raised her eyebrows in surprise. "Janet is taking care of him? Did she remember their past?" she asked.

"Not yet," Garrett said while shaking his head.

"Then what happened?" Laney asked, feeling even more confused.

Garrett quietly took Laney's hand. Seeing that she didn't reject him, a smug smile appeared on his face, and he slowly related what happened between Janet and Brandon.

Hearing Garrett's account, Laney was even more surprised. "You mean Janet requested to stay and take care of Brandon?" she asked.

Recalling the lovely atmosphere in the room just now, Garrett replied enviously, "Yes, Mrs. White offered to sleep with Janet, but Janet refused. She insisted on staying to take care of Brandon."

Without realizing, the two had already arrived at the living room. Garrett held Laney's hand, and they both sat on the sofa. "We'd better not disturb them," he said lightly.

Laney was still in disbelief as she said, "But Janet didn't react or seem bothered when Suzanne said she was pregnant with Brandon's child. What made her change so drastically in just a couple of days?"

At that time, Laney thought it would take Brandon a long time to win back Janet's heart. She didn't expect Janet to fall in love with Brandon again so soon. It happened too fast!

At the thought of Brandon's complacent look, Garrett gritted his teeth in anger. "With Brandon's wits, he must have tricked Janet into falling for him when we were not around. This guy is full of tricks!" he grumbled.

He looked at Laney pitifully and purposely added, "Unlike me, I'm still stuck sleeping on the floor despite my efforts in winning back my wife's heart."

Laney smiled and withdrew her hand. She looked into Garrett's hopeful eyes and said, "Yes, you will continue sleeping on the floor tonight. Don't hold my hand."

Garrett's face darkened.

Both of them were trying to win back their wives' hearts. How did Brandon succeed in a few days while he was still sleeping on the floor after a few months?

It was too unfair!
