Married at First Sight Chapter 2707-Hugh walked away with a smile, walked a few steps, and then came back. His handsome face came close to Kevin and he asked carefully, "Mr. York, are you really going to file a complaint against me in front of my mother?"

Kevin said, "If you don't file a lawsuit against me, I won't file a lawsuit against you."

Anyway, the two of them were keeping each other in check.

Kevin was afraid that Hayden would be angry, while Hugh was afraid that his parents would force him to get married.

Even if Mr. and Mrs. Queen didn't urge the marriage, it would still be enough for Hugh if they scolded him.

Now, in the eyes of the second elder of the Queen family, Kevin was the treasure, and he was more favored than Hugh.

Hugh often complained in front of Hayden, suspecting that he was not the biological child of his parents. His parents liked Kevin so much, so he and Kevin may have been exchanged.

Hugh felt that his status was the lowest in his family.

Alas, who told him to pass through thousands of flowers without a single leaf touching him?

If he brought a girl home, his status in front of his parents would skyrocket.

Thinking of his parents' desire for their daughter-in-law, Hugh felt that even if he brought his girlfriend home, he would still be the one with the lowest status because his parents' enthusiasm for Kevin would be transferred to his girlfriend.

No matter how rare a son-in-law was, the son-in-law was someone else's son and wanted to marry their Queen family's daughter.

But the girlfriend his son brought back would marry into the Queen family, that is, the Queen family. Naturally, Donald and his wife pay more attention to their future daughter-in-law.

“Just say it.”

Hugh muttered, “When I find a girlfriend and bring her home to compete with you, my parents won’t like you as their prospective son-in-law.”

Of course, Hugh just muttered and would not really do that.

He had never met the girl who could make his heart beat and make him want to end his single life.

The fate had not arrived yet.

He was not in a hurry.

There was no point in being anxious.

Hayden waited until everyone left before she came out of the conference room.

Kevin came forward with money and flowers in his hands, his handsome face smiling brightly.

Hayden: “Don’t call me honey; it sounds disgusting and makes my skin crawl.”

Kevin: “Okay, it’s up to you, wife.”

Hayden: “Kevin!”

Kevin: “Okay, okay, stop barking. Hayden, this bouquet is for you. It won’t wither, and it’s very practical.”

Hayden reluctantly took the bouquet of money flowers he handed over and said, “I told you not to send them, but to send them every day. These will not wither and take up a lot of space.”

Her room was now filled with big bunches of money, all given by Kevin.

She was busy at work and came home very late. She just wanted to wash and go to sleep quickly. She had no time or inclination to pick these money flowers.

If he sent it a few more times, her room wouldn't be able to accommodate it.

It had to be stuffed into her study.

"I heard that girls like two kinds of flowers the most: one is to spend when they have money, and the other is to spend casually. So I give you both."

When Kevin said this, his voice was soft, and his eyes were locked on Hayden's beautiful face. Seeing the tired look on her face, he felt heartbroken.

Married at First Sight Chapter 2708-He took Hayden's hand and said, "After you come back from Farrell's house tonight, you are not allowed to work anymore and go to bed early. Hugh is too relaxed. Give him more work."

Hayden said, "His abilities are there, and he has taken over everything that can be done for him. What doesn't let him take over is that he doesn't have the ability yet. His head is not that big, so he can't be allowed to wear such a big hat."

Hayden suddenly smiled and said, "Let Hugh know that you asked me to increase his workload so that he can jump up."

Hugh was not bad. Compared with Hayden, he was always inferior.

Moreover, the Queen Enterprise has been under the control of Hayden for several years, and she has accumulated more experience than her brother.

Kevin said, "I'm afraid he'll jump up. It makes me feel bad to see you so tired every day. He spends a lot of time with different types of confidantes every day, going shopping, having dinner parties, and living a carefree life."

Hayden said, "I'm used to days like this. If one day I really stop and don't have to do anything, I won't be used to it. Maybe I was born to work hard."

"Where is Sister Liberty?" Hayden asked.

Kevin said, "Wait at the Fortress Hotel and we go over to meet her, or should we let her go to Farrell's house first and we go directly from your company to Farrell's house?"

Hayden asked, "You didn't agree?"

Kevin: "We have a deal."

"Now that we've agreed, don't change it, so that Sister Liberty won't have to wait in the hotel in vain. If you had told us to leave earlier, I wouldn't have to wait so long." Kevin smiled and said, "I didn't think carefully enough. I thought it would be safer for Sister Liberty if we went together."

Hayden said, "Since Sister Liberty dares to come here, she has made all kinds of psychological preparations. There is no need for you to restrain Sister Liberty."

Kevin: "I didn't restrain her. I thought she was new here and didn't even have her feet on the ground, so I had to support her. So that my sister-in-law wouldn't worry."

Then Kevin said in a low voice, "That old woman is cruel and ruthless. Sister Liberty suddenly came over and touched the old woman's nerves. She is afraid that she can't sleep now because she is worried that the power she snatched will return to the right path."

After Hayden was silent, she said, "The Farrell family's rules are not good. They should not make such rules. The wise and capable should be in charge. Only in this way can people be convinced."

Kevin followed in silence.

The Farrell family's rules were indeed unacceptable.

When such rules were established at the beginning, others could still abide by them honestly, even if they were incapable of doing so. As time went by, other capable people appeared.

Especially for sisters from the same mother, the eldest sister had an innate advantage because she was older, which was very unfair to the younger sisters.

If the eldest sister was particularly outstanding, the younger sisters would have nothing to say.

What about when the eldest sister had mediocre abilities and the younger sister was particularly outstanding? Could it be that the eldest sister should also be allowed to take the position, and the younger sister should be relegated to the position of auxiliary minister?

This was not to say that the previous head of the Farrell family was useless. The previous head of the Farrell family was a little better than the current head of the Farrell family. It was just that she trusted her sister too much, and she gave birth to daughters at an advanced age, which hurt her body. That was why her sister took advantage of her.

Hayden continued: "The problems left over from history are not easy to solve. It takes a large number of heads to have the courage to change the family rules. However, after the family rules are changed, the competition will be greater, and there are still conspiracies.

Human nature cannot stand the test in the face of money, power, and status."

Hayden stopped talking.

Kevin said, "We don't want those things, and it's not our business. We just need to support Sister Liberty. What she does is her business. Sister Liberty is my sister-in-law's biological sister. Only with this relationship can we have a finger in the pie."

Otherwise, what did the past of the Farrell family have to do with them?

Hayden smiled and said, "That's natural. It's not like I'm full and have nothing to do. I'm going uninvited tonight, and eating that meal is just to show my attitude."

Let the Farrell family not dare to be too arrogant.

Who told Liberty to be her future sister-in-law?
