

Married At First Sight Chapter 3473 - 3475

Married At First Sight Chapter 3473-Elora said, "If he still doesn't give up, tell him that if he wants to cooperate with our Ormond family, then he can ask the real head of their family to come and discuss cooperation with us. He is only the acting head of the family. When the real head of the family comes back, he will not be able to make decisions or have any say."

Tinsley burst out laughing.

"Sister, if you say that to Mr. Labbe, he will be so angry that he will explode. Everyone knows that he dreams of becoming the head of the family. Unfortunately, he doesn't have the totem, token, or special chapter. No matter how many people he bribes, he is not the real head of the family, and his title is not legitimate."

Regarding the Labbe family, over the years, those who wanted to please Mr. Labbe would directly call him the head of the Labbe family, while those who were more upright would refute that he was not the head of the Labbe family.

The original head of the family was wiped out a few years ago. Those who know will know who did it.

"He has been struggling for so many years just to find the totem, the token, and the special chapter. Those things should have been taken away by the former head of the family. I don't believe that such a powerful person and his entire family were wiped out."

Someone must have escaped.

She heard that the former head of the family had a little son who escaped under the protection of a nanny, but she didn't know where the child was.

However, the incident happened only a few years ago, and she didn't even know if the child was one year old when the tragedy occurred. If he was still alive, he would be at most three or four years old.

How could a three or four-year-old child who was only in kindergarten shoulder such a heavy responsibility, let alone find out the truth about the tragedy that happened that year?

On the contrary, Elora hoped that the child would never know the truth. Without the protection of his parents and having lost everything, even if he is picked up and adopted by someone, no matter how outstanding he is, it will be difficult for him to compete with Mr. Labbe now.

If he's not careful, that child will be reunited with his family.

His parents and family tried their best to send him away and save his life. They must have hoped that he could grow up safely and healthily, get married, have children, and live an ordinary and happy life.

There are many conflicts and struggles among wealthy families. For power and profit, they fight to the death, which is comparable to a palace fighting drama.

Especially those large families that have been passed down for more than a hundred years and still have many feudal ideas left.

Elora heard that an old big family in Jensburg was suffering from serious internal strife now, and the situation was quite similar to that of the Labbe family.

The tragedy happened to the old big family in Jensburg several decades ago, and the tragedy happened to the Labbe family several years ago.

Elora suspected that the Labbe family learned the method of seizing the throne from the Jensburg Farrell family.

“One who does evil will eventually perish. One day, all the evil deeds that old pervert has done will be exposed.”

Mr. Labbe was just like Clarissa. Many people were talking about what he had done, but no one could produce useful evidence to prove that he was the murderer who wiped out an entire family.

Clarissa did it decades ago, and it was difficult to find evidence.

Mr. Labbe only did this in recent years, so there was still a chance of finding evidence.

It all depended on whether there was anyone willing to seek justice for the people whose entire family was wiped out.

“Tinsley, I don’t want to chat with you for now. I will be back after a few more days of work. Tatum brought me food.”

Elora was about to hang up when she heard Tinsley teasing on the other end of the phone, “Why do I hear a hint of expectation in your words, sister?”

“Yes, I am looking forward to it,” Elora admitted generously.

She was looking forward to the meal that Tatum would prepare for her today. She was expecting him to make new dishes with fresh and unique flavors to satisfy her picky appetite.

“Don’t make fun of me,” Elora said to Tinsley and ended the call.

As soon as she put down her phone, there was a knock on the door.

Married At First Sight Chapter 3474-“Come in,” Elora responded while standing up, walking to the sofa, and sitting down.

Tatum pushed the door open and walked in. He brought her lunch.

“Miss, it’s time for lunch.”

Tatum placed the freshly prepared dishes on the coffee table one by one.

Elora was the only one eating, so he only prepared three dishes and one soup, and they were all enough for one person.

Elora was picky about food, and there weren’t many things that made her happy, so she didn’t eat much.

Elora looked at today’s dishes. They had changed and were no longer the same as yesterday’s dishes, but they were still delicious.

Tatum considerately served her half a bowl of soup and asked her to drink it first to warm her body.

In fact, there was heating in the room, so Elora didn’t feel cold at all.

The clothes she wore were her daily work clothes, and she didn’t wear a thick coat. She didn’t even need one when going out. She took the elevator straight down to the parking lot, and there was heating in the car.

She only needed to wear a thick coat when she was inspecting the factory where she was responsible for production.

“What’s fun in Duatemala? You can go for a walk when you have time. You don’t have to stay in the hotel every day.”

Elora felt a little embarrassed for trapping Tatum in the hotel.

After all, Tatum was not just a chef; he was also a successful businessman.

After leaving the Ormond family, Tatum was also called President York by others.

Because she knew Tatum’s background, Elora’s attitude towards Tatum has always been different.

She admired those successful people who had built their empire through their own abilities.

Tatum was one of them.

Elora was capable, but she thought she was lucky. She was born into the Ormond family with a silver spoon in her mouth and became the eldest daughter. She had opportunities and capital, received the best education, and took over the vast empire built by her ancestors.

If she were allowed to start her own business from scratch, Elora didn't know how many years it would take her to stand up and own her own kingdom.

Tatum said, "I've been to all the fun places in the city center when I was free. I won't go to the scenic spots in the suburbs because they're a bit far from the city and I can't make it back to cook for you, young lady. I followed you to East City just to take care of your three meals a day. My main responsibility is to make sure you don't go hungry."

In addition to cooking, Tatum also liked traveling and photography.

The recipes in his restaurant were all photographed and made by him.

However, he was responsible for Elora's three meals a day, so it was not advisable for him to walk too far; he could only stroll around the city.

"I also bought some Duatemalo specialties. I bought them after tasting them and found them delicious. I'll bring some back for everyone to try."

He had also tried Duatemalo's special dishes and snacks.

They may not be as delicious as his dishes, but he can try other special dishes. Trying more of them will help him in cooking.

Elora would sometimes point out problems with the dishes he cooked. After he corrected them, he would eat the same dishes again and feel that they tasted better.

Tatum was glad that he knew the wife his grandmother had chosen for him was Elora, and he took action immediately.

Coming all the way here to be Elora's personal cook was both challenging and allowed him to improve his cooking skills.

Married At First Sight Chapter 3475-Elora smiled and said, "You can buy local specialties. I occasionally go out to relax when I have time, but I never think of buying local specialties. Maybe I'm just picky about food. I don't think it tastes good, so I don't want to buy it."

Elora couldn't eat many of the local specialties and snacks.

"Every time I go to a place, I buy some local specialties to bring back for my family to try. Sometimes I buy too much and give some to relatives and friends as gifts."

Tatum always spoke with a smile, and when he looked at her with a smile, it was easy to get the illusion that he liked her.

A calm person like Elora always felt happy when facing the gentle Tatum.

No wonder Tinsley had a special liking for Tatum when she first met him, and would praise him from time to time, so much so that she always felt that Tinsley liked Tatum.

“Have you eaten yet?” Elora retracted her gaze and did not meet Tatum’s eyes.

She enjoyed her lunch gracefully.

She was very satisfied with the lunch Tatum had prepared for her.

“I’ll eat later.” Tatum liked watching his wife elegantly savor the meals he prepared for her.

He thought to himself that he was born to make breakfast, probably just for Elora.

Grandma was also very capable. She carefully selected and traveled thousands of miles to find him a wife with a sharp tongue.

If it weren’t for his excellent cooking skills, he would not be able to get this wife.

At that time, they would do as Evan did, giving up the wife candidate chosen by grandma for them and chasing after one on their own.

Tatum felt that it was too time-consuming to choose and pursue on his own, so he decided to follow the red line laid out by his grandmother. At least he had a goal, and he didn’t have to spend time choosing on his own.

If he had that much time, he might as well cook a few more dishes.

For Tatum, who loved cooking, he would rather stay in the kitchen and cook than go on blind dates or chase after a wife.

Unless his future wife was very challenging for him, like Elora.

In short, Tatum had only one thought when looking at Elora: if he cannot marry Elora, Elora may remain single and be an old aunt for the rest of her life.

Elora: ... You put so much gold on your face!

Tatum not only watched Elora eat, but also watched her intently with gentle eyes and brows. Anyone who didn’t know the truth would definitely say that he was looking at his beloved.

“When you look at me like this, I feel like I’ve become a delicious dish in your eyes.” Elora had to say something to him.

Being stared at like this by him, Elora, who had a strong sense of self-control, was a little overwhelmed.

“Miss, you eat very elegantly and beautifully. As a chef, I like to watch diners happily enjoy the delicious food I cook.”

Tatum would not be stupid enough to tell Elora that she was his future wife.

There was not even a hint of fate yet.

He treated Elora as his own wife, but Elora treated him as a chef.

If he told her, Elora would fire him immediately.

Elora smiled and said, “I’ll go back to the hotel to eat tonight, so you don’t have to bring it over. Also, let’s eat dinner together and stop staring at me while I eat.”

She was a little affected.
